

Hope for the Sufferers!

LET NONE DESPAIR,
For DAILY and almost HOURLY cases are Reported, in which the effect of
THE GREAT

Humor Remedy,
HOWARD'SVEGETABLE
Canker and Cancer Syrup,

Has been to lay the Axe to the Roots of the Great Blighting
UPAS-TREE OF HUMANITY,
WHOSE FRUITS ARE DEATH!

The CANKER AND CANCER SYRUP
has the most extraordinary cleansing action on
the BLOOD, which it PURIFIES AT ITS SOURCE; and though it penetrates every organ of the Body, repairing injured Tissues, arresting the Progress of Decay, and stimulating to healthy action the Digestive, Nutritive and Circulating Organs. As nearly all
DISEASES have their ORIGIN in the BLOOD

CLEANSING AT ITS SOURCE!
This cure for now is infallibly secured by HOW-
ARD'S SYRUP, which has

Redeemed Thousands of Victims
FROM PREMATURE GRAVES!

THE SYRUP is the most efficacious Remedy
known for this dreadful Scourge of our Race, CANCER in its many forms, however obsti-
nate—completely banishing the TORTURING
KNIFE. The worst cases, given over by Physicians, have yielded to it.

CANCER, in its worst forms in youth and old age,
SCROFULA, hereditary, or recent, it completely eradicates, leaving the system without taint.

SALT RHEUM in its many aspects cannot withstand its virtues, as thousands testify.
ERYSIPELAS of the worst kind soon loses its virulent character. The Syrup is an invaluable remedy.

TUMORS need not be removed by the knife;
the Syrup dissolves them permanently.

WHITE SWELLINGS are acted on by the Syrup from the Blood. Many limbs have been saved by it.

ULCERS, however old or malignant, are healed by the Syrup without the usual danger of stopping Running Sores.

KING'S EVIL finds in the Syrup a Specific.

NEURALGIA, however distressing, has been cured by it when all other remedies have failed.

JAUNDICE is cured by the action of the Syrup on the Bile Ducts, and DYS-PEPSIA caused by vitiated or insufficient Bile
is removed.

FEMALE WEAKNESSES—it removes
with ease and certainty, and taken regularly, it
promotes the healthy periodical secretion.

RICKETS, a Child's disease, it completely eradicates, and saves years of misery, even preventing convalescence. In short it is the only safe and certain remedy known for THE CURE of

EVERY KIND OF HUMOR!

and is so permeating that, another nursing may keep their own and their infants' blood pure by its use. All suffering from Nervous Complaints, Insupportable Consumption, Exaltation and General
Debility will find it give them RENEWED
HEALTH and VIGOR.

FOR SKIN DISEASES—it is especially suited, as it soon eradicates all Blotches, Pimples, and all eruptions of the Skin, and restores the Brilliance of Health to the Complexion.

* Where irritation of the Lungs and Coughs attend the diseases named, the efficient and restoring effect of the Syrup causes relief and recovery,
and strengthens the system.

No case of failure of the SYRUP has ever been known where its use has been persevered in.

It might be easy to enter into learned scientific theories. We prefer to lay a plain story of facts before the sufferers who seek relief, therefore we now offer this

Simple Vegetable Compound
which cannot harm and certainly cures.

Sweet Memories of Thee.

When the soft stars are peeping,
Through the blue azure sky,
And Southern gales sweeping,
Their warm breathings by,
Like sweet music pealing,
Far o'er the blue sea,
There comes o'er me stealing,
Sweet memories of thee.

The bright rose when faded,
Flings forth o'er its tomb
Its velvet leaves laden
With silent perfume;
Thus round me will hover,
In grief or in glee,
Till life's dream be over,
Sweet memories of thee.

As a sweet late 'neath fingers,
In silence alone,
Unwept by light fingers,
Scarce murmurs a tone;
My young heart resembled
That late light and free,
Till o'er its chords trembled
Those memories of thee.

We have a 'Scion' not yet advanced to the dignity of jacket and trousers, who, as the genial Country Parson would say, seems to understand the art of putting things. It became necessary the other day to inflict upon him a dose of castor-oil, and the little fellow took the sickening stuff as bravely as any veteran could face a bayonet charge. A wry face or two, and his opinion of the medicament found expression as follows: Mother,

I don't think I quite like castor-oil; it's a little too rich!

So it should be with our hearts; they should vehemence: If God is with us, who can be

On my return I visited the school room, and found but one cross on the slate; and that where I least expected it, appended to the name of a beautiful, open, bright, brave child, who then promised much for the world—the fact of her having rich parents being her greatest drawback. She was the last child in the school I should have thought capable of any misconduct. The morning came; the list was read, it proved truthful; but when I came to this name I said, "My dear child you must explain; why is this? what did you do?" Looking up to me with those soulful eyes, and speaking with a soulful tone, which ever made her an object of sacred interest, she replied, "I laughed aloud—I laughed more than once; I couldn't help it, because a slate was keeping school!"

ACCIDENT. As Capt. John Packard, of this town, was returning from Boston, with his shop heavily laden with lumber, when off Fort Independence, at about half past nine o'clock on Tuesday morning last, a heavy block weighing one hundred pounds, fell a distance of sixty-five feet hitting him on the side of the head, inflicting a serious wound some five inches in length, besides other bruises. His son, who with two small boys were all the crew, went ashore and brought one of the Surgeons from the Fort, who rendered surgical aid. He was then carried in a small boat to Great Hill, where assistance was procured, and he was conveyed to his residence where he arrived about two o'clock, all this time being in an insensible state. At the last account he was quite comfortable, and in a fair way to recover.

GOING TO LEAVE US. We are sorry to announce to our readers, that we are about to lose two of our most enterprising merchants, who contemplate a great change in their business, no less than farming. Mr. Caleb Packard whose store has so long been the favorite resort of the ladies of this and neighboring towns, where they always found an excellent assortment of goods, and always met with a cordial reception, will soon leave us and we shall miss his pleasing countenance. Also Mr. Thomas Dods one of our first class merchant tailors whose garments were always well fitted and work gave general satisfaction, and whose large stock of goods was always well selected. These gentlemen contemplate going to the state of New Jersey, where they propose entering largely into farming and fruit raising.

Wishing them success in their new undertaking, we know they will carry with them the good wishes of their friends and patrons. It will be seen by referring to their advertisements that they have marked their goods down, as they are bound to sell out. Now is your time to purchase.

DIVIDEND. The Mount Wollaston Bank, of this town, has declared a semi-annual dividend of 5 per cent, exclusive of United States and Stockholders' taxes, payable Monday, Oct. 3d.

This Institution becomes a National Bank, Oct. 1st, and Stockholders are requested to leave their certificates of Stock with the Cashier to be exchanged for new certificates of the "National Mount Wollaston Bank."

MELLEAN. We are not going to speak of the hero of Antietam, but of our fellow townsman, the enterprising dry-goods dealer on the Square. With his business tact and talent, Mr. Mellean is determined that no interest shall languish where his energies can sustain it; he has, therefore, made arrangements to continue the business successfully, carried on by Mrs. Kenison. In this town, for a number of years past, which she is now about to lay aside on account of ill health. He has secured the services of a lady from the city, of large experience in her profession, to take charge of the establishment, who is competent in all the details of the business to give entire satisfaction. Under such favorable auspices, we are confident that our friend, in his new enterprise, will make the Millinery Emporium, corner of Hancock and Granite streets the abode of fashion. See card in another column.

A CHANGE. Our readers will notice by referring to the advertisement of the Horse Railroad Company that the 7-12 and 8-12 o'clock morning cars are discontinued.

Now for Bargains. It will be seen in the advertisement in to-day's paper that Mrs. Kenison proposes selling to the highest bidder on Monday next quite a variety of useful articles well adapted for the ladies, who should not fail to be present.

No Draft. Provost Marshal Hall states that all the towns in this District have filled their quotas, and there will not be any draft in this district under the last call.—North Bridgewater Gazette.

Ratification Meeting at Braintree.

The union men of Braintree held a grand ratification meeting at the Town Hall, in that town, on Monday evening last, the 26th instant. Delegates were present from Weymouth, Randolph, Stoughton, and Quincy. The meeting was called to order and the organization of the meeting was completed. F. A. Hobart, Esq., of Braintree, was chosen President, assisted by a long array of Vice Presidents, among whom were H. H. Faxon, William S. Morton, Joseph W. Robertson, Henry Barker, Noah A. Glover, and Wymann Abercrombie, Esqrs., of this town.

Addresses were made by the President, F. A. Hobart, Hon. Henry Wilson, of Na-tick, and J. Q. A. Griffin, of Charlestown.

Mr. Wilson, on rising, was greeted by immense applause, lasting several minutes, which, subsiding, three cheers were proposed for him, and they were given with a will. He said: "Mr. President, ladies and gentlemen, our country, the land of our affections and pride, is now rent and torn by civil war. For more than forty months the land has trembled beneath the tread of armed men. Our good old Commonwealth of Massachusetts has sent one hundred thousand of her sons to fight her battles. Fathers have sent their sons who bore their names and inherited their blood. The young men of Massachusetts have gone forth at the call of their country, to yield up their lives, if need be, in her defence, and we implore Almighty God to bless them. On the banks of the Mississippi, on the shores of Carolina, with Sherman's advancing columns at Atlanta, with Banks at Louisiana, and Grant before Richmond, Massachusetts men have borne a conspicuous part in the history of this struggle. Many are famishing in rebel camps. But thanks be to God, many of them still live, and stand ready, under the stars-at-night, at tap of drum, to face the rebel legions. But gentlemen, we have at home here a duty to perform; we are bound as solemnly as our soldiers, to think, act, fight and vote for our country, and any man who gives a vote upon any motive other than for the benefit of our country, at such a time as this, is a traitor. Any man who at home can give a vote at which traitors in arms can cheer, is himself a traitor. We are asked to take from Abraham Lincoln the power of the country and give it to others. Now, who are they? This is a rebellion of Democrats. No one is in it but Democrats. I will give an opportunity to any man, to show if he can any Republican who helped to bring on this war. Only after five months of genuine civil war, did the people spring to arms. Frank Pierce, in a letter found at Jeff Davis's house, has repeated what he had said before, that blood would flow in our streets if the North resisted their attempts to secede. But when the guns of Sumter boomed forth, the Democrats who assured the South that they would be true to them, were cowed. Never has there been a time when Fernando Wood and his partners were not ready to stab their country. On the next day after the Chicago Convention, a Liverpool paper, (and there was no Atlantic telegraph), announced that the delegates had agreed with Sanders, Holcombe & Co., Confederate commissioners, upon the platform to be adopted, and the candidates to be placed upon it. Bad as the platform is, it is better than the men who made it. Who called this Convention to order? August Belmont, a Jew broker, a money changer, one of that tribe who were expelled from the temple. And who presided at the Convention? Horatio Seymour, who stated at a public meeting that the Montgomery Constitution was better than our own; who was surrounded by a motley mob in New York, and called them his "friends," while their hands were red with the blood of innocent victims, and their pockets full of plunder. There was Garrett Davis, who stood up and told them that they must repudiate this government, and call a Convention. They not only in their platform attempt to speak for themselves but for the American people. My heavens! I tell them that Ulysses S. Grant fought the rebel ranks and rebel forts in Mobile bay, to ask for a cessation of hostilities? Imagine these men following Sheridan down the Shenandoah, after the defeat of Early, and imploring him to cease hostilities. Imagine the General turning to them, saying, "Gentlemen, next November will witness the total cessation of the Peace Democracy." In the present condition of the country, with Sherman at Atlanta, the Mississippi river clear, Mobile Bay in our possession, and Sheridan victorious, whoever can proclaim immediate cessation of hostilities on our part, is a fool or a traitor; and is as certain to pass into history as a traitor as the Tories of the Revolution.

The British Minister told a person that our government had no idea how near exhausted the rebels are; as steps are taken, and when the rebellion is laid in the face, the tongue out and in our grasp, the Northern Democrats wish to pull us off. Why? They want Jeff Davis, Toombs, and others back, because they are their leaders. They denounce the use of the black man for soldiers, and advocate the disbanding of the one hundred thousand men mustered in to the service. A black man has a good right to put a bullet through the head of a traitor as anybody else. From the time of the Proclamation, the cause of the country has steadily advanced. We shall put down the rebellion and the brave soldiers, with their well-earned laurels, will return to their vacant places at home. Then will the star of American liberty burn bright, and freedom find a permanent resting place over the whole land."

The meeting closed with three cheers for Lincoln and Johnson, the army and navy.

East Norfolk Senatorial District.

We understand that the name of Colonel Bates, of Weymouth, late of the 12th Massachusetts Regiment, is prominently mentioned in connection with the position of Senator from this District. It is in no spirit of partisanship,—certainly from no wish to disparage other aspirants, that we should hail such a nomination as one pre-eminently fit to be made.

Colonel Bates has been in active service since the commencement of the war; uniting as Captain of the Weymouth Company, from which position he was promoted, step by step, to the Colonelcy. The gallant deeds of that Regiment have passed into history—written in blood upon almost every battle field in Virginia, and need no voice or pen to herald them. And it is no exaggeration to say—what the united testimony of his comrades in the field will verify—that among the tens of thousands of heroic sons whom Massachusetts has given to this great struggle, no one has borne himself with more fidelity to his men, in camp and on the march, or more bravely in action, than Colonel Bates. Such men, if any, the people should, and will, delight to honor. For it is such who will reflect more honor upon the office, however exalted, in which a gratified country may place them, than the office can possibly confer upon them.

We hope that the Convention, now soon to be held, will, without opposition from any quarter, unanimously present the name of Colonel Bates for the suffrages of his constituents in the coming election.

Col. James L. Bates.

To the Publisher of the Patriot:
WEYMOUTH, SEPT. 29th, 1864.

At a caucus of the Republicans of Weymouth held last evening it was unanimously voted to recommend to the Senatorial Convention for the East Norfolk District, the nomination of Col. James L. Bates, of the 12th Mass. Volunteers, as the Republican Candidate for Senator from this District, at the ensuing election; and the following gentlemen were appointed Delegates to that Convention, viz:—Messrs. James Humphrey, John W. Loud, Benj. F. White, E. S. Beals, John S. Fogg, John R. Lovell, David S. Murray, Charles E. Hunt and Oliver Loud.

ANNAPOLIS, (MD) AUG. 29th, 1864.

MRS. KELLY: Madam: It is a sad and unpleasant duty for me to inform you of the death of your husband, John Kelly, of Co. D, 39th Mass. Vol. He was wounded in the hip at Spottsylvania, May 8th, 1864, and together with myself, was taken prisoner and carried to Richmond. John suffered a good deal from his wound, and bore up under a good deal more than hundreds of others whose constitutions were less strong.

He had the chronic diarrhoea severely, and as the hospital did not permit any thing for the benefit of the sick, one so weak as he got to be, could get no nourishment to keep him alive. He lingered until the 25th of July, (8-12 A. M.) when he passed away. I lay beside him on the battle field, wounded, and was with him up to the hour of his death.

He did not expect to die, although we told him he could not live. One of the priests of the city, whose duty brought him to the hospital, did all he could for him, and I have no doubt but what John made his peace with his Maker.

The deceased was twenty-eight years of age, last August. Yours truly,

A DISCOURSE, occasioned by the death of the Hon. Josiah Quincy, by Ezra S. Gannett, with the proceedings of the City Council, of Boston, and of the Government of Harvard University. This is a neat pamphlet (8vo) of 38 pages, and brought out in Wilson & Son's best style. As a biography of the eminent dead, it is a rich legacy for the American people.

COMMENDATION. The Portland Mirror, one of our oldest and best exchanges, has the following notice of us in its last issue:—"QUINCY PATRIOT: This is one of the Boston suburban weeklies which 'still lives.' Aside from its office corps, it has its Foreign Correspondence, its Book Reviewer and interesting writers from the army. The review of the week in the last number contains some admirable suggestions, as does also the letter from London."

THE MIRROR OF FASHION AND ILLUSTRATED MONTHLY. This old favorite in the fashionable world, has undergone a change and came out in a new dress in the September issue. M. M. Demorets proposes to connect with the Mirror, preserving all its former features, a literary department, which will receive the support of some of our most eminent writers. The Mirror, heretofore, has been a quarterly issue, in quarto form, at one dollar a year; it will now be published monthly, in the same form, at three dollars a year. By this arrangement, and under its new baptismal name, the publisher hopes to render it the especial organ of American ladies. We think she will succeed.

"WINTER IS COMING." To protect your health and to keep your feet dry and warm, thus avoiding the doctor's bill, it is very essential that you should call at Curtis's Shoe Store and get the remedy.

Millinery Goods.

Auction.

Will be sold at Public Auction, on MONDAY, Oct. 3d, at 2 o'clock, P. M., at the Residence of Mrs. A. J. Kenison, Washington Street, the following articles:—Bonnets, trimmed and untrimmed, Hats, Ribbons, Feathers, Flowers, Fringes, Silks, Satins, and other materials suitable for making Bonnets, &c.

High Prices. The New York Times of Wednesday morning last, after reviewing the subject of the fall in gold and in prices of goods, says:—

The retailers ought now to come down in their prices. But they will not, for the reason that the dealers and speculators will combine for a time to hold them up. They are making fortunes by high prices, or they wish to save themselves from great losses, if they sell at gold rates. Market rates will descend slowly. The only way to bring them down for consumers temporarily to combine. Let every one who would this week buy a new hat, or coat, or cotton dress, or house furniture, or who would lay in stores for the table or the winter, hold off a little. Two or three weeks' waiting will make but little difference in the purchases for many families, and a fortnight may see a vast reduction in prices. In marketing, of course, every one must buy every day; but here we can all seek out especially the cheap dealers, or we can economize for a time. The speculators have been making fortunes from us, and now our turn must come. Let every one determine to delay all possible expenditures for a short period, and the dealers and shop-keepers must make a great reduction of charges. And then the very amount of previous speculation will help the consumers; for, as large stocks have been bought in anticipation of a rise, they must be forced on the market in fear of a yet greater fall, and sold at a sacrifice.

Summary of Intelligence.

ORIGINAL AND SELECTED.

No army, it is said, was ever better fed than our army on the James river, the Subsistence Department being active and the communication uninterrupted. Some of the individual commissions for supplying vegetables to the army have been overdoing the onion and cabbage business. Thirty thousand of the latter vegetables received were lying rotting at City Point for want of consumers.

Large quantities of wood have been purchased by parties in Newport, at reduced prices, from East Greenwich and elsewhere, and a cargo of 100 tons of coal arrived last week, purchased at the fountain head, which will cost consumers about $14 50 per ton of 2240 pounds.

New Hampshire newspapers have dwindled in number from forty to twenty-nine. The postage stamp system has been adopted in all parts of the world by ninety different kingdoms, states, provinces, colonies, islands and free cities.

The Empress of Austria has ceased to wear crimoline and forbidden all persons to wear it in her presence.

The Old Colony Association of Universalists will hold a convention in Hingham, on Wednesday and Thursday of next week. The state convention will meet at Worcester on the 18th, 19th, and 20th of October.

The American Wood Paper Company at Providence, advertise for 10,000 cords of wood suitable for their purpose. Success to them.

STURGIS' ELECTRIC COMPOUND.
An Effectual External Remedy for NEURALGIA
—AND—
RHEUMATISM.
ALSO, INVALUABLE FOR
Spinal Irritation, Ague in the Face
Toothache, Pain in the Side,
Back, and Limbs, Ear,
Ague, &c.
Among the Advantages of this Medicine are the following:
Its effect is very rapid—in most cases instantaneous.
It is external in its application, and the patient runs no risk in using it. It does not strike to the stomach.
It reaches the nerves and muscles, as it is believed no other medicine does.
It has cured some of the most violent and obstinate cases of Neuralgia ever known.
It can be used on a child or an aged person alike.
While it is very powerful, it is perfectly harmless.
The proprietor has been allowed to publish the names of many persons who have used the Compound with the most beneficial results. He inserts a few of them. They are among the most respectable citizens of Boston and other places, and their residences and places of business are given.

WILLIAM H. BREWSTER, Publisher of Boston Traveller.
The following letter from one of our best citizens, will speak for itself.
Rev. JOSEPH E. BARRY, the children's missionary of Boston, was the recipient of a few weeks since of a bottle of Sturgis' Electric Compound, for Neuralgia, Rheumatism, &c., and has experienced great benefit from its use, and having known of many severe cases of the above complaints where it produced cures, considers it his duty to make known to his friends and acquaintances, and to those who are troubled with these terrible complaints, the virtue of this preparation.
JOSEPH E. BARRY.
Boston, Sept. 15, 1863.
REMARKABLE CURE OF NEURALGIA:—The following letter, (unpublished,) was received by the proprietor in May last, in "perfectly cured" words, and is in "perfectly cured" words, and is in "perfectly cured" words.
Dear Sir: I have been for some weeks suffering from a severe attack of Neuralgia, the severest of which has been caused, I believe, by an "agony" tooth and eye. Having heard of Sturgis' Electric Compound from a "companion in arms," I was induced to give it a trial, which has done the happy effect to immediately cure me. I am surprised that surgeons do not have it in the army, as there is a constant demand for such a valuable relief. I make this statement for the public good, and I have no scruples about your using this as a recommendation to other victims of this painful disorder.
Yours, respectfully,

U. S. 7-30 LOAN.
The Secretary of the Treasury gives notice that subscriptions will be received for Coupon Treasury Notes, payable three years from Aug. 15, 1864, with semi-annual interest at the rate of seven and three tenths per cent. per annum—principal and interest both to be paid in lawful money.
These notes will be convertible at the option of the holder at maturity, into six per cent. gold bearing Bonds, payable not less than five nor more than twenty years from their date, as the Government may elect. They will be issued in denominations of $50, $100, $500, $1,000, and $5,000, and all subscriptions must be for fifty dollars or some multiple of fifty dollars.
The notes will be transmitted to the owners free of transportation charges as soon after the receipt of the original Certificates of Deposit as they can be prepared.
As the notes draw interest from August 15, persons making deposits subsequent to that date must pay the interest accrued from date of note to date of deposit.
Parties depositing twenty-five thousand dollars and upwards for these notes at any one time will be allowed a commission of one-quarter of one per cent., which will be paid by the Treasury Department upon the receipt of a bill for the amount, certified by the officer with whom the deposit was made. No deductions for commissions must be made from the deposits.
SPECIAL ADVANTAGES OF THIS LOAN.
It is a NATIONAL SAVINGS BANK, offering a higher rate of interest than any other, and the BEST SECURITY. Any savings bank which pays its depositors in United States Notes, considers that it is paying in the best circulating medium of the country, and it CANNOT pay in anything better, for its own assets are either in government securities or in notes or bonds payable in government paper.
It is equally convenient as a temporary or permanent investment. The notes can always be sold for within a fraction of their face and accumulated interest, and are the best security with banks as collaterals for discounts.
Convertible into a Six per cent. $5.20 Gold Bond.
In addition to the very liberal interest on the notes for three years, this privilege of conversion is now worth about three per cent. per annum, for the current rate for $5.20 Bonds is not less than nine per cent. premium, and before the war the premium on six per cent. United States stocks was over twenty per cent. It will be seen that the actual profit on this loan, at the present market rate, is not less than ten per cent. per annum. Its exemption from State or Municipal taxation
But aside from all the advantages we have enumerated, a special Act of Congress exempts all Bonds and Treasury notes from local taxation. On the average, this exemption is worth about two per cent. per annum, according to the rate of taxation in various parts of the country.
It is believed that no securities offer so great inducements to lenders as those issued by the government. In all other forms of indebtedness, the faith or ability of private parties, or stock companies, or separate communities, only, is pledged for payment, while the whole property of the country is held to secure the discharge of all the obligations of the United States.
While the government offers the most liberal terms for its loans, it believes that the very strongest appeal will be to the loyalty and patriotism of the people.
Duplicate certificates will be issued for all deposits. The party depositing must endorse upon the original certificate the denomination of notes required, and whether they are to be issued in blank or payable to order. When so endorsed it must be left with the officer receiving the deposit, to be forwarded to the Treasury Department.
SUBSCRIPTIONS WILL BE RECEIVED BY THE Treasurer of the United States, at Washington, the several Assistant Treasurers and designated Depositories; and by the Respectable Banks and Bankers throughout the country will give further information and Afford every Facility to Subscribers.

Poetry.

The Little People.

A dreary place would be this earth
Were there no little people in it;
The song of life would lose its mirth,
Were there no children to begin it.

No little forms like buds to grow,
And make the admiring heart surrender;
No little hands on breast and brow,
To keep the thrilling love-chorus tender.

No babe within our arms to lead,
No little feet toward slumber tending;
No little knee in prayer to bend,
Our lips the sweet words lending.

What would the mothers do for work,
Were there no pants or jackets teeing?
No tiny dresses to embroider!
No cradle for their watchful caring?

No rosy boys, at Winty morn,
With satchel to the school house hasting;
No merry shouts as home they rush;
No precious morsel for their tasting.

Tall, grave, grown-up people at the door;
Tall, grave, grown-up people at the table;
The men on business all intent,
The dames legulious as they're able.

The sterner souls would get more stern,
Unfeeling natures more inhuman,
And man to stoic coldness turn,
And woman would be less than woman.

For in that clime 'tward which we reach,
Through Time's mysterious, dim unfolding
The little ones with cherub smile
Are still our Father's face beholding.

So said his voice in whom we trust,
When in Judea's realm a preacher;
He made a child confront the proud,
And he in simple guise their teacher.

Life's song, indeed, would lose its charm,
Were there no babies to be born;
A doleful place this world would be,
Were there no little people in it.

The American Flag.

Madmen, spare that flag!
Touch not a single star;
From sea to mountain crag,
Its stripes have gleamed afar;
'Twas our forefathers' hand
That gave it as our lot,
There, madmen, let it stand,
Your rage shall harm it not!
That flag of Liberty,
Whose glory and renown,
Are spread o'er land and sea;
And would ye strike it down?
Madmen, suspend your will,
Cut not its heaven-born ties;
Our Country's ensign still,
Sleep with celestial dyes!

To-day and To-morrow.

To-day man lives in pleasure, wealth and pride,
To-morrow poor, of life itself denied.
To-day lays plans for many years to come,
To-morrow sinks into the silent tomb.
To-day his food is dressed in dainty forms,
To-morrow he is dressed in dusty worms.
To-day he is clad in gaudy rich array,
To-morrow shrouded for a bed of clay.
To-day enjoys his balls, built to his mind,
To-morrow to a coffin is confined.
To-day he floats on honor's lofty wave,
To-morrow leaves his title for a grave.
To-day his beautiful visage we extol,
To-morrow loathsome in the sight of all.
To-day he has delusive dreams of heaven,
To-morrow cries, "Too late to be forgiven."
To-day he lives in hopes as light as air,
To-morrow dies in anguish and despair.

Anecdotes.

An Irishman, who found on the street a bill of fare of a recent dinner at the Kirkwood House, Washington, discovered therein the information of "oysters cooked in champagne," as one of the dishes served.
"Bedad," says Pat, drawing his sleeves across his thirsty mouth, "I wish I was an oyster."

A negro, at the point of death, was told by his minister that he must forgive a certain Carle, against whom he seemed to entertain very bitter feelings.

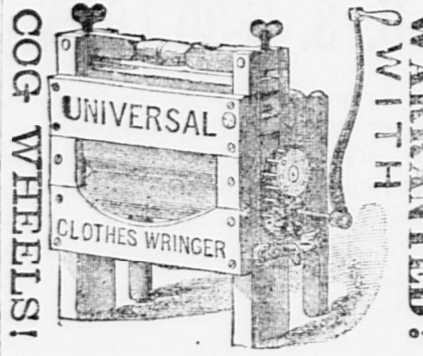

Yes, said he, replied, if I dies I forgib dat nigger; but if I gits well, dat nigger must take care.

A correspondent tells of a chap who was drinking at a counter, and whilst being tolerably tight, after several attempts to raise the glass to his lips, succeeded in getting it high enough to pour the contents inside his shirt collar, and set the glass down with the exclamation: "That's good, but a little too much ice, Mr. Barkeeper."

A little boy, while writhing under the torture of an ague, was told to rise up and take a powder his mother had prepared for him.
Powder! powder! said he raising himself on one elbow, and putting on a smile; mother, I isn't a gun.

A gentleman having occasion to call upon an author, found him at home in his writing chamber. He remarked the great heat of the apartment, and said it was as hot as an oven.
So it ought to be, replied the writer, for it is here where I make my bread.

A jockey at the Maze races, England, asked an eminent Yankee if they had any such swift horses in America.
Swift, said Jonathan, why, I guess we have. I've seen a horse at Baltimore, on a sunny day, start against his own shadow and beat it a quarter of a mile at the first heat.

TO FEMALES IN DELICATE HEALTH.
DR. DOW, Physician and Surgeon, No. 7 Endicott Street, Boston, is consulted daily for all diseases incident to the female system. Prolapsus Uteri or Floor Albus, Suppression, and other Menstrual derangements, are all treated on new pathological principles, and speedy relief guaranteed in a very few days. So invariably certain is the new mode of treatment, that most delicate complaints yield under it, and the afflicted person soon enjoys perfect health.

Dr. Dow has no doubt had greater experience in the cure of diseases of women than any other Physician in Boston.

Boarding accommodations for patients who may wish to stay in Boston a few days under his treatment.

Dr. Dow, since 1845, having confined his whole attention to an office practice for the cure of Private Diseases and Female Complaints, acknowledges no superior in the United States.

The Singer SEWING MACHINES.

OUR LETTER A

Family Sewing Machine

Is fast gaining a world-wide reputation.

It is beyond doubt the

BEST AND CHEAPEST

And Most Beautiful of all Family Sewing Machines yet offered to the public. No other Family Sewing Machine has so many useful appliances for Hemming, Binding, Felling, Tucking, Gathering, Gauging, Braiding, Embroidering, Cording, and so forth. No other Family Sewing Machine has so much capacity for a great variety of work. It will sew all kinds of cloth, and with all kinds of thread. Great and recent improvements make our Family Sewing Machine most reliable, and most durable, and most certain in action at all rates of speed. It makes the interlocked stitch which is the best stitch known. Any one, even of the most ordinary capacity, can see at a glance, how to use the Letter A Family Sewing Machine. Our Family Sewing Machines are finished in chaste and exquisite style.

The Folding Case of the Family Machine is a piece of cunning workmanship of the most useful kind. It protects the machine when not in use, and when about to be operated may be opened as a spacious and substantial table to sustain the work. While some of the Cases, made out of the choicest woods, are finished in the simplest and chastest manner possible, others are adorned and embellished in the most costly and superb manner.

It is absolutely necessary to see the Family Machine in operation, so as to judge of its great capacity and beauty.

It is fast becoming as popular for family sewing as our Manufacturing machines are for manufacturing purposes.

The Branch Offices are well supplied with silk, twist, thread, needles, oil, &c., of the very best quality.

NUMBER XLII.

Hope for the Sufferers!

LET NONE DESPAIR,
For DAILY and almost HOURLY cases are Reported, in which the effect of
THE GREAT

Humor Remedy,
HOWARD'S
VEGETABLE
Canker and Cancer Syrup,
Has been to lay the axe to the roots of the
Great Blighting
UPAST-TRIE OF HUMANITY,
WHOSE FRUITS ARE DEATH!

THE CANCER AND CANCER SYRUP
has the most extraordinary cleansing action on
the BLOOD, which it PURIFIES AT ITS SOURCE, and though it penetrates every organ of the body, restoring injured Tissues, arresting the progress of Decay, and stimulating the healthy action of the Digestive, Nutritive and Circulatory Organs. As merely all DISEASES have their ORIGIN in the BLOOD
its fountain should be
CLEANSED AT ITS SOURCE!
This cure can be infallibly secured by HOW-
ARD'S SYRUP, which has

Redeemed Thousands of Victims

FROM PREMATURE GRAVES!

THE SYRUP is the most efficacious Remedy
known for that dreadful Scourge of our Race,

CANCER in its many forms, however obsti-
nate—completely banishing the TORTURING
KNIFE. The worst cases, given over by Physicians, have yielded to it.

CANCER, in its worst forms in
young and old.

SCROFULA, hereditary, or recent, it completely eradicates, leaving the system without taint.

SALT RHEUM in its many aspects, can-
not withstand its virtues, as thousands testify.

ERYSIPELAS of the most kind soon loses its violent character. The Syrup is an unfailing remedy.

TUMORS need not be removed by the knife;
the Syrup dissolves them permanently.

WHITE SWELLINGS are acted on by the Syrup through the Blood. Many limbs have been saved by it.

ELABORATE, however old or malignant, are healed by the Syrup without the usual danger of
stopping Running Sores.

KING'S EVIL finds in the Syrup a Specific.

NEURALGIA, however distressing, has been cured by it when all other remedies have failed.

JAUNDICE is cured by the action of the
Syrup on the Liver and Bile Ducts, and DIS-TENSION caused by stasis or indigestion. Bile
is removed.

FEMALE WEAKNESSES—it removes
with ease and certainty, and taken regularly, it promotes the healthy principle of circulation.

RICKETS, a Child's disease, it completely eradicates, and saves years of misery,
even preventing consumption. In short it is the only safe and certain remedy known for THE
CURE OF

EVERY KIND OF HUMOR!

and is so permeating that mothers nursing may keep their own and their infants' blood pure by
its use. All suffering from Nervous Complaints, Insupportable Constipation, Prolapsus and General Debility will find it give them REVEREND HEALTH AND YOUTH.

FOR SKIN DISEASES—it is especially suited, as it cures all skin diseases, Blotches, Pimples, &c., and imparts the Brilliance of Health to the Complexion.

* * * Where irritation of the Lungs and Cough attend the disease, the Syrup, the excellent and soothing effect of the Syrup cures relief and repose,
and strengthens the system.

No case of failure of the SYRUP has ever been
known where its use has been persevered in.

It might be easy to recite many learned scientific theories. We prefer to say a plain story of facts before the sufferer who seeks relief, therefore we now offer this

Simple Vegetable Compound
which cannot harm and certainly cures.

The Wife of a Man of Gold.

I saw her to-day in a crowded street,
On the arm of a man of gold;
Still regally beautiful—still as sweet—
As she was in the days of old.

Yet Fashion swept brilliantly by unseen,
The exquisite ogle in vain;
No glance left the eye of the splendid queen,
Unless loaded with hold disdain.

A change has come over the lady, then,
A change which is travail of flames—
She is sick of homage from brainless men,
And the gossip of soulless dames.

I marked the lines on her dignified face—
It was a smothered year ago;
No eyes save mine saw the terrible trace,
Chiseled only by tears, I know.

She lives in a house of a millionaire,
In parlors with luxury gilded—
There are diamonds pins that she may wear,
There are dresses of royal cost.

Rich revels will rise at her sweet command—
Her partner will never say nay;
Yet she seems to shrink from the golden hand
Which she swore to love and obey.

Perhaps she remembers the by-gone years,
When her home was poorer than now—
When smiles were the victors instead of tears,
And comfort the victor of show;

When the morning sun from the country skies
Softly fell on her sleeping face,
Instead of the blaze in her weary eyes,
And the glare on her gown of lace.

Perhaps she remembers the bird's clear song,
Instead of the opera still;
Or the brook where she sat so soft and long,
In love for silver is still.

Perhaps she remembers the May-day dance,
In the place of the midnight waltz,
And the hand which fell over her's by chance—
Rough, heavy and brown—not false!

She may have thought of the past so sweet,
When her heart and hand were free—
A thought of the man who fell at her feet
'Neath the shade of an old oak tree!

She thinks of a promise she made to one,
Who was her's in the days of old;
And she thinks of what she has lost and won,
As she walks with the man of gold.

Miscellaneous.

The Thirty-nine Dollar Mare.

Some years ago, while travelling in the State of Maine, I chanced to halt at an out-of-the-way tavern in those parts—in the barroom of which, during the evening, I heard the substance of the following story related.

It may divert a portion of your readers, good Spirit, and so I write it out for you.

Speaking of horses—remarked the leading talker of the evening—speaking of horses reminds me of a mare I knew a long time ago, when three minute nags weren't so plenty as we hear told about now-a-days.

There was a blacksmith in the town where I then lived who generally owned a rasher, for those times—though almost his entire fortune was ordinarily invested in his crab. He sold his old mare, one day, and kept his eye open for another beast, when the right kind of an animal might fall in his way.

It chanced, soon afterward, that there came to the door of his little shop, one day, a grey mare—a long lean-bodied wench—the owner of which desired to have her shod. The blacksmith looked in her mouth (as horsemen sometimes will) and then he tried her dock.

He stood in front of her, and then beside her,
and then examined her feet—and then went to work to shoe her.

How old is she? he asked quietly, as he proceeded to pare and trim her hoofs.

Nine years come spring, said the owner.

The blacksmith looked in her mouth again,
and said—Yes, you can warrant that.

Warrant! Well, she's a good beast, anyhow, responded the other.

Is she sound?

As a fresh hick'ry nut.

Kind?

As a cosset sheep.

Maybe you'd sell her? continued the blacksmith, slowly, as he finished her last foot.

Yes, replied the owner, handing the blacksmith a dollar for his job. Yes, I'll sell her.

How much money—cash down?

Forty-five dollars.

Five-and-forty! She must be a good 'un, then.

She is a good one.

Say forty, stranger, and I'll venture to take her.

The bargain was closed, the stranger walked away with his old saddle on his arm, and the grey mare walked into the blacksmith's little shed-stable. It was a heap of money for him to put into a single horse, but he thought she had some good points in her making-up, notwithstanding the fact that she hadn't been over fed of late, or too carefully groomed.

A little care and grooming very soon developed her, more satisfactorily, and the purchaser chancing to be a dozen miles from home, one night, hurried up her cakes on his way back, and led a noted three minute pelter straight into town, like open and shut.

Well done! Well done, old Thirty-nine, said the blacksmith, enthusiastically, as he applied two huge straw whips to her reeking sides—nor left her, while a single hair was turned upon her body. Well done, old 'oman! I'll take you round Walnut Hill, and will see about this. And he did take her there—once, twice, thrice—fifty times;
but he said nothing, only that the mare was a good creature to draw, and he was content with her.

At the end of four or five months, the old man took a leather pouch, shot up shop, and rode his grey mare into Boston—halting at the old Eastern Stage House, in Ann-street.
Here he remained, quietly, for three or four days, scarcely showing himself, and never speaking of his mare.

One evening he overheard some of the boys in the bar-room talking horse, and he listened earnestly.

Go? said one of them, I rather think he can—in two-fifty sure!

Ha-ha! roared the rest, (for three-minute horses, even, were not very plenty at that period.)

Go! I'd like to match him, against something that can trot. Your wiggles, and rack-ers, and runners are not the thing. Give me a square trotter, and I can just leave him!

That's all.

Can you? asked a voice near by modestly.

The company turned about, and saw an unshorn, rough-visaged man, sitting in his shirt sleeves, to whom the young buck did not reply, at all.

Our blacksmith (for it was he) continued to smoke his pipe. The boys put their heads together for a talk—and the foremost asked—Perhaps you've got a horse that you would like to exercise a little?

Yaas, I don't mind a little exercise for the old mare—but you don't bate nothing on it, I take it.

Why yes. Just for the name of the thing, we'll go five hundred or so.

Five hundred what? exclaimed the green-un, jumping from his chair and smashing his pipe at the same moment.

Five hundred dollars to be sure.

O, git out! You're joking.

No—we can't trot 'im short of that, it wouldn't pay.

Wal, now, look here, nabur, I'll tell you what I'll dew. I'll trot hossagin hoss, youn agin mine in harness.

No, sir, that won't do.

But five hundred! Come say fifty. That's enough, rally.

But there was no other way, and the blacksmith placed his money at last in the landlord's hands, when the sharpeners instantly covered.

Do you know him? they asked, as the old fellow moved off.

No, said the host. He has just come in from Salem, he says.

The preliminaries were quickly arranged, and the afternoon but one following was agreed upon for the trot—over the Upper Mill Dam road. Everybody had heard of the quack bet before the next evening, and the road was lined with pedestrians and carriages.

The challenging party lived in Charlestown,
and the horse they had named was the crack of the time; so they cared nothing about what was to trot against him, and asked no questions.

The day was clear and cool, and the blacksmith had been upon the ground full two hours. His grey mare stood by the roadside, in a wretched harness and worse gig (though the latter was light and strong), and several times, as the company gathered, she had been moved and buffeted for being in the way of gentlemen. She bore her persecutions meekly, however, and the blacksmith, in his shirt-sleeves, said nothing.

Where's your horse? asked the confident jockey, who was to drive his competitor.

She'll be here in time, no doubt. Don't go teavin' yourself any extra trouble about her, now, cause you'll hev your hands full, I'm thinkin', by and bye. Wot'd yer give that 'ere skilley you've got on yer head?

That's my riding cap, Sawney.

Edsackly. And them silk fixins. Arnt them rather costly?

Where's your horse. Time's up.

Out the way

THE QUINCY PATRIOT.

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are we."

QUINCY STONE BANK. At the Stockholders meeting of this bank, held on 4th inst., the following gentlemen were chosen Directors for the ensuing year: Charles Marsh, Josiah Brigham, Daniel Baxter, Charles R. Mitchell and John D. Whitcher of Quincy; Jesse Banton, Milton; James Torrey, Weymouth; Edwin S. Bradford, Braintree.

It was voted to take steps to convert the bank into a National Institution.

At a subsequent meeting of the Board of Directors, Charles Marsh was re-elected President.

We understand that this bank which, soon after the breaking out of the rebellion, found itself with upwards of $25,000 of suspended southern paper, has by partial payments and charging off from its current earnings and surplus fund, wiped out every dollar, and now has a clear surplus of something more than five per cent.

FIRE. On Tuesday evening last at about eleven o'clock, a fire broke out in the large stables of the Granite Railway Company, in the Railway Village in the west part of this town. The buildings with its contents, consisting of seven horses, four oxen and about fifteen tons of hay were entirely destroyed. There was no alarm given in this village, and it was not known by many that there had been a fire. It was the work of an incendiary. The loss is estimated at about $5,000, and is partially covered by insurance.

RETURNED. Lieut. Daniel F. French of Company E, 56 Regt. who has been at home a number of weeks, recovering from several wounds received while in battle before Petersburg, returned to his command one day last week. May good success attend him, and new laurels be added to the many honors thus far achieved by this patriotic son of Quincy.

SURPRISE AND PRESENTATION. We learn from the Boston Journal, that on Tuesday evening last, the friends of Lieut. Jonas Shackley of this town, who is about to join his command, took him completely by surprise by an assault upon his residence, armed with a variety of good things. During the evening, Miss Fuller, in behalf of the company, in a neat and appropriate speech, presented to him the sum of fifty dollars, for the purchase of a sword, belt and sash. The gift was gratefully accepted by the Lieutenant, who responded in a brief but feeling manner to the remarks of Miss Fuller. The company separated at a late hour animated by the best of feeling.

WELCOME HOME. Commissary William H. Whiting, of the army of the Potomac, reached home on Saturday last. He is in fine health and excellent spirits. He gives a cheering account of the situation of the army—and thinks, under the skill and energy of its popular Commander, the object of the campaign will be triumphantly effected. Young Whiting entered the service as a private, but by his good conduct and soldierly bearing, rose to an office of responsibility. He was a member of Company D, and attached to a cavalry corps, in the Massachusetts Cavalry. The first point of his destination, was Hilton's Head, South Carolina; but was soon transferred, with his comrades, to the army of the Potomac. He has shared largely in the dangers and privations of that noble army; followed Grant up the Rappahannock through the Wilderness, down to Petersburg, to participate in the fearful conflicts before that place; and now, after a three years' service on the bloody field of Mars, he has returned to that home, where he knows a cordial greeting awaits him.

Mr. John B. Bass paid us a visit a few days since on his new "understanding". The substitute for the limb he lost in the spring of 1861, in the army of the West, we examined, and from the ease and agility of his motions, we could not discover what he performed his part as well, as many, with a natural limb, with the tendons, sinews, ligatures, etc., all in perfect working order. He is now released from his crutches, and moves about glibly with the use only of a cane. So much for art. If the imitations could only be inspired with vitality, the loss of such a member would not be so great a misfortune after all. Many a gouty individual would covet the exchange.

Rev. A. St. John Chabre, will preach to-morrow in the Universalist Church in this town.

FLAG RAISING. Quincy "keeps step to the music of the Union." She is preparing for the conflict. A splendid flag was thrown to the breeze, by the Republicans, on Monday last, bearing the names of Lincoln and Johnson, under whose folds they will rally their hosts. The McClellan men, are to raise theirs on Monday next. The ceremony will take place about six o'clock, which will be made an occasion of interest, by public speaking and other demonstrations.

Case of Charles P. Tirrell—His Affidavit

I, CHARLES P. TIRRELL, on oath depose, and say, that I am a citizen of Quincy, and was born and have always resided there. I am now sixty-five years of age; that for six years I was in the service of John Adams, the second President of the United States; and have since, for a period of upwards of forty years, carried on the business of Carriage-making. That I have always been a Democrat in politics, and believe I have always borne a fair character with my fellow citizens for industry, sobriety, and integrity; and that the circumstances under which I was arrested and detained in confinement, on the eighteenth and nineteenth days of September, instant, are, so far as known to me, and to the best of my knowledge and belief, as follows:

On Saturday, the 17th day of September, a man by the name of McCarty, a member of the Quincy McClellan Club, and who had been for more than two months previous. That morning, before leaving the house, he complained of a bad tooth-ache. Afterwards, about nine o'clock, A. M., I met him in the street, and he informed me that he was going to a dentist to have his tooth extracted. I saw no more of him till about nine o'clock that evening. I was then reading in a chamber, upon the first floor, occupied by myself and wife, and where my wife was then sleeping. Hearing a knock at the front door, I lighted a small lamp, went to the window, and enquired who was there? McCarty answered me and asked me to come down. I went down and opened the door. Another man was with him, whom I afterwards learned was Sergeant Ford. As soon as the door was opened, McCarty came in, and immediately went into the parlor, beckoning to me, and saying, "I want to speak to you." I followed him into the parlor, supposing that the man with him was some friend whom he wished to have spend the night with him. McCarty did not stop in the parlor, but passed from there into an adjoining bedroom, which he had been in the habit of occupying. I went into the bedroom. McCarty then said to me, "I owe Sullivan three dollars," and handed me a three dollar bill. He then said, "I am going to clear out," and before I had time to comprehend what he said or what he meant, had raised the window and jumped out. The window, which fastens with a spring, fell behind him and became fast again. I went back from the bedroom to the parlor. Ford was standing there, and said to me, "you've let him go."

I replied, "he has gone himself, you can catch him now." He at once started off. I fastened up my house, and was about going to bed, when I heard Ford at the front door again.

He said, "open this door." I said, "I shall not open it." I then supposed he wanted to rob me. He said again: "Open this door, damn you, or I'll burst it in."

He then went to the dining-room window, and rapped on the glass with his pistol, and asked "if I saw that?" I said, "yes," and that I would have him arrested. He then went off. I ran up stairs and put on my boots, intending to go for an officer. Before I had started, my eldest son came in, and said that he had met the man who had been to my house with McCarty; that the man was a United States officer; that McCarty had enlisted that day, and then deserted; and that the officer, Sergeant Ford, had been to the Deputy Sheriff to have me arrested that night, but that the Sheriff had declined, saying that he had no authority, and that I was not a running man. Hearing this account of the matter, I did nothing more about it that night.

The next morning, feeling very uneasy myself, and my family being very much frightened, about six o'clock, I sent one of my sons to the Sheriff for information, and to say that I was ready to see him. His answer was, that he had no concern and no power in the matter. As I was going up the street to learn the Sheriff's answer, I met my son, and with him, the Deputy Marshal, Martin V. Herndon. Mr. Herndon said he wanted me to go into Boston with him and answer a few questions. I at once assented, only requesting to go to my house to change my dress and get something to eat. This request was granted, and Sergeant Ford went to my house with me. Not long afterwards we started for Boston, my two sons accompanying us, (myself and Sergeant Ford) in a carriage hired by themselves. I was then directly to the building on Washington street, used by Captain LeBarnes, as the Provost Marshal's office, and was put into the guard room. After waiting an hour or two, about eleven or twelve o'clock, Captain LeBarnes came in. He spoke to me, and asked me what I had got to say? I said I would tell my story. But without hearing me or giving me a chance to speak, he called upon Sergeant Ford for his statement.

Ford was very brief, and simply said that I held the window down, and thus aided the man to escape.

I replied, "that I did not do so."

Ford answered, "can you look me in the face and say so?"

I said "yes," and looked him in the face.

Captain LeBarnes immediately said, that's enough; and it will cost you three years' in the State Prison, and five hundred dollars in money."

He then told them to take care of me and left.

I was left in the room among the soldiers. Some of whom at first appeared very unfriendly to me, and said that if they had been in Ford's place they would have shot me. But they afterwards softened in their feelings towards me, and while I was with them in no instance treated me unkindly. I messed with them, and was indebted to one of them for a share of his two blankets; upon which, with my coat for a pillow, I passed a not uncomfortable night.

The next morning, quite a number of my neighbors and friends from Quincy came to see me and to offer their services. Among them, Mr. Barker and John Quincy Adams, Esq. The latter said he would see the Provost Marshal and ascertain what could be done; and, after some enquiry as to the particulars of the matter, went out for that purpose. In half or three-quarters of an hour, he returned and told me he had had an interview with Captain LeBarnes, and that he had promised to discharge me, provided ten or twelve citizens of Quincy, "who were Republicans, and not Democrats nor McClellan men," would certify that in their opinion I had not intentionally been guilty of any offence. Mr. Barker immediately volunteered to procure such a certificate—and thought he could get it in Boston. After about an hour's absence, he returned with the paper signed by six citizens of the required character. This was deemed satisfactory by the Provost Marshal.

He sent for me, and said, that upon that paper he had concluded to release me. I immediately left his office, and reached my house again in Quincy about noon.

McClellan Rally

The first public meeting under the auspices of the Quincy McClellan Club was held in the Town Hall on last Saturday evening. The body of the Hall was filled to overflowing with the conservative men, of all parties, while the gallery being reserved for the ladies was also filled. The Hall was very neatly decorated with flags and streamers, while upon the rear of the stage, were the mottoes:

"McClellan and Pendleton,"—also, "THE UNION FOREVER."

The meeting was called to order by the President of the Club, Jeffrey R. Brackett, Esq. After making a few remarks and reading a letter from the Hon. Leverett Saltonstall, introduced Thomas H. Russell, Esq., of Boston. After expressing his regret at the absence of Mr. Saltonstall, he concurred in the remark of the Chairman, that this was not a party meeting, but a meeting of those who love their country and the Constitution.

(Applause.) It matters not, he said, what party we belong to as long as we are for the Union. And as for himself, he always had acted hand in hand with the Republican party—but as that party was no longer the Union party, he was glad to be here to night to raise his voice in defence of "the Union, the Constitution and the Laws" (Cheers.) He believed that if the great masses of both sections, North and South, could take each other by the hand, that there would be such an embrace, as would annihilate both the Abolition and Secession leaders. He then contrasted the condition of the country four years ago with that of to-day. He had seen it stated that in the State of Virginia alone, that there was sixty thousand widows made by this war. What a price has this once glorious State paid for her treachery to the Union. In Missouri, and Arkansas, States which according to Abolition authority had been regenerated, there is now a reign of terror, and the people are fleeing to save their lives and property. In Arkansas, one of these regenerated States, the Union flag waves only in three places; while in Missouri, the rebel army is almost within hearing of the city of St. Louis; and thus, he says, in the fourth year of the war. He then went on to explain why we are not united in this struggle now as when it first commenced. Then the basis on which the war was conducted on the part of the North, was one upon which every man could stand; and upon that same basis, George B. McClellan stands to-day. (Immense cheering.) In 1861, Congress was in favor of it; the Democratic, Bell and Everett, and Republican parties, were in favor of it; and Abraham Lincoln was in favor of it. Then he asked, why are we not united now? Because, Mr. Russell continued; certain people in Washington, three years ago were afraid that a certain gentleman (applause) was getting too popular with the people. (Cheers.) Then the loyal Governors (so called) met in secret session at Altoona, and urged a change of policy in the conduct of the war. Then the Republican State Convention of Massachusetts, in September, 1862, resolved that slavery was the cause of the war, and that it should be exterminated. Thus the policy of the war was changed—and that is the reason of the present divided sentiment of the North.

The Speaker then closed his eloquent address by an earnest appeal to every Constitutional, Union-loving citizen, to support George B. McClellan at the coming election. (Cheers.)

The meeting was then addressed at length by Joshua D. Ball and Robert Codman, Esq., of Boston; and at 10:12 o'clock the meeting adjourned, with loud "cheers for McClellan and the Union."

WHERE DO THEY COME FROM? Our streets during the pleasant days of the past week have been crowded with ladies. Some in silks but many more in calicoes. Quite a number were from the adjoining towns, we should judge; but a "goodly number" were familiar countenances. The grand centre stopping place appeared to be at Packard's; where his entire stock of dry goods are being disposed of at very low prices.

The price of potatoes in the Bangor, Me. market last week was eighty cents per bushel. The Rutland (Vt.) Herald says that in Belknap Falls and in the towns around there potatoes have been freely offered at fifty cents per bushel, and no buyers. This is partly owing to the general fall in prices, and partly to the abundant crop.

Death of Joseph Luzzader. Camp of 30th Mass. Vols. Near Petersburg, Va. Sept. 23d, '64.

MR. LUZZADER—Sir: Enclosed you will find the letters that were taken from your son's pocket by the men who performed the last rites over his body. They were handed to me to-day. His watch was taken by his comrade, whose name is Charles Bushnell, who was taken prisoner the next day with it in his possession.

Joseph was a good soldier, and beloved by us all. We miss him as we would a brother—having been comrades so long and shared each others trials and perils through so many hard scenes. He died the death of a brave, noble patriot. He was a man of excellent morals and an example for us all to follow. Sir, we sympathize with you, and mourn the loss of him whom God in his Infinite Wisdom took from us to a better world, and that one thought consoles us for many dear loved ones.

I am sir, your friend and most obedient servant. CHARLES N. PERKINS, 1st Sergt. Com'd'g Co. D, 30th Mass. Vols.

DRAFTED. We notice by the Missouri Republican that Joseph P. Torrey, son of the late Joshua Torrey of this town, has been drafted. This enterprising young man has for several years been quite extensively engaged in the wholesale periodical business in St. Louis, and having the good fortune to procure a pocket full of "greenbacks" has avoided the necessity of being shot at, as will be seen by the following paragraph, which we copy from the Republican:—

"Mr. J. P. Torrey's friends, knowing that he has been drafted, may perhaps be interested in learning that he has procured a substitute in the person of one Michael Mahon, who, for and in consideration of $600 to him in hand paid, has agreed to be shot at instead of Mr. Torrey. We hope that Michael will not be hit, if he is shot at, and congratulate Mr. Torrey on his exemption."

OIL PAINTINGS. We are happy to call the attention of our citizens to the notice of the Exhibition at the Town Hall next week. This Exhibition is of the highest character and we doubt not that it will be as numerously attended, as when it was here before. The scenes presented excelled our expectation and were pronounced by all well worthy the price asked.

SECOND CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT. A Democratic Convention, for this District, will be held in this town on Wednesday next, commencing at 11 A. M., for the purpose of putting in nomination candidates to be supported at the November election. Speakers will hear and engaged, and a grand torch light procession is in contemplation in the evening, which promises, if the programme is carried out, to be a brilliant affair.

ON A RISE. The milkmen of this town, raised their price on the first inst., from seven to eight cents a quart.

DANCING. The attention of parents is called to the advertisement of Miss Merrill, who pens her school to-day.

A special Washington dispatch says the Government has decided that a drafted man may furnish a substitute after he is accepted and in camp.

The Sanitary Commission sent on Wednesday two car loads of hospital supplies to the wounded of Sheridan's army. This is the fourth installment forwarded by the Commission since the battle of Winchester.

Agricultural Exhibition.

DEBHAM, SEPT. 30th, 1864.

To the Publisher of the Patriot:

The rain pours in torrents. It is amusing, seated under the cover of a friendly tent to watch the drenched, bedraggled crowds hurrying to find shelter in various directions all over the grounds. The dealers in cake and lemonade, pincheek, toys, oysters and clamchowder find their business sadly interrupted.

Harder still it pours! "We'll go in swimming soon," suggests a youngster at our elbow. The prospect certainly is promising. Alas! for the outside show.

Later. We have "done" the Hall. Time would fail us to tell of fruit and flowers and vegetables such as our eyes seldom see at home; of apples about as large as small pumpkins, of pumpkins whose circumference almost equaled cart wheels, or of flowers whose beautiful hues are only rivalled by those of their fair admirers. Nor can we tell of the banquet, the music and the speeches. Hon. H. F. French, made the principal address, which was a plea for the endowment of an Agricultural College. We trust the enterprise will be abundantly successful.

The Medford Cornet Band furnished the music, and their performances were highly creditable. When the 17th Anniversary of the Norfolk Agricultural Society occurs may we be there to see.

LOST!

ON SUNDAY, Sept. 25th, 1864, a GOLD CHAIN with a Double Locket attached. The Locket contained a Melancthon of a lady and gentleman, one on either side. They were probably lost near the Universalist Church and Roger's Chapel, on Canal Street. They were greatly valued from the associations connected with them.

The finder will receive a suitable reward by leaving them at the Quincy Patriot Office. Quincy, Oct. 8

A DIFF

Poetry.

For the Patriot.
Once More.

BY F. M. ADLINGTON—WEYMOUTH.

Brave Old Massachusetts is summoned once more
By tap of her Liberty drum;
And promptly her sons will ring out the encore,
Again for our country we come,
We come;
Again for our country we come.

With ballots and bullets we march with the van,
For Lincoln, for Johnson, and right;
For honor, for safety and freedom for man,
With ballots and bullets we fight,
We fight;
With ballots and bullets we fight.

While cowards and traitors cry out for a peace,
Such peace as the rebels approve;
We hold to our army and navy's increase,
Till treason has made its last move,
Last move;
Till treason has made its last move.

In Sherman and Sheridan—Farragut—Grant
We trust soon a peace to obtain,
A peace that shall Freedom so firmly implant,
It never shall tremble again,
Again;
It never shall tremble again.

Then up with our banner and on to the foe,
The spear—let the olive entwine;
For peace—to the traitors give blow upon blow,
Till justice to mercy incline,
Incline;
Till justice to mercy incline.

Hearts for the banner our fathers uprear'd,
That Lincoln and Johnson sustain;
That banner to the true-hearted enclear'd,
May't ne'er be imperil'd again,
Again;
May't ne'er be imperil'd again.

But till the last foe to our banner shall bend,
Till justice and freedom are crown'd;
Let Liberty's sword like a tempest descend,
Wherever a traitor is found,
Is found;
Wherever a traitor is found.

At the Last.

Men goeth forth unto his work and to his labor until the evening.—PSALM CIV: 23.

The stream is calmest when it nears the tide,
And flowers are sweetest at the eventide,
And birds most musical at close of day,
And saints divinest when they pass away.

Morning is lovely, but a holier charm,
Lies folded close in evening's robe of balm;
And weary man must ever love her best,
For morning calls to toil, but night to rest.

She comes from heaven, and on her wings both bear
A holy fragrance, like the breath of prayer;
Footsteps of angels follow in her trace,
To light the weary eyes of day in peace.

All things are hushed before her, as she throws
Her earth and sky her mantle of repose;
There is a calm, a beauty, and a power
That morning knows not, in the evening hour.

"Till the evening" we must weep and toil,
Flow life's stern furrow, fold the weary soil,
Tread with sad feet our rough and thorny way,
And bear the heat and burden of the day.

Oh when our sun is setting, may we glide,
Like summer evening down the golden tide;
And leave behind us, as we pass away,
Sweet starry twilight round our sleeping clay.

Anecdotes.

At a tea party, where some Cantabs happened to be present, after the dish had been brought round, the lady who presided over the tea equipping, hoped the tea was good.
Very good, indeed, madam, was the general reply, till it came to the turn of one of the Cantabs to speak, who, between truth and politeness shrewdly observed—
"That the tea was excellent, but the water was smoking."

Hello, nigga, what's you gwina to?
Look a yhar, chile, don't you call me a nigga. I see a niggahun.
A—a—which?
A niggahun, a niggahun. Don't you see dat I see a Ne-gro-man-sah?

A plain spoken woman lately visited a married woman, and said to her.
How do you contrive to amuse yourself?
Amuse! and the other, staring; do you know I have my housework to do?
Yes, was the answer, I see you have it to do; but as it is never done, I conclude you must have some other way of passing your time.

A Yankee who occupied a berth directly over a lawyer, began to grow restless.
The lawyer, noticing that his restlessness increased, asked, I say, are you a fool?
No, sir, I am above a fool.

Tommy, what does b-c-n-c-h spell?
Don't know ma'am
What, you little nuns-kull, what are you sitting on?
Tommy (looking sheepish) I don't like to tell.

Husband, I don't know where that boy got his bad temper—not from me I am sure.
No, my dear—for I don't perceive that you have lost any!

Hope for the Sufferers!

LET NONE DESPAIR,

For DAILY and almost HOURLY cases are Reported, in which the effect of

THE GREAT

Humor Remedy,

HOWARD'S

VEGETABLE

Canker and Cancer Syrup,
Has been to lay the Axe to the Roots of the
Great Blighting

UPAS-TREE OF HUMANITY,

WHOSE FRUITS ARE DEATH!
The CANKER AND CANCER SYRUP
has the most extraordinary cleansing action on
the BLOOD, which it PURIFIES AT ITS SOURCE, and though it penetrates every organ of the Body, expelling impurities, restoring the Progress of Digestion, and stimulating to healthy action the Digestive, Nutritive and Circulating Organs. As nearly all DISEASES have their ORIGIN in the BLOOD
its fountain should be

CLEANSED AT ITS SOURCE!

This cure is not infallibly secured by HOW-
ARD'S SYRUP, which has

Redeemed Thousands of Victims

FROM PREMATURE GRAVES!

THE SYRUP is the most efficacious Remedy
known for that dreadful Scourge of our Race, CANCER in its many forms, however obstinate—completely banishing the TORTURING
KNIFE. The worst cases, given over by Physicians, have yielded to it.

CANCER, it cures in its worst forms in
young and old.

SCROFULA, hereditary, or recent, it completely eradicates, leaving the system without taint.

SALT RHEUM in its many aspects can-
not withstand its virtues, as thousands testify.

ERYSIPELAS of the worst kind soon
loses its virulent character. The Syrup is an unfailing remedy.

TUMORS need not be removed by the knife;
the Syrup disperses them permanently.

WHITE SWELLINGS are acted on by the Syrup from the Blood. Many limbs have been saved by it.

ULCERS, however old or malignant, are
healed by the Syrup without the usual danger of
stopping Running Sores.

KING'S EVIL finds in the Syrup a Specific.
NEURALGIA, however distressing, has been cured by it when all other remedies have failed.

JAUNDICE is cured by the action of the
Syrup on the Liver and Bile Ducts, and DYS-PEPSIA caused by vitiated or insufficient Bile
is removed.

Female WEAKNESSES—it removes
with ease and certainty, and taken regularly, it
promotes the healthy periodical secretion.

RICKETS, a Children's disease, it completely eradicates, and saves years of misery,
even preventing consumption. In short it is the only safe and certain remedy known for THE
CURE OF

EVERY KIND OF HUMOR!

and is so permeating that mothers nursing may
keep their own and their infants' blood pure by
its use. All suffering from Nervous Complaints, Insistent Consumption, Palpitations and General
Debility will find it give them RENEWED
HEALTH AND VIGOR.

FOR SKIN DISEASES—it is especially suited, as it soon eradicates all Blanches, Pimples, Pustules, &c., and imparts the Brilliance of Health
to the Complexion.

Where irritation of the Lungs and Cough
attend the diseases named, the expectant and soothing effect of the Syrup ensures relief and repose,
and strengthens the system.

No case of failure of the SYRUP has ever been known where its use has been practiced in.

It might be easy to enter into learned scientific
theories. We prefer to lay a plain story of facts
before the sufferers who seek relief, therefore we
now offer this

Simple Vegetable Compound

which cannot harm and certainly cures.
PRICE, $1 per Bottle—or $5 for Six Bottles.

for all diseases incident to the female system.
Prolapsus Uteri or Floor Albus, Suppression,
and other Menstrual derangements, are all treated on new pathological principles, and speedy relief guaranteed in a very few days. No invariably certain is the new mode of treatment, that most obstinate complaints yield under it, and the afflicted person soon rejoices in perfect health.

Dr. Dow has no doubt had greater experience in the cure of diseases of women than any other physician in Boston.

Boarding accommodations for patients who may wish to stay in Boston a few days under his treatment.

Dr. Dow, since 1845, having confined his whole attention to an office practice for the cure
of Private Diseases and Female Complaints, acknowledges no superior in the United States.

The Singer
SEWING MACHINES.

OUR LETTER A

Family Sewing Machine

Is fast gaining a world-wide reputation.

It is beyond doubt the

BEST AND CHEAPEST

And Most Beautiful of all Family Sewing Machines yet offered to the public. No other Family Sewing Machine has so many useful appliances for Hemming, Binding, Felling, Tucking, Gathering, Gauging, Braiding, Embroidering, Cording, and so forth. No other Family Sewing Machine has so much capacity for a great variety of work. It will sew all kinds of cloth, and with all kinds of thread. Great and recent improvements make our Family Sewing Machine most reliable, and most durable, and most certain in action at all rates of speed. It makes the interlocked stitch which is the best stitch known. Any one, even of the most ordinary capacity, can see at a glance, how to use the Letter A Family Sewing Machine. Our Family Sewing Machines are finished in chaste and exquisite style.

The Folding Case of the Family Machine is a piece of cunning workmanship of the most useful kind. It protects the machine when not in use, and when about to be operated may be opened as a spacious and substantial table to sustain the work. While some of the Cases, made out of the choicest woods, are finished in the simplest and chastest manner possible, others are adorned and embellished in the most costly and superb manner.

It is absolutely necessary to see the Family Machine in operation, so as to judge of its great capacity and beauty.

It is fast becoming as popular for family sewing as our Manufacturing machines are for manufacturing purposes.

The Branch Offices are well supplied with silk, twist, thread, needles, oil, &c., of the very best quality.

Peeping through her purple bars,

Down on endless streets of stars,

Melting all the ingots up,

As her eyes more brightly shine,

Morning, in a crystal cup,

Floats the bubble, Earth, in wine.

From the red lips of the sea,

Out into immensity,

Steals a tongue of green and gold,

Soon to swim with giddy dyes,

When the mighty landscape's rolled

Farther to the western skies.

Splendor now by splendor qualified,

Deeper grows at every draught,

Till the monogram of fire—

The round red discs of the sun—

Fills with flame the heavens entire

And sweeps all glories into one.

All Shave one another.

WASHING HIS OWN SHEEP. A piquant

correspondence has just passed between two clergymen in a city where considerable religious awakening has taken place. In substance the correspondence ran as follows:

Baptist to Methodist Clergyman. Dear

Brother: I shall baptize some converts tomorrow; if any of your converts prefer to be baptized in our mode, I shall be happy to baptize them as candidates for your church.

Methodist to Baptist Clergyman. Dear

Brother: Yours received. I prefer to wash my own sheep.

LOVE OF LITTLENESS. I confess I love

littleness almost in all things. A little convenient estate, a little cheerful house, a little company, and a very little feast; and, if I were to fall in love again, (which is a great passion, and therefore I hope I have done with it,) it would be, I think, with prettiness,

rather than with majestic beauty.

One of the children in a school up town was puzzled about the word "Tapecoa" in the reading lesson. The teacher requested all those who had ever seen any tapecoa to hold up their hands. One hand timidly rose, his owner saying he was not quite sure, but believed he saw one at Barnum's Museum.

One of the saddest things about human nature is, that a man may guide others in the path of life without walking in it himself—

a pilot and yet a castaway.

A Western editor repeats those of his subscribers who owe him more than six years subscription, to send him a lock of their hair,

so that he may know they are still living.

In answer to that a contemporary says that if his delinquent subscribers should do this,

he would be obliged to leave off cutting, and go into the wig business.

A man without modesty is lost to all sense of honor and virtue.

Mother—Tommy, here's some nice castor-oil with orange ice in it.

Doctor—Now remember, don't give it all to Tommy, leave some for me.

Tommy—(who has been there before)—

Doctor's a nice man, na, give it all to the Doctor.

An English astronomer asserts, that the dark patches which we see on the breast of the moon, are holes covered by seafoam. If so, we shall be provoked to say to the man in the moon by-and-by, "who's your tailor?"

Humbleness is preferable to idle splendor.

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are we."

The Quincy Teachers' Association.

The teachers of this town met at the Codding school house, on last Monday evening, to re-organize the Quincy Teachers' Association. There was a good attendance of teachers and a lively interest was manifested by all present. A board of officers was elected and an order of exercises for the next meeting, was prepared. The following named persons were chosen officers for the ensuing year:—

President—L. P. Forbush.
Vice President—Edward W. Howe.
Secretary—A. A. Holbrook.
Treasurer—E. F. Hobbs.

This Association was a decided success last year, and benefited not only the Teachers, but all the schools through them. Every teacher should be an active member. The School Committee, the ex-teachers of the town, and the wives of teachers are honorary members, and they are cordially welcomed at every meeting.

The next meeting will take place at Codding school house on Monday evening Oct. 24th, at 7 1-2 o'clock.

Election Intelligence

PENNSYLVANIA. It is generally conceded that there will be a Union majority on the home vote in the State. The Congressional delegation will probably stand 16 Union to 8 Democrats.

MARYLAND. Scattering returns from the counties are coming in. They indicate that the vote on the new Constitution will be close and that the soldier's vote will probably be required to determine the result.

INDIANA. The Union State ticket is undoubtedly elected by from 15,000 to 20,000 majority.

OHIO. The Union majority in the State on the home vote is estimated at 40,000.—Fifteen or sixteen Union Congressmen are elected.

REMOVED. We would call the attention of our readers to the advertisement of Dr. Sumner in another column. It will be seen that our young friend has moved his residence and office to the house of Mrs. Dwell, on Washington street, where he will be happy to attend to the wants of those who may need his services. We are pleased to say that the professional visits of the Doctor, have been very successful in this town, particularly among the children, and we hope he may continue to enjoy the reputation thus far achieved.

THE MASS 5th BATTERY. The following are the names of the persons from this town belonging to this battery, who returned home last week after serving their country faithfully for three years:—J. Edward Spear, William H. Baxter, H. Emerson Shaw, Joseph Whitcher. Re-enlisted:—Edward Brown.

"HOME, SWEET HOME." It gives us pleasure after an absence, if only for a few days, to return to our home and we doubt not but it is equally so with our excellent dentist—Dr. French—who has returned from a visit of several weeks in the rural districts of Maine.

And as many of our citizens have been waiting patiently for his coming, the announcement of his safe arrival will be met with joy by them.

LOW PRICES. Foremost among our successful business men in the first rank stand up Jackman & Merrill, the wide awake tailors on the corner of Dock square and Elm street, Boston.

Shrewd, cautious men as they are they judged that with gold at $299 that they would not buy cloths at $15 per yard, and the 1st of October, 1864, found them, with a small stock on hand. Gold is now $1.90 and $15 cloths are now $9 or $10 per yard, and a $50 overcoat can now be had for $30.

Jackman & Merrill open on Monday the autumn campaign with new goods and low prices. Overcoats, dress coats, business coats and all other garments, furnishing goods, and one hundred thousand dozen of those famous paper collars, in boudoir boxes. Read their new advertisements in all the papers and be satisfied.

GODEY'S LADY'S BOOK. The Lady's book for November is received. It opens with a fine steel engraving called, "The Farm House Porch," followed by its usual double fashion plate richly colored. The ladies will find in it everything they can desire, in the line of fall and winter dresses and cloaks. The literary contributions are as varied and interesting as ever. Now is your time to make up clubs. For sale at the Quincy Bookstore.

THE DOLLAR MONTHLY. The November number is on our table with its usual budget of good things both useful and entertaining. It is the cheapest publication in the world and is for sale at the Quincy Bookstore.

Political—McClellan Demonstrations

The closing week has been one of more than ordinary excitement in the political field. The raising of the McClellan flag on Monday drew together a large assemblage. The President of the Club stated that in all countries, ancient and modern, the unfurling of a new banner, was looked to as an occasion for omens, either favorable or unfavorable; and certainly nothing more desirable than the present, could be asked. The clouds that had been driven about all day by adverse pressure, represented the closing administration, under which we had suffered so much; but now the breeze from the direction in which delivery was to come, had blown them all aside—and the stars in their effulgence, had come out to welcome our starry flag. That flag which had so often of late fled before its enemies on the land, and been almost driven from the seas, was in the hands of our chosen standard bearer—again to assume its proud position among the nations of the earth; commanding respect and admiration; by showing that it had stripes for its enemies, and stars for its friends.

Mr. Brackett then introduced Brigadier General Cowdin, saying, he was one who had not only fought under our flag, but had inflicted its stripes and won the star. General Cowdin stated that he voted for Mr. Lincoln, but was convinced now that he never was fit for a President. General McClellan he knows to be fitted for any position; and though others, who knew this as well as himself, might be prevented by contracts and salaries, from voting as their consciences dictated, he believed there were enough honest voters to ensure the election of McClellan.

Music, Torchtlights, Illuminations, &c.—Wednesday was a lively day for Quincy.—What with the Congressional and Senatorial Conventions, and the torchlight procession, the town was filled with enthusiastic admirers of "Little Mac," and the proceedings were of the most lively nature. The Conventions in the afternoon were fully attended, and the proceedings were most harmonious.

Soon after dark the people began to assemble in the Square, and the crowd vented their feelings in loud cheers for Geo. B. McClellan. The Democracy were particularly jubilant over the gallant fight made in Pennsylvania, and cheers were given for the Keystone State. The Quincy McClellan Club, appeared soon after in the Square. They turned out with full ranks, and carried beautiful lanterns. They were under the leadership of William Parker, Jr., assisted by Noah Curtis and John Ring, as Aids, and Messrs. Isaac H. Wiley, Joseph W. Lombard, James T. Penman, G. Bowditch, Jr., Joseph A. Bass, Arthur P. Hayden, A. H. Mundy, C. Larrey and E. A. Corliss, as Assistant Marshals. They carried several transparencies bearing the following inscriptions:—"McClellan Club of Quincy; Gold, not Paper—the Substance, not the Shadow;" "McClellan and Pendleton;" "Restore to us Our Country as you Received it from Our Fathers;" "The Old Flag;" "The Hero of Antietam;" "Give us a White Man's Country;" "The Union is the one condition of Peace—we ask no more."

The Boston Brigade Band arrived in an early train and at once proceeded to the Square, where they performed several pieces in their usual excellent manner. Shortly after the McClellan Club of Braintree, under Marshalship of Mr. Edward Potter, assisted by Messrs. Daniel A. Potter and Charles Mansfield, arrived and were escorted by the Quincy Club to their place in the procession. At this time the Square presented a most animated appearance. The Hancock House, W. P. F. Meserve, proprietor, was a blaze of light from top to bottom. The Town Hall was also brilliantly illuminated. Fireworks were let off, the band played, the crowd cheered for "Little Mac," and everybody in the vast crowd seemed enthusiastic.

While waiting for the special train, which was delayed by an accident, a meeting was organized in the Square, Jeffrey R. Brackett, President of the Club, presiding. After a few remarks he introduced Nicholas Hathaway, Esq., of Dorchester, who was heartily cheered. He proceeded at once to discuss the issues involved in the present campaign; traced the career of George B. McClellan, and contended that had the Government supported him as it had other Generals, the rebellion would have been crushed long ago. (Cheers.) He also argued that in General McClellan lies the hope of the nation. The present corrupt administration had proved itself incompetent, and the only hope was in hurling them from power, and placing "Little Mac" at the helm.

Asa Messer, Esq., of Boston, was the next speaker, and after a brief speech he was followed by E. G. Russell, of Cambridge and others.

In consequence of the accident to the train from Boston, it was thought best not to wait longer for the Boston Clubs, and at about 9, the procession started upon its route, a large crowd of people still remaining in the Square.

The non-arrival of the Boston Clubs is to be regretted; by their presence—such a number about two thousand—our citizens would have been treated to the most splendid pageant outside of our neighboring cities.

to hear the speakers. Very many residences along the route were illuminated; among them those of Jeffrey R. Brackett, W. W. Greenough, Mrs. Lunt, Noah Curtis, Nathl. White, Dr. Stetson, George Curtis, John A. Wood, Henry Wood, Captain Glover, Col. Packard, Stedman Williams, E. S. Fellows, Eleazer Frederick, Peter Butler, Benjamin Curtis, Dr. Pattee, Stephen Weeks, Ebenezer French, John Ring, C. C. Johnson, William Russell, E. S. Marsh, Dr. Woodward, Richard, Newcomb, Isaiah Haven, Jos. W. Lombard, and many others.

The train containing the Dorchester Club, reached Quincy about 10, and were received by the crowd with a great deal of enthusiasm. Owing to their late arrival they did not make a long stop, the other Clubs having nearly completed the line of march laid out before they arrived.

Camp Carrington.

INDIANAPOLIS, (Ind.) Oct. 4, 1864.

To the Publisher of the Patriot:—The 60th Massachusetts assisted at a grand military review yesterday. For the benefit of your readers I extract the following account of it from the Indianapolis Daily Journal of this date:

"The troops stationed at this post were reviewed yesterday afternoon, by Major General Hovey, at the Fair Grounds. The review was gotten up for the benefit of the Sanitary Fair—and it has never been our privilege to witness a finer display.

"There were present, the 5th and 17th Regiments, V. R. C., the 42d and 37th Indiana, the 6th Massachusetts, the 2d and 25th Indiana Batteries and a squadron of cavalry,—about five thousand troops in all.

"The line of battle was over a mile in length, and it was a grand sight to see that long line of muskets move at the word of command, as if by one hand. From a distance it was plainly to be observed that every gun was bright, and every uniform scrupulously neat and clean; but when the troops, in performing their evolutions, with such beautiful accuracy of movements, came nearer, intelligence and character were seen on every face. Every one confessed that there are no soldiers like American soldiers.

"The troops of the Veteran Reserve Corps did themselves much credit; and the 60th Massachusetts were not a whit behind their comrades, who have seen much longer service. It is remarkable how quickly a company of quiet citizens can be changed into a military organization, with all the discipline of veteran soldiers.

Ladies in carriages and on foot graced the scene with their presence, and amid this throng of beauty and chivalry of the State, many persons of distinction were to be seen. Best of all, the occasion was successful in yielding a handsome profit to the treasury of the Sanitary Commission."

A desire on the part of the editors of the Journal to do full justice to Massachusetts, may possibly have led to some slight exaggerations in the above account; but you may be assured that the Right Flank Company of the 60th did full credit to themselves and to their home in their performances of yesterday. With few exceptions, our Company continues in good health and spirits, although all of us are looking forward with increasing eagerness to the fast approaching time of our return. It is amusing to listen to the various rumors with regard to the day fixed upon for our departure. We know nothing certain about the matter; but the probabilities are that we shall be back in the Old Bay State not very long after the first of November.

In my last letter I spoke of insufficient rations; but since the appointment of Sergeant Crane, as Company Commissary, we have fared far better. This wise and experienced official manages to keep on hand quite a company fund,—selling the nauseous fat bacon which comes to us from the Quartermaster's; and buying in its stead, wholesome and palatable mush and potatoes, and other articles of use to the Company. So, with our occasional fried steak and delicious liver, and the boxes of good things our friends have been kind enough to send us from home, we rub along very well, notwithstanding the frequent excessively salt fish, and the sloppy coffee and tea our stomachs have to endure.

We have been considerably interested in the formation of the "National Union Club," and shall send home a list of members, which would be much larger were it not that about half of our number are under twenty-one. Whether legal voters or not, there are scarcely any of us who are not unconditional Union men; determined on the continuance of the war till peace is won through perfect victory; and desirous to see the people's honest, and wise, and faithful four year's servant retained during another Presidential term, in the position which he has so successfully filled. And our loyalty is made all the stronger by the knowledge that all about us are foes to the government and traitors to their country; whose satanic plots the wisdom and vigilance of State officials have happily brought to light. The accounts that you have received from time to time of the great Western conspiracy are all mainly true. God be praised for its timely discovery! Yours,

The Secret of Success in Business.

When you find a man doing more business than you are, look at the advertisements he has in the newspaper. The business man who puts his sign in the newspaper does a much wiser thing than when he fastens it over his store, and who would think of neglecting that? The man who advertises informs the public that he wants to trade, and his card in the newspaper is an invitation to customers to come and buy. Where one person reads a sign in the street, five hundred read it in the newspaper. No matter how well a business man is known, he can always pick up new customers if he will take the pains to advertise; for by neglecting the means of securing trade he loses the best of his profits.

In these times of high prices, it is well to remember that children can be supplied with shoes for less than half the usual annual cost, by wearing Metal-Tipped Shoes, to say nothing of stockings destroyed and health endangered by wet feet, arising from childlike habit of wearing out their shoes at the toe first.—Boston Journal.

Diseases of the Liver,
SCROFULA,
All Humors and Impurities of the Blood and Diseases of the Skin.

The preparing and combining the BLOOD-ROOT ELIXIR is attended with results to medical science next in importance to inhalation of ether in surgery. Roots and plants, in themselves pungent and disagreeable, and by a new and scientific process of extracting (in vacuum) rendered MORE EFFECTIVE IN THEIR OPERATION, entirely divested of the gripping and distressing properties which render the action of all other purgative medicines.—They are also made to become highly

PLEASANT AND AGREEABLE TO THE TASTE,
and by their peculiar combination, work so perfectly in HARMONY WITH NATURE that no unpleasant reaction will follow its operation. It also possesses

which can only be obtained by medicine in a fluid state. These are new elements in purgative medicines.

The BLOOD-ROOT ELIXIR has no partial action upon the bowels, but is equally diffused there, and throughout the whole circulation of the Blood, imparting a healthy and invigorating action to the STOMACH AND BOWELS, LIVER, LUNGS, KIDNEYS, and gently stimulating dormant and morbid secretions throughout the whole system.

A single dose will produce a cheerful and exhilarating COMOTION, which will inspire the patient with confidence, and assurance of IMMEDIATE RELIEF. A continuance for a short period will DRIVE the disease and hidden humors to the surface of the skin, and relieve or check SCROFULOUS AFFECTIONS, and by thus purifying and strengthening the Blood, will remove the most fruitful

CAUSE OF CONSUMPTION.
It incites the various organs of the system to act their allotted part, removing the causes which induce RHEUMATISM AND NEURALGIA, HEADACHE, LOSS OF APPETITE, DYSPEPSIA, COSTIVENESS, and the various diseases which arise from a derangement of the Stomach and Bowels, and restricted circulation of the Blood.

See the pamphlet around each bottle for a history of the Elixir.

The proprietor of the BLOOD-ROOT ELIXIR, (Dr. S. O. Richardson) has been long and favorably known to the public by his celebrated SWEET WINE PILLERS, the best tonic medicine ever discovered, and which has been in use over thirty years. He is a graduate of the New Hampshire Medical College, and many years associate member of the Massachusetts Medical Society, and has made the study of medicine his profession since 1820.

And so fully convinced is the Doctor of the wonderful curative effects of his BLOOD-ROOT ELIXIR that he hereby offers to each and every person who will use ONE HALF OF A BOTTLE of his ELIXIR, and not be conscious of a good effect therefrom, to refund to said person the full amount which he paid for the same, by returning the empty bottle to the office.

Price $1.50 per Bottle.

October: A Wood Hymn.

My soul has grown too great to-day

To utter all it would.

Oh, these preventing bonds of clay!

When will my spirit learn to say,

Unfettered, all it should?

I'm out in the free woods once more,

With whispering boughs overhead;

Strange influences round me steal,

And yet what dearest I feel

Must ever be unaid.

These glowing, glowing Autumn hours!

These wondrous gorgeous days!

This dainty show of painted flowers,—

As though with dusty golden showers

The air were all ablaze!

This living, shining, burnished wood,

Tricked with a thousand dyes!

Its strong ribs laced with crimson sheen,

And decked with gold and glittering green,

Like kingly tapestries!

This tangled web of braided light

These glimpses of the sky's soft blue!

This quivering sunshine melting through!

This wide earth, glory-hung!

How shall I utter all I would?

Alas, my struggling soul!

It strives to grasp these glorious things,

As straws a bird on broken wings

To struggle to its goal.

FIRE. A two story frame tenement, on Sea street, the property of Mr. Daniel Dineen, took fire on Wednesday last, and at one time threatened serious damage. It caught in a chamber, from a straw bed, which was accidentally set on fire by some children, who were playing with friction matches. The occupants were a Mrs. Marrow and another family. The furniture was all safely removed—greenbacks and all. Mrs. M. had a twenty dollar note safely laid away among her crockery, which was taken out in the yard, which she afterwards found; and a roll of over a hundred dollars, in bills, sewed up in a bed, came tumbling down from a second-story window, which, on reaching the ground, the owner recovered. The engines were promptly on the spot, and with their efficient aid, the flames were extinguished, and the building saved, with but slight injury. We learn that there was no insurance on the property.

TOWN HALL. The repairs now being put on the Town Hall, have long been much needed. The crowds which have lately assembled there, probably suggested the idea. A room closely packed with human beings, with a full blaze of gas burners, will soon destroy the vitality of the air, and render it unfit for respiration. The ventilators now being placed there, will obviate these difficulties, by dissipating the foul vapors—an economy in physical nature, essential to health and comfort.

RAILROAD ACCIDENT. An extra train left New Haven at 9 o'clock Saturday morning last, having on board 275 sick and wounded New England soldiers, in transfer from Knight Hospital, New Haven, to the U. S. General Hospital at Readville. The men were in care of Lieut. Stearns of the Veteran Reserve Corps, and Acting Assistant Surgeon T. H. Bishop, U. S. A., medical officer in charge. In running a sharp curve at "Four Mile Run" or "Four Mile Ledge," so called, eight miles beyond New London, and about nine miles this side of Lyme, Ct. where the road passes through a deep cutting in a solid ledge of rock, the train proceeding at a high rate of speed, the first passenger car went off the track followed by four others. The engine and tender remained upon the rails, the coupling being broken by the shock, and the cars piled up one upon another in a fearful heap of ruins, beneath which lay the dead and dying and shockingly mangled bodies of nearly a hundred poor fellows.

The whole number injured is estimated at about forty, most of them severely. It is thought that a third of the number cannot survive.

The men unhurt, 213 in all were finally forwarded by a special train from New London to Readville.

The scene is described by those who witnessed it as being a fearful one, and effected the soldiers far more than the horrors of the battle field.

CAPTURE OF THE ROSAHOKE. The British steamer Steady reports that it was rumored that the RosaHOKE was captured by Braine. She was taken to Bermuda, where she landed her passengers, but was not allowed to coal or provision. Braine then proceeded to sea and burned the steamer off Bermuda, and returned with her crew in the boats. He was immediately arrested by the British authorities.

THE DAY OF EXECUTION. The Gov. and Council have appointed Friday, the 13th day of January next, as the day for the execution of Edward W. Green, the murderer of young Frank Converse in the Malden bank. The execution will take place in the jail yard at East Cambridge.

The murder was committed about noon on Tuesday, the 15th day of December last.

Correction.

To the Publisher of the Patriot:

In the hurry of preparing the article of the McClellan Club torchlight procession, on the 18th instant, we inadvertently omitted some names in the list of illuminations, which should have appeared. Will you oblige me by publishing them at this time. They are as follows: Broughman Faxon, whose shop at the junction of School and Franklin streets, by its brilliancy, added much to the beauty of the scene. Also, George L. Baxter, Albion Dearborn, and Samuel Curtis, on Franklin street; George Cahill, Daniel Lane, Henry Keating, and C. Monahan, on Liberty street; and Josiah Hayden, Arthur Hayden, Charles Hayden, and Charles French, on Granite st.

REV. GEORGE H. HEPPWORTH OF BOSTON. This talented and eloquent preacher is expected to occupy the Unitarian pulpit to-morrow.

Boston Correspondence.

BOSTON, Oct. 20, 1864.

After four weeks absence we find ourselves back again in the good old city of Boston. Everything appears here as lively as a cricket. Sudden fluctuations in business, prices and gold, are the order of the day. Some business signs are quite auspicious. In our foreign trade the tendency is favorable to us. The imports have heavily declined, while exports have advanced. It is predicted by knowing ones that merchandise will not fall much lower in prices this winter. Retail trade must be brisk, as the streets are thronged daily by the multitude on shopping excursions.

The absorbing topic here is the Presidential election. There are good reasons why Abraham Lincoln should be re-elected. He is emphatically a man of the people; the most democratic President we have ever had. Born to toil, and inured to labor, he sympathizes with the toiling millions. He is the representative of the dignity and intelligence of free Northern labor, and against aristocracy in every form. He is an honest man. His most bitter enemies have brought no charge against his political or personal integrity. Free from bigotry and fanaticism, he stands as the faithful servant of the whole people. Like Jackson he has the hearts of the masses. Through all his plain simplicity of manners he is highly talented, and moves without fear to the consummation of the most mighty events of the day. In plain honest Abraham Lincoln, we know in whom we have believed. He has administered the government satisfactorily to the people for nearly four years. His nomination at the union convention in Baltimore by acclamation, with no rival candidates, is the highest proof that his administration is satisfactory to all who love the Union. He has been true to his oath to maintain the Union, and after using all other means for peace of a forbearing nature, he invoked the military strength of the nation to suppress the rebellion, as he was bound to do by the Constitution. He could do no less. In his efforts to maintain the Union by war operations, the results in the aggregate have been glorious and successful. He has whipped three-fourths of the rebellion in three years. He has manifested no political favoritism in military and naval appointments. Of the first two hundred and thirty generals appointed, two hundred were Democrats, and the natives have been and are largely commanded by Democratic officers. He has done no violence to the Constitution. The right to suspension of the habeas corpus during the rebellion is as much a safeguard of the Constitution as the habeas corpus itself. Those who oppose or fear its exercise are enemies of the Constitution. For these and diverse other good and sufficient reasons, Abraham Lincoln, the candidate of the loyal people will be re-elected by a popular majority that will astonish one nation, and the rest of mankind. There is no retrograde step; the signs are clear, as the eventful day of election approaches; the sovereign people are making ready to sustain the acts of an administration that has battled through appalling difficulties; encountering rebels in the field of war, and traitors in any number at home. An administration dear to all true and loyal men; successful, glorious, just in the act of binding the republic in an eternal union will never be deserted, when the very existence, the life of the nation, is threatened. John Bright, the great English liberal, in a recent letter upon the Presidential contest in this country says:

"I believe that the effect of Mr. Lincoln's re-election in Europe, and indeed throughout the world, will be this: it will convince all men that the integrity of your great country will be preserved; and it will show that republican institutions, with an instructed and patriotic people can bear a nation safely and steadily through the most desperate perils."

For the Patriot.

A New Society.

QUINCY, Oct. 11th, 1864.

To the Publisher of the Patriot:

DEAR MAGAM: I learned the other day that the people attending the Orthodox Church, in this town, had formed a new society, styled the Christian Commission, for the purpose of working for the soldiers. Now, would it not be a good plan for all the different Churches to form such societies, and meet together at least once a week, to prepare comforts for our dear fathers, sons and brothers, in the army? I think if this plan could be adopted, a great deal of the hard feeling, and coldness to one another, would be remedied. If you think this proper and have room to spare, I wish you would insert this in your columns. May theme some true when we shall be members of that one true Church.

Yours Truly.

THE CONFEDERACY. Jeff Davis has made another speech at Columbus, S. C. of about the same tenor as his Mason speech. He said that hopes of foreign recognition were delusive now, but foreign confidence was shown in the rise of the rebel loan on the reports of rebel victories. He declared that victory only would insure their independence, and prophesied Gen. Sherman's early defeat. He made a stirring appeal for deserters to join the rebel army.

Camp Burnside.

Dear —: I take this opportunity to write you a few lines, to let you know that I am well, and hope these few lines will find you the same. We have moved from Camp Carrington, and are now encamped at Camp Burnside. It is about half a mile from where we were before; and we are close to where the rebel prisoners are. We came over here yesterday—and I suppose we shall stay here until we go home.

Yesterday was the State election here, and most of our Regiment went down to the city and voted. Some of the boys voted TWENTY-FIVE TIMES each. You could go and vote as many times as you please, and then, after the boys had voted in the city, some of the Indiana men wanted them to go about thirty miles and vote again. So they took an extra train of cars, and rode to the next township, and voted there. The Indiana men paid their fares, and went back again; and gave them all they wanted to eat and drink. I did not know any thing about it until it was too late, and so I did not go. Governor Morton the Republican candidate was elected by a large majority. So the Massachusetts men helped elect him.

The Regiment of Michigan boys that came in Saturday night, went off to the front on Monday. The Conscripts and Substitutes are coming into camp pretty fast; that is the reason that we had to move, because they wanted the barracks for them. Our barracks here are not so good as those we left at the other camp; but I guess that we can get along until we start for home. There is not much news stirring—nothing worth communicating, so I will close. Yours ever,

WILLIAM W. PENNIMAN.

For the Patriot.

Political Meeting.

To the Publisher of the Patriot:

It was really refreshing, after the wholesale slander and abuse of the Administration and Mr. Lincoln in particular which has been reiterated from the Town Hall and peddled about the streets, to meet and listen to such arguments as were presented on last Saturday evening. The speech of Hon. Moses Kimball was especially adapted to strengthen the strong in Union sentiments and purposes, to confirm the wavering and convert the opposition. No Democrat, unbiased by partisan feelings and sympathies, could have listened to him without some sober reflection as to the proper course a true patriot ought to take. It was a candid, honest, good-natured, argumentative and eloquent appeal to the good sense of the people, and of the many hundreds present, there could have been but very few who went away without feeling that such speaking is more effective than any amount of rockets, or squibs or illuminations, or broken glass. We do not say that the meeting was the largest gathering that ever came together on the face of the earth, but we do say that every seat was taken and that there was scarcely a place left to stand. The sentiments presented were responded to with loyal enthusiasm, and the Quincy Brass Band by their inspiring strains proved that there is no necessity for going abroad to obtain excellent music.

THE PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN has opened lively with us. Besides the Republican meeting, held on Saturday evening last, a report of which will be found in another part of our paper, we have had McClellan demonstrations.

On Tuesday evening, the McClellan Club had another torchlight procession, and by invitation, visited the West District, to participate in a political entertainment got up by the "unterrified Democracy" of that place. They turned out in fine style, and met with a most welcome reception. Along the route, many of the dwellings were illuminated, and the Granite Engine and Willard houses were a blaze of light. At an early hour the Hall of the Willard House was filled to its utmost capacity by the friends of McClellan and Pendleton. Mr. Dennis O'Brien, was the principal speaker on the occasion. He was eloquent in his eulogy of the Democratic nominee for the Presidency; and thought the election of little "Mac," would be the means of bringing order out of chaos, and restoring peace and tranquility once more to the country. He was followed by Mr. Bicknell of Weymouth.

Again, on Thursday evening, the McClellan party made another rally at the Town Hall, which was filled from gallery to pit. Thomas J. Gargin, a young and promising speaker, was the first to address the meeting, followed by Major Sydney H. Lansey, of the army, and A. C. Arnold, Esq.

COMMISSIONS IN DEMAND. It is stated that there are two thousand two hundred and thirty five applications for commissions in Massachusetts regiments on file at the State House, and not more than half a dozen places to be filled. It has been suggested that these individuals who are so anxious to serve their country, would display their patriotism in quite as clear a light by enlisting at once, and not waiting for the dubious chance of a commission. They would form two splendid regiments.

Summary of Intelligence.

ORIGINAL AND SELECTED.

One of the fattest men in Roxbury, after dieting for twenty-three days according to the directions in the recent pamphlet of Mr. Bunting, the Englishman, weighs twelve pounds less than when he commenced, and his spirits are elastic in proportion as his flesh falls away.

While making a cellar in Newport last week the workmen found several pieces of gold and silver of considerable value. One is a piece of a gold bar; another a Portuguese coin dated 1703, and there is a silver coin of a still older.

A dog employed by the rebels to carry messages from one part of their lines to another was lately captured in front of Hancock's corps, and has been taken to Washington.

It may not be generally known that the pay due to our soldiers in Southern prisons can be obtained by their wives on the presentation by the latter of proper vouchers to the Pay Department in New York.

The Maine Farmer, on the testimony of those who have tested it, suggests that rye straw will be found an excellent substitute for rags in the manufacture of paper as being flexible, tough, and cheap.

The coal miners' strike at Pittsburg is at an end. The old prices rule. Coal comes down.

Persons having paid $300 commutation money in last September are entitled to exemption from this draft.

The whole number of National Banks is now five hundred and twenty.

The cost of the tomb for the Royalty of England, which is being erected at Frogmore, will be $500,000.

The Manchester (N. H.) Mirror says:—"From various parts of the State we hear splendid accounts of the potato crops."

Snow fell at Montpelier Vt., on the 9th inst.

The Skowhegan (Me.) Farmer is dead Cause—high price of paper and no margin of profits for bread.

The Middleborough Gazette says Charles Stanton, better known as Gen. Tom Thum, has sold his splendid establishment in Bridgeport, Conn. for $20,000. He has purchased of Nahum Tribon the excellent farm opposite the residence of his wife, in Middleborough. The report in the New York papers that the General has become a father is untrue.

The costliest Bible ever made in this country was gotten up by the people of Baltimore as a testimonial for the President in honor of his proclamation of emancipation. The cost of the book being nearly six hundred dollars—$560.72. It is a pulpit Bible, bound in violet silk velvet.

The idea that kerosene has anything to do with the prevalence of diphtheria is absurd and ridiculous. Diphtheria has now been prevailing extensively for about forty years in France and England, long before kerosene was used at all.

By a law of the State of Maine, any person who shall, to the acceptance of the selectmen place a trough by the roadside, into which a stream of water shall be constantly kept running, is entitled to an annual deduction of three dollars from the amount of his yearly taxes.

It is stated that in the first two years of the present war 25,000 walnut trees were felled to supply a single European manufactory of gunstocks for the American market.

The Cincinnati Gazette says there is as much coal in the hands of dealers in that city as will supply demands until May, 1865. All the large establishments have laid in a year's supply.

There is an unusual amount of counterfeit bank bills in circulation. It behooves people to use more than ordinary care in examining the money which passes through their hands.

The largest tannery in the United States is being built in Maine. The main building is 600 feet long, with wings some hundred feet in length.

Crops of all kinds have been good and plentiful in Prince Edward Island this year. The harvest weather has so far been fine, but some of the grain crops are late.

The article known in commerce as jute is now used in the manufacture of fine goods and articles of dress. It costs about five cents a pound.

Civil engineers report that the volume of water which passes over the Falls of Niagara is ninety millions of tons per hour.

London is now connected with Sidon and with Jerusalem by telegraph. How strange to see the old Bible lands invaded by modern inventions and improvements. In another year our shores may be within one day's communication with the Holy land, a telegram despatched from Jerusalem at noon may reach us before noon of the same day. So says a London paper.

The horse mackerel fishery has been brisk this summer and fall, says the Belfast Journal. The fact that these fish will take a baited hook has been known only for two seasons past, and they are now caught by huge hooks baited with pigios.

The New York Citizen's Association are trying to abolish bucksterning, and bring the purchasers and farmers together, thus diminishing prices.

AN ARMED RAID. A party of about twenty-five armed desperadoes entered the town of St. Albans, (Vt.) on Wednesday afternoon last, supposed to be in the rebel employ from Canada. They made an assault on the several banks. The National Bank was robbed of about $50,000, mostly in bills. The St. Albans Bank was robbed of between $70,100 and $80,000, and the Franklin County Bank of a considerable amount. Some twenty horses were also seized and carried off by the desperadoes. Several citizens, who resisted, were deliberately shot; two were wounded seriously, and it is feared, fatally. The raiders threatened to burn the town, and left in the direction of Canada. A large party went in pursuit, and succeeded in capturing nine of the robbers, and recovering $150,000 of the stolen money.

Poetry.

Off for a Soldier.

Oh, where are you going? said Mrs. O'Flaherty
One morning to Mike as he shouldered a gun;
"I am going," said Mike, "to put on regimentals,
An' march' wid the boys till rebellion is done."
"An' what, if you're kilt, will become of my childer?"
"My poor little boys, and the girl on my knee?
Sure, Mike," said she, "I will be dead, though living.
If never again you come back unto me."
"Oh, Peggy, my darlin', no harm shall befall me!"
The Stars and the Stripes shall float o'er my head;
And, Peggy, you know I must help save the country
That affords me protection and gives me my bread.
"And won't ye be proud of your Michael O'Flaherty
When he comes back, dear Peggy, all covered with scars,
To show that he stood in the front of the battle, Where no one can stand who stays home from the wars?"
"And, Mike," said Peggy, "my prayers'll go wid ye,
Though deep in my heart I shall grieve for your sake;
And I'll kiss our dear babies each mornin', and evenin',
And teach them the name of their father to speak."
"The papers I'll read, Mike, to see if you're wounded—
Oh, faith, Mike, that thought makes a fire of my brain:
To think of your lying, shot down by a rebel,
Wid an arm or a leg off, and groanin' wid pain;
Wid no kind one near you, to give you attention,
To wipe the cold dampness away from your cheek—
Oh, Mike, it's hard, to think of these evils,
To look in your face and a parting to speak."
"But, Peggy," said he, "sure I'll come back a hero,
To be pointed at as America's pride;
And I'll carry my gun on the top of my shoulder,
Wid both legs all right and my arms by my side."
"Faith, never a dangerous bullet shall reach me,
And, sure, if it does, I will walk its design,
For wid God on my side, and the thoughts of Ould Erin,
No serious evil can ever be mine."
"But, Mike," said Peggy, "how many have perished!
How many are sleeping that never will wake,
Who marched wid the army a searching for glory!"
"Oh, Mike," said she, "stay home for poor Peggy's sake!"
"Flay at home, is it, Peggy? Ah! niver, till traitors
Have fired their shot at the flag of the free;
I must go and just have a brief lark wid the rebels,
Those sons of the devil who kicked up this spree." And good-bye, my Peggy! and good-bye, my childer!
May God bless you all till I come back again, Wid my arms and my legs, wid my head and my body,
Wid niver a scratch, and wid niver a pain!" The drum then came beating—the colors were flying—
A kiss for his wife and his dear children three—
And Mickey O'Flaherty marched with the soldiers
To fight for the flag of the faithful and free.

Anecdotes.

John was thought to be very stupid. He was sent to the mill one day, and the miller said:
"John, some people say you are a fool,
Now tell me what you do know and what you don't know."
"Well, replied John, I know millers' hogs are fat.
"Yes that is well, John; now, what don't you know?"
"I don't know whose corn rats 'em!"
"Freeman—Madame, you charge ver much too big price for zat room."
"Landlady—O, you know we at the watering places must make hay while the sun shines."
"Freeman (indignant)—Be gar, madame, you shall neva make ze boy of me. You must not zink zat because all flesh grass, zat you can make hay of me!"
"I never did see such a wind and such a storm, said a man in a coffee-room.
And pray sir, inquired a would-be wit, since you saw the wind and the storm what might their color be?" The wind blew and the storm rose, was the ready reply.
A doctor returned a coat to a tailor because it did not fit him. The tailor seeing the doctor at a funeral of one of his patients, said:
"Ah, doctor, you are a happy man
Why so?" asked the doctor.
"Because, replied the tailor, you never have any of your bad work returned on your hands."
"Oh, papa, Dr. March had such work to pull mother's teeth!"
"Had he, my son?"
"Yes; I saw him try first with his pincers, and then he got his mouth right close to mother's and pulled it out with his teeth."

STURGIS'
ELECTRIC COMPOUND,
An Effective External Remedy for

NEURALGIA

—AND—
RHEUMATISM.

ALSO, INVALUABLE FOR
Spinal Irritation, Ague in the Face
Toothache, Pain in the Side,
Back, and Limbs, Ear,
Ague, &c.

Among the Advantages of this Medicine
are the following:

Its effect is very rapid—in most cases instan-taneous.

It is external in its application, and the patient runs no risk in using it. It does not strike to the stomach.

It reaches the nerves and muscles, as it is believed no other medicine does.

It has cured some of the most violent and obstinate cases of Neuralgia ever known.

It can be used on a child or an aged person
alike.

While it is very powerful, it is perfectly harmless.

The proprietor has been allowed to publish the names of many persons who have used the COM-POUND with the most beneficial results. He refers to a few of them. They are among the most respectable citizens of Boston and other places, and their residences and places of business are given.

The following letter from one of our best citizens will speak for itself.

Rev. JOSEPH E. BARRY, the children's missionary of Boston, was the recipient a few weeks since of a bottle of Sturges' Electric Compound, for Neuralgia, Rheumatism, &c., and having experienced great benefit from its use, and having known of many severe cases of the above complaints which it produced cures, considers it his duty to make known to his friends and others being so unfortunate as to be troubled with these terrible complaints, the virtues of this preparation.

JOSEPH E. BARRY.

REMARKABLE CURE OF NEURALGIA:
The following letter, (unpublished,) was received by the proprietor in May last.

CAMP ROGERS, Newbury, May 6, 1863.
Dear Sir: I have been for some weeks suffering under a severe attack of Neuralgia, the severity of which has caused me to be in "perfect agonies" both night and day. Having heard of Sturges' Electric Compound from a "companion in arms," I was induced to give it a trial, which had the happy effect to immediately cure me. I am surprised that surgeons do not have it in their armories, as there is a constant demand for such an invaluable relief. I make this statement for the public good, and I have no scruples about using my name as a recommendation to other victims of this painful disorder.

Yours, respectfully,
JOSEPH HOUGHTON,

The Singer
SEWING MACHINES.

OUR LETTER A

Family Sewing Machine

Is fast gaining a world wide reputation.
It is beyond doubt the
BEST AND CHEAPEST

And Most Beautiful of all Family Sewing Machines yet offered to the public. No other Family Sewing Machine has so many useful appliances for Hemming, Binding, Felling, Tucking, Gathering, Gussing, Braiding, Embroidering, Cording, and so forth. No other Family Sewing Machine has so much capacity for a great variety of work. It will sew all kinds of cloth, and with all kinds of thread. Great and recent improvements make our Family Sewing Machine most reliable, and most durable, and most certain in action at all rates of speed. It makes the interlocked stitch which is the best stitch known.
Any one, even of the most ordinary capacity, can see at a glance, how to use the Letter A Family Sewing Machine. Our Family Sewing Machines are finished in chaste and exquisite style.

The Folding Case of the Family Machine is a piece of cunning workmanship of the most useful kind. It protects the machine when not in use, and when about to be operated may be opened as a spacious and substantial table to sustain the work. While some of the Cases, made out of the choicest woods, are finished in the simplest and elan-t manner possible, others are adorned and embellished in the most costly and superb manner.

It is absolutely necessary to see the Family Machine in operation, so as to judge of its great capacity and beauty.

It is fast becoming as popular for family sewing as our Manufacturing machines are for manufacturing purposes.

The Branch Offices are well supplied with silk, twist, thread, needles, oil, &c., of the very best quality.

Send for a PAMPHLET.

the BLOOD, which it PURIFIES AT ITS SOURCE; and though it penetrates every organ of the body, repairing injured Tissues, arresting the Progress of Decay, and stimulating
to healthy action the Digestive, Nutritive and Circulating Organs. As nearly all
DISEASES have their ORIGIN in the BLOOD,
its fountain should be
CLEANSED AT ITS SOURCE!

This fine new era is infallibly secured by HOW-
ARD'S SYRUP, which has
Redeemed Thousands of Victims
FROM PREMATURE GRAVES!

THE SYRUP is the most efficacious Remedy
known for that dreadful scourge of our Race,
CANCER in its many forms, however ob-scurely and completely banishing the TORTURING KNIFE. The worst cases, given over by Physicians, have yielded to it.

CANCER, it cures in its worst forms in
young and old.

SCROFULA, hereditary, or recent, it completely eradicates, leaving the system without taint.

SALT RHEUM in its many aspects, can-
not withstand its virtues, as thousands testify.

ERYSIPELAS of the worst kind soon
loses its virulent character. The Syrup is an unfailing remedy.

TUMORS need not be removed by the knife;
the Syrup disperses them permanently.

WHITE SWELLINGS are acted on by the Syrup throughout the Blood. Many limbs have been saved by it.

ULCERS, however old or malignant, are
healed by the Syrup without the usual danger of
stopping Running Sores.

KING'S EVIL fails in the Syrup a Specific.
NEURALGIA, however distressing, has been cured by it when all other remedies have failed.

JAUNDICE is cured by the action of the
Syrup on the Liver and Bile Ducts, and DYS-PEPSIA caused by vitiated or insufficient Bile
is removed.

FEMALE WEAKNESSES—it removes with ease and certainty, and treats regularly, it promotes the healthy periodical secretion.

RICKETS, a Children's disease, it completely eradicates, and saves years of misery, even preventing conception. In short it is the only safe and certain remedy known for THE CURE of

EVERY KIND OF HUMOR!
and is so permeating that mothers nursing may
keep their own and their infants' blood pure by
its use. All suffering from Nervous Complaints, Impure Constitution, Palpitations and General Debility will find it give them REBORN
HEALTH and VIGOR.

FOR SKIN DISEASES—it is especially suited, as it soon eradicates all Blanches, Furples, &c., and imparts the Brilliance of Health
to the Complexion.

* * * Where irritation of the Lungs and Coughs attend the diseases named, the expectant and soothing effect of the Syrup ensures relief and repose;
and strengthens the system.

No case of failure of the Syrup has ever been known where its use has been persevered in.

It might be easy to enter into learned scientific
theories. We prefer to lay a plain story of facts
before the sufferers who seek relief, therefore we
now offer this

Simple Vegetable Compound
which cannot harm and certainly cures.

THE QUINCY PATRIOT.

Saturday, Oct. 29th, 1864.

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are we."

DEATH OF MORTON PACKARD. In our last we mentioned the illness of this young man at the hospital at Washington—and the immediate departure of his father, on the receipt of the intelligence, for that place. He arrived there on Thursday night, of last week, but too late to find his son alive; he died about one o'clock that evening. In his last moments he was calm and tranquil; conscious of his approaching end; and amid the surroundings of the pomp of war, bowed to the summons, with Christian hope and resignation. His remains were embalmed, and received here on Tuesday, and interred at the old Cemetery burial ground on Thursday. Morton was the eldest child of Mr. William Henry Packard, of this town, and at the time of his decease, was twenty-four years of age. On the breaking out of the war, he promptly responded to the call, on the patriotism of the country, and has been in the army of the Potomac from its first inauguration to the present time; young and ardent—devoted and true—he shared largely in its hardships and honors. Peace to his ashes.

FIRE IN DORCHESTER. A large barn near Upham's corner, in Dorchester, belonging to Mrs. Holden, was, with all its contents destroyed by fire about 9 1/2 o'clock Wednesday morning. It is supposed the fire was set by a couple of mischievous boys who were seen in the vicinity just previously.

RAILROAD ACCIDENT. As the Fall River accommodation train, was leaving North Bridgewater on Thursday morning last for Boston, it ran into a drove of cattle which were crossing the track, killing seven outright, and injuring twelve so that they were slaughtered in the vicinity. A portion of the train was thrown from the track, but fortunately no one was injured. After a delay of more than an hour the train arrived in Boston. The drivers of the cattle were the only parties to blame for the mishap, as the usual signals of the approach of the train to the crossing were given.

REBEL PRISONERS REMOVED FROM UNDER FIRE. General Foster having been officially notified that the Union prisoners in Charleston have been removed from under fire, has ordered the removal of the rebel prisoners on Morris Island to Fort Pulaski, where they will be kept under a strong guard.

A GOOD DIVIDEND. The semi-annual dividend of the First National Bank of Marlboro is nine per cent, payable on the first of November.

FIRE IN ROXBURY. The Metropolitan Railroad stables, at the end of the Mount Pleasant route, were entirely destroyed, together with three dwelling houses on Monday morning last. One of these was owned by the Metropolitan Company, and occupied by Mr. Thomas Billings, who lost everything he had, including a considerable sum of money in silver.

FURLONGS EXTENDED. A general order has been issued by command of General Dix, stating that pursuant to instructions from the War Department, the furloughs of all disabled soldiers given from hospitals in the Department of the East (which includes New England) have been extended until the 12th of November next.

PROPELLERS FOR THE FALL RIVER AND NEWPORT ROUTE. It is stated that the Bay State Steamboat Company are having built four propeller steamboats, for the route between Fall River and Newport, to carry freight, and that the New York steamers will make their terminus at Newport, next spring.

ATTEND TO YOUR "UNDERSTANDINGS." By reference to another column, it will be seen that Mr. Perez Joyce, on Quincy Avenue, is prepared to put us on a sure and durable footing. He will repair all rips and other blemishes in our "understandings;" and render them as strong and good as new. Give him a call.

ONE WAY TO GET A HAT. When the cars on the Eastern Railroad were passing Rowley last week a passenger lost his hat, and taking on badly because the conductor would not stop for him to pick it up. Another passenger told him to keep still and he would give him a better hat than that. When the train reached Newburyport, the last named man opened a window and calling to a stranger entered into earnest conversation on politics till the cars had started, when he reached out his hand, grabbed the outsider's knee, and throwing it to the hapless passenger, told him to put it on and hold his tongue. —Newburyport Herald.

IN 1860, petroleum oil was unknown in France; in 1861, 40 casks were sent there as a curiosity; in 1862, 3934 casks were sent there as an experiment; in 1863 the demand there brought 29,197 casks, and this year, so far, 36,672 casks have been sent to Marseilles.

Boston Correspondence.

Boston, Oct. 27, 1864.

War news of the week not exciting. Sherman's campaign is quietly progressing in Georgia. The rebel papers hazard the prediction that with Beauregard in Georgia, Atlanta will soon be occupied by Confederate forces. This is but a game of brag which the Southern traitors know how to play to perfection. Letters from the armies in front of Petersburg and Richmond represent matters as progressing favorably for the Union cause. Lee's army is said not to exceed seventy thousand. His veteran troops are mostly round Petersburg and on Butler's immediate front; the interior lines being occupied by impressed men. General Grant has a railroad along the battle lines of the army of the Potomac, with a terminus at the outer chain of fortifications. It is working well, and is a great thing. Sheridan's victory in the Shenandoah Valley turns out to be one of the most decided federal triumphs of the war. He is still preparing for another advance. General Hooker is looking after the guerrilla war in the West and Southwest. In his speech at Springfield on Friday the 21st inst, he considers the rebellion about played out. I think, says he, that all the battles we will have to fight are already fought. The early election next month will pass off quietly, and it will pass off successfully. The victory at the ballot box will be in vindication of this union and our authority. It will be more than a Waterloo defeat to those who are arrayed against our country. He believes that the next election will achieve the greatest victory that has been won from the beginning of this rebellion to the present time; a two-edged sword, cutting both ways. He believes that every single State in the union will cast its vote for Abraham Lincoln on the eighth of November. The political campaign is progressing very silently in this city. Enthusiastic union meetings are held almost daily. The great speech of Mr. Everett at Faneuil Hall on the evening of the 19th inst. has produced a profound impression. He considers the political contest now raging at the North a greater evil than the loss of many pitched battles. Like General Grant, he maintains that all we want to insure an early restoration is a determined unity of sentiment at the North. Notwithstanding our great national debt, Mr. Everett assures us the credit of the country is good; loans are readily taken by the people, and they cheerfully submit to taxation. Our foreign relations have been conducted at Washington, London and Paris with such ability, firmness, moderation and good sense, that a friendly understanding with the great powers has been preserved. He maintains that a change of administration would lead to the most disastrous results. For four months from November to March the government of the country as far as the measures which divide public opinion are concerned, would be in abeyance; nominally in the hands of persons defeated in an appeal to the people, the source of all power.

A general paralysis would ensue; the outgoing administration would be powerless under the stigma of public opinion, while the incoming administration would have no means of entering on the measures which would be necessary to the salvation of the country. Mr. Everett justifies the emancipation project, on the ground that slavery either as motive or pretext had caused the war—giving the rebels physical power in 600,000 able bodied men, inhabitants of the South, and owing allegiance to the United States; that besides the employment of one half of this number in direct military service in forts, field works and general camp labor, and other domestic employments at home, thus increasing to that extent the force of their armies; while in many cases the slaves themselves were actually armed and accompanied their armies to the field. In closing his remarks, he appeals to the people to sustain the Union through the present administration regardless of party predilections or prejudices. Mr. Everett as one of the most distinguished statesmen of the day has spoken in matchless strains of eloquence for the union cause. In the speech before us, he has uttered the words of truth, sobriety and patriotism; for the honor and salvation of our country, let his counsels be heeded.

COFFEE. We consider a cup of good coffee one of the necessary articles required for a good breakfast, and in these times when the real article is so expensive, we find nothing that supplies its place better than the Hard Times Coffee, manufactured by H. B. Newhall, 36 South Market Street, Boston.

The pirate Florida is again committing depredations on American commerce. The ship Southern Rights, of Richmond, Me., reported captured and bonded, is a first class ship of 830 tons, and was built at Richmond about five years ago.

Joseph Lake, a "fat boy" 12 years old and weighing 385 pounds, died at his home in Chichester, N. H., on the 19th, of typhoid fever. He took cold while on an exhibition tour.

Yor is said to be the first town in Maine that had a settlement. On the York river still stand two block-houses, 200 years old. One of them is still occupied by a descendant of the builder—John McInture.

The steamer Rosko, burned by Confederate pirates, was owned by Messrs. Ludlum Heineken & Co., of New York, and was valued at $200,000. The steamers Jamestown and Yorktown, seized by the rebels at Richmond in the early part of the rebellion, belonged to the same firm.

The slate quarries near Bangor have been worked about twenty years, and are now producing a quality of slate superior to that from any other quarries, American or foreign. It is a little singular that the slate is all cut out by Welchmen; Yankees are not patient enough to learn the process.

Deaths. In this town on the 25th inst., Willie G. son of Mr. John B. and Mrs. S. E. Newcomb, aged 2 years, 4 months and 26 days. On the 20th inst., at Washington, (D. C.) Mr. Morton Packard, Member of the 16th Mass. Regiment, and son of Mr. William H. Packard of this town, aged 24 years, 10 months and 26 days.

For the Patriot.

Quincy Teachers' Association.

This Association met according to adjournment on the 24th of October at 7 1/2 o'clock P.M. A goodly number of the Teachers of the town were present. They first listened to a short address by the President. He reviewed the progress of the Association from the first and stimulated us to make the meetings of the present season still more profitable than those of the past season.

Then followed the reading of the Teachers' Mirror by the Editresses, Miss A. A. Holbrook and Mrs. Whitcher. This paper was very well received and contained a variety of instructive and amusing matter.

Miss Mary A. Holbrook, Miss H. A. French and Mr. Edward W. Howe, presented select readings of poetry—in very good taste and style, and were evidently appreciated by their audience.

Then followed the discussions of the question: "What is your method of reviewing?" Mr. Allen, of the Adams School, opened the debate, and was followed by Mr. Howe, of the High School. The discussion was closed by some remarks from Stephen Morse, Jr., Esq. The disputants agreed that careful reviewing is necessary, but differed a little about the manner in which it is to be accomplished. None of them thought a review and advance lesson on the same day as a rule to be a good plan. The Association adjourned for two weeks.

Camp Burnside.

INDIANAPOLIS, (Ind.) Oct. 22d, 1864.

To the Publisher of the Patriot: Being a stormy day and not having much to do, I thought I would pen a few lines, to while away a little dull time. Having received the Patriot of the 15th, and in looking over its columns, we read the last McClellan demonstration, with great many remarks, and a great deal of laughing—especially at some of the remarks made by the President of the Club in regard to our flag being driven from all parts of the land, and almost driven from the sea, and was in the hands of their chosen standard bearer. Can it be possible that the union men and women of Quincy who have suffered so much by the hands of the rebels and who had friends killed and imprisoned by them, and starved all but to death, allow such remarks to be made.

Well, after a long debate, we came to the conclusion that, either our friends were all out of town, or all turned traitors; but then, to look the thing all through, and the men that lead it, we suppose, they thought, that it was not worth their notice—and came to the conclusion, to let the poor fellows have all the good time they could; for sure as fate, their death knell is tolling all around. General Grant is tolling in front of Richmond, and has about finished them, there. Sherman is tolling in Georgia to their sorrow; and the heroic Farragut is tolling in front of Mobile, every time he tolls, makes them tremble from head to foot. Perhaps the gentleman that made the opening speech on that occasion, ever to be remembered by his friends to their sorrow, and has forgot those three gentlemen, when he alluded to the starry banner being driven from all parts of the land and seas.

We hope our friends will do their duty faithfully—and if they will try and get us home in time, we can assure them there will be no such thing as fail. Company B, is all right—and so is another Corps—not the last one—that is well known to all. Yours truly, CORPORAL G. of Company B.

Commissioner Lewis expresses the opinion that the internal revenue for the next fiscal year will amount to $300,000,000.

The wild geese have commenced their annual journey southward.

The soldiers' wives and widows employed by the Government in New York are asking for an increase of pay. A petition to that effect has already received more than 5000 signatures.

The steamer Rosko, burned by Confederate pirates, was owned by Messrs. Ludlum Heineken & Co., of New York, and was valued at $200,000. The steamers Jamestown and Yorktown, seized by the rebels at Richmond in the early part of the rebellion, belonged to the same firm.

The slate quarries near Bangor have been worked about twenty years, and are now producing a quality of slate superior to that from any other quarries, American or foreign. It is a little singular that the slate is all cut out by Welchmen; Yankees are not patient enough to learn the process.

Deaths. In this town on the 25th inst., Willie G. son of Mr. John B. and Mrs. S. E. Newcomb, aged 2 years, 4 months and 26 days. On the 20th inst., at Washington, (D. C.) Mr. Morton Packard, Member of the 16th Mass. Regiment, and son of Mr. William H. Packard of this town, aged 24 years, 10 months and 26 days.

Summary of Intelligence.

ORIGINAL AND SELECTED.

The Massachusetts colored troops have been at length paid off in full by the United States government, at the same rates other soldiers are paid. Justice is tardy but sure.

The Chicopee Manufacturing Company, of Chicopee Falls, have made a contract with the government for 650,000 yards of cotton flannel for the army; also 100,000 yards of cotton cloth for the same purpose.

There are two freshmen in Bangor who receive annually, between twenty and thirty thousand dollars each, in gold, as dividends of the product of a mine in which they are interested in California, and in which, for a time, they wrought with their own hands.

One of the parishoners of Rev. Fra D. Clark, pastor of the Baptist church in Northampton, offered him a load of wood if he would cut it, whereupon the parson proceeded to the woods, and in a little more than one day, had a cord and a half of wood at the door of his house, which he had chopped with his own hands.

A woman in Franklin county, Missouri, raised a half an acre of tobacco this year, doing all the work herself, and cleared $600 by it.

Potatoes of a superior quality were selling in Warren, N. H., for thirty-two cents a bushel, on Saturday last.

A proclamation has been issued by President Lincoln, setting apart the last Thursday of November as a day of thanksgiving for victory.

One hundred and fifty patients have been transferred from Readville to the Dale U. S. General Hospital at Worcester, which will accommodate 350 patients when completed.

General Grant has captured more guns in the present rebellion than any other General in the service. Sheridan seems determined to rival him. In the last month he captured over eighty pieces of artillery from the rebels.

Butler is selling at twenty-six cents a pound along the railroad lines in western New York.

A returned prisoner says that while he was at Faneuil Hall he saw a cartload of soldiers' letters dumped into the river.

It is expected that the new railroad between Warren and Fall River will be ready for the trains in about six weeks.

Captain Ericson has invented a new gun, which is said to surpass anything now in use—throws a ball eight miles.

An Association for Reducing the Prices of Living, has been organized at Manchester, N. H.

Two heavy shocks of earthquake were felt in California, on the night of the 15th of October.

Paris exporters are complaining terribly of the great falling off in American exportations. The shipments have not been so meagre during the past ten years as they are at present.

Roxbury is moving for annexation to Boston.

Fort Warren is again filling up with prisoners. There are now there four rebel Generals, a considerable number of guerrillas captured in Virginia, and several Captains of blockade runners.

The present is the season of large potatoes. Down in Maine they have them nearly four pounds weight.

Mount Mansfield, Vermont, had a night cap of two feet of snow on Saturday morning last.

The total amount of National Bank currency issued is $55,376,730.

The last internal revenue report shows the income to be sixteen millions a month, or nearly two hundred millions a year.

One of the carriages in the Masonic procession at Boston recently, contained three Master Masons whose united age was 248 years. They were Rev. Mr. Bailey of Dorchester, 81 years of age; Capt. Brigham of Dorchester, aged 87; and Thomas Kettell of Quincy, aged 80.

In crossing a pond in Yarmouth for the extension of the Cape Cod Railroad, a discouraging depth of mud is found, estimated at thirty-five feet, which rises to the surface under the pressure of the gravel carried in, and which becomes available as a rich fertilizer.

Last year 25,196 persons died in New York an average of 69 daily, and an increase 3,953 over the previous year.

Our Literary Corner.

WHITE AND BLACK LIES—by Mrs. Leslie; 15mo; 320 pp.; Henry Hoyt publisher. A most instructive as well as entertaining book. With admirable clearness, directness and force does this talented authoress expose the meanness, folly and wickedness of lying. She very properly ignores the distinction between large and small, black and white lies; and shows that fashionable falsehoods—lies of authorship, lies of trade, lies at school, parish lies—by an unflinching exposure of the dishonesty, and will surely bring their punishment in this and the next world. We heartily recommend the book to every teacher and parent. The occasional use of outlandish words like chaperon, froufrou, and "plead," as a participation for pleasure, somewhat mar the elegance which usually marks the style of the book.

LIFE OF DAVID SCUDDER; 402 pp. We have read this memorial with deep and tearful interest. It has the charm of a romance, while at the same time it is a most impressive exhibition of the life and labors of a devoted missionary. Our intimate acquaintance with Mr. S. gives us an opportunity to bear testimony to the truthfulness of this portrait of character.

CHRISTIAN WORLD, for November. We always welcome the prompt appearance of this excellent magazine. The article this month on "Tlaxtepec, President of Mexico," is a very valuable one.

Jenks & Palmer, opposite the Park Street Church. Our readers will thank us for drawing their attention to the Exhibition of Paintings and other elaborate works of art, daily open to the public, without charge, by this liberal and accommodating firm.

The late rains have yielded sufficient water to the rivers in Maine to enable lumbermen to get their logs to the mills with great facility.

TO VOTERS. The Selectmen will meet at the Town Hall on MONDAY, the Seventh day of November next, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, to place names on the List.

Also, At the same place on TUESDAY, the Eighth day of November, at 8 o'clock in the forenoon, for the same purpose.

One hundred dollars for an Over-Coat.
[NOT SHILLABER.]

Josh, at your elbow, intimates that where great reduction in prices of Clothing is advertised, it is "a sign the property was either marked up for the occasion" or the key note was "pitched" so high that they couldn't sing the tune through.

Now Josh has impudence and brass enough for ten men, but it don't deter us from saying that we have during the last week received a large quantity of goods from Boston and New York Auctions, bought at rates low enough to meet any emergency.

We invite your attention. We can give you a good Overcoat from $8 to $45.00; Business Coat from $8 to $20.00; Extra Pants from $3.50 to $16.00; Vests from $2.00 to

TREASURY DEPARTMENT.

Office of Comptroller of Currency,
Washington, September 13, 1864.

WHEREAS by satisfactory evidence presented to the undersigned, it has been made to appear that The National Bank of Quincy, in the County of Quincy, in the State of Massachusetts, has been duly organized and according to the requirements of said Act of Congress entitled "An Act to provide a National Currency secured by a pledge of United States Bonds and to provide for the Circulation and redemption thereof," approved June 3, 1864, and has complied with all the provisions of said Act required to be complied with before commencing the business of Banking under said Act.

Now, therefore, I, Hugh McCulloch, Comptroller of the Currency, do hereby certify that "The National Bank of Quincy, in the County of Norfolk, and State of Massachusetts, is authorized to commence the business of Banking under the Act aforesaid."

In testimony whereof, witness my hand, and seal of office, this thirtieth day of September,

BLOOD-ROOT ELIXIR
Has been thoroughly tested and proved in his medical practice, to be a powerful PURGATIVE YEARS, and is now presented to the public as an effective cure for
PLEASANT AND AGREEABLE
TO THE TASTE,
and by their peculiar combination, work perfectly in HARMONY WITH NATURE, with no unpleasant reaction will follow its operation.
It also possesses
A DIFFUSIVE AND ALTERNATIVE
EFFECT,
which can only be obtained by medicine in a fluid state. These are new elements in purgative medicines.
The BLOOD-ROOT ELIXIR has no partial action upon the bowels, but is equally diffused there, and throughout the whole circulation of the blood, imparting a healthy and invigorating action to the STOMACH, LIVER, LUNGS, KIDNEYS, and gently stimulating dormant and morbid secretions throughout the whole system.
A single dose will produce a cheerful and exhibiting COMOTION, which will inspire the patient with confidence, and assurance of IM-MEDIATE RELIEF. A continuance for a short period will DRIVE the obscure and hidden humors to the surface of the skin, and relieve or check SCROFULOUS AFFECTIONS—and by thus purifying and strengthening the Blood, will remove the most fruitful
CAUSE OF CONSUMPTION.
It cures the various organs of the system, to act their allotted part, removing the causes which induce RHEUMATISM and NEURALGIA,
HEADACHE, LOSS OF APPETITE, DYS-PEPSIA, CONSTIPATION, and the various diseases which arise from a derangement of the Stomach and Bowels, and restricted circulation
of the Blood.
See the pamphlet around each bottle for a history of the Elixir.

Value of a Little.

Do thy little, do it well;
Do what right and reason tell;
Do what wrong and sorrow claim, Conquer sin and cover shame.

Do thy little though it be Dreariness and drudgery;
They whom Christ apostles made,
"Gathered fragments" when he bade.

Do thy little, never mind
Though thy brethren be unkind;
Though the men who ought to smile,
Mock and taunt thee for a while.

Do thy little, never fear
While thy Saviour standeth near;
Let the earth its jewels throw,
On thy way undaunted go.

Do thy little, God has made Million leaves for glory bade;
Smallest stars their glory bring,
God employeth everything.

Do thy little, and when thou Feel'st on thy pallid brow,
Ere has fled thy vital breath,
Cold and damp the sweat of death,

Then the little thou hast done—
Little battles thou hast won,
Little mysteries achieved,
Little wants with care relieved,

Little words in love expressed,
Little wrongs at once confessed,
Little favors kindly done,
Little toils thou didst not shun,

Little graces meekly won,
Little slights with patience borne—
These shall crown thy pillow'd head,
Holy light upon thee shed;

These shall all perfume the air,
When the spirit enters there.
Yet they still will linger here,
And thy name shall long endure,
For a legacy shall be
In their deathless memory.

Daily Nearer.
Nearer home, nearer home!
However dark and lonely
The path through which we roam;
This is a journey only—
And though we oft, affrighted,
Shrink back with sigh and moan,
Our camp fires still are lighted.

"A day's march nearer home."
Nearer home, nearer home,
Oh, joy beyond expressing,
That over thorns and stones
Our feet are homeward pressing!
For though we leave behind us
Some buds of hope unblown
The sunset still doth find us
"A day's march nearer home."

Nearer home, nearer home!
O many-mansioned dwelling,
Beneath thy shining dome
No tides of grief are swelling;
And towards thy fondles glory
With eager haste we come Repeating earth's brief story.
"A day's march nearer home."

Nearer home, nearer home!
Soon through its open portals
The ransomed hosts will come
To welcome us immortals;
Then be the path before us
With wrecks or roses strown
Each night we'll sing in choros,
"A day's march nearer home."

Anecdotes.

John, inquired a dominie of a hopeful pupil, what is a tailor?
A man who makes nails, replied hopefully, quite readily.

Very good. Now what is a tailor?
One who makes tails, was the equally quick reply.

O, you blockhead, said the dominie, biting his lips; a man who makes tails! did you ever?

To be sure, quoth hopeful—if the tailor didn't put tails to the coats he made, they would be all jackets.

En?—ah!—well!—to be sure. I didn't think of that. Beats Watt's logic! Go to the head of the class John—you'll be President of the United States some day.

Kate was talking growlingly about 'love apples.'
That's strange! exclaimed Curley, her accepted lover.

Why should love be associated with apples? On the contrary. I thought that love always went in pairs.

Kate smiled approvingly.

Impudent servant (to mistress who is just trying on her new bonnet):
What a darling of a bonnet! And maybe you'll tell me who's your milliner? I'd like to be after getting' one made just like it?

A bashful youth was lamenting to his paternal progenitor the ordeal of popping the question:
Pooh, said the patriarch, how do you suppose I managed?

You'd better talk, responded the hopeful, you married mother, and I've got to marry a strange gal?

entirely new Remedy.

WHITE SWELLINGS are acted on by the Syrup through the Blood. Many limbs have been saved by it.

ULCERS, however old or malignant, are
healed by the Syrup without the usual danger of
stopping Running Sores.

JAUNDICE is cured by the action of the Syrup on the Liver and Bile Ducts, and DYS- PEPSIA caused by vitiated or insufficient Bile is removed.

FEMALE WEAKNESSES—it removes
with ease and certainty, and taken regularly, it promotes the healthy periodical secretion.

RICHTER'S, a Children's disease, it com- pletely eradicates, and saves years of mis- ery, even preventing consumption. In short it is the only safe and certain remedy known for THE CURE OF Origin of the American Flag.

A staff was raised by friendly hand,
Celled from the forest's choicest oak,
Around which came the nation band,
To plant it firm, with final stroke.
An eagle coursed in its flight
Beheld its summit high in air,
And with a cry of wild delight,
He took his lofty station there.

Amid the glittering host appeared;
And trumpets rent the still air,
As Freedom's rushing chariot neared,
She came to hoist a standard there.
Then with reflection from the sky,
The aged monarch, Neptune, came,
And placed a square of lively blue—
The color of his vast domain.

Then Freedom from her shrine on high,
Caught up the planets shining bright,
And placed them on it there to shine
In one rich gleam of endless light.
A drum was heard, a distant drum,
Which ushered victory and fame,
And round the staff she tied her wreath,
While Fame proclaimed the Nation's name.

Winged cherubs too arrived at last,
Proclaimed the mighty work aloud,
And for the standard holding fast
While lining of a silvery cloud.
Then sprang it forth, another came,
With streaked vermilion from the sun,
While Concord sewed the airy seam—
And thus the Nation's Flag began.

THE ONLY GENTLEMAN. Dr. Franklin in one of his visits to England, had with him an intelligent negro servant. During a journey of inspection through the manufacturing districts of the country, the negro said to him one day—"Massa, in this country everybody, everything must work—water work, wind work, firelock work, dog work; only the pig no work, he only eat and sleep; de pig is the only gentleman in England."

THREE WONDERS IN HEAVEN. John Newton said—"When I get to heaven, I shall see three wonders there. The first wonder will be to see so many people there whom I did not expect to see; the second wonder will be to miss many people whom I did expect to see; and the third and greatest wonder of all will be to find myself there."

A young man advertises for a situation as son-in-law in a respectable family. He would have no objections to go a short distance into the country.

Good faith is the richest exchequer of governments, for the more it is drawn upon, the firmer it is, and its resources increase with its payments.

Good nature, like the little busy bee, collects sweetness from every herb; while ill-nature, like the spider, collects poison from honeyed flowers.

Be not too hasty in forming an opinion of others from external appearances. A pure heart is often contained therein.

"It is a very solemn thing to get married," said Aunt Bethany. "Yes, but it's a great deal more solemn not to be," said her niece.

There are two kinds of the disease called love. The one resembles apoplexy and seizes you without a moment's warning. The other produces its effect by degrees, like small doses of arsenic.

Mrs. Jameson says—"The bread of life is love; the salt of life is work; the sugar of life is poetry; the water of life is faith."

We have heard of but one old woman who kissed her cow, but there are thousands of young ones who have kissed their calves.

When the blossoms and leaves of a woman's beauty fall, we discover her defects, as we behold ravens' nests in the trees in winter.

The noblest question in the world is—
What good can I do in it.

Every one complains of the badness of his memory, but no one of his judgment.

How shall I be useful?" asked one. Sing as you go, said his friend. Let me see you sing with a genuine smile upon your face, coming up from a happy heart, as you go out and in.
That will draw men to your Master.

A philosopher, on being asked from whence he received his first lesson in wisdom, replied—
"From the blind, who never take a step until they have felt the ground before them."

Joy is heightened by exultant strains of music, but grief is eased only by low tones.
A sweet, sad measure, is the balm of a wounded spirit. Music lightens toil. The sailor pulls more cheerily for his song.

He who, being master of the fittest moment to crush an enemy, magnanimously rejects it, is born to be a conqueror.

That man cannot be your friend who will not allow you to teach him anything.

Wanted to know—whether the volume of sound has yet been found.

To a lover there are but two places in all the world—one where his sweetheart is, and the other where she isn't.

An American editor thus distinguishes between different sorts of patriotism: Some esteem it sweet to die for one's country; others regard it sweeter to live for one's country; but most of our patriots hold it sweetest to live upon one's country.

Miscellaneous.

"I Thought I Wouldn't."

Two young journey-men mechanics were working at their benches, on opposite sides of a cabinet maker's shop. They were both about twenty-five years of age; both married, both healthy and intelligent. One of them stopped his work, turned round toward the other, and leaning against his bench, thus addressed him:

Dick, I always thought you were quick-tempered; you used to be when you were a boy. Now I think I am not quick-tempered, but if the boss had talked to me as he did to you yesterday, I believe I should have knocked him down, let the consequences be what they might.

Well, Tom, I am quick-tempered, replied the person accosted as Dick, and as to knocking old Scoldem down, I had my thoughts about that matter too.

To be sure, I reckoned you were right mad enough when I saw your face as white as a sheet, said Tom, but I should like to know what your thoughts were on this "solemn occasion," as they say.

Dick laid down his chisel, and turning around, folded his arms, and replied.

I thought I would, and then I thought I wouldn't. When old Scoldem first found fault with me, and began to scold me, and finally got angry and abused me merely because I would not answer him in the same style, I thought—it was not thinking, it was only an impulse—it occurred to me that if I should only give him one good blow under the left eye, which should tumble him among the shavings promiscuously—it would be serving him just about right, for I was terrible angry. But then I thought—and it was thinking, for it came after the impulse and restrained it—then I thought that was a great deal older man than I was, and had a wife, and sons and daughters grown up and married, who would be very much shocked and pained to hear that he had been treated in this way; and I thought, too, that I was in his employ, and could quit him at any moment if his service was intolerable, and that it would be disgraceful to me to have it reported that I had had a fight with my boss; and I thought how bad Lucy would feel if I was arrested for a breach of the peace, or even made myself liable to be, and so, "I thought I wouldn't."

Ah, Dick, said Tom, those were not exactly your feelings, when you took hold of your hammer, and then pushed it away from you.
I believe I was as white as you, just at that moment, for I expected you would drop him sure.

You are mistaken, Tom, replied Dick, I did not take hold of the hammer from impulse, or design to use it, but "I thought I wouldn't" have it where I could seize it and strike him without stirring out of my tracks; and so I pushed it over the end of my bench, and it fell among the shavings; and it took me a long time to find it when I wanted it again.

Well, said Tom, I don't believe I could have stood what you did, anyhow. But you use that expression, "I thought I wouldn't," as if it was a sort of favorite one; have you adopted it as a motto for your coat of arms, I should like to know.

"Sorter some, sorter not," as they say out West, replied Dick laughing, but it is said that all the highest modes of thought have a stereotyped expression, and that is the reason, for instance, why those who speak the English language are always seeking for liberty expressed in the great phrases which are so commonly used in books, speeches and newspapers. So I confess that I have got one little phrase, which, when I am in action, reads,
"I think I won't," and when I am pondering over what I didn't do, signifies "I thought I wouldn't."—And I think this phrase over a good deal, and I confess it does me good. I'll tell you how I got into it.

About a year ago, I went home one damp, slushy, thawing night, rather late for supper.
Old Scoldem had been very cross that day,
and very insolent; and that with the unpleasant weather, made me feel very cross, too.
Very—Well I got home. The fire was almost out, the room uncomfortable; but supper was ready, and we sat down at the table.
Lucy did not seem inclined to talk, little Jimmy was fretful; the tea was weak and cold, and the toast wasn't made right. I felt very much annoyed, and I thought I would just tell Lucy, in a confidential sort of way that the tea was only sops, and that the toast wasn't fit to throw to the pigs, and that I would then put on my hat, and go off to the Old Fellows' lodge earlier than usual, and serve her right. But then I looked across the table at Lucy, who sat there holding her baby, eating nothing, and looking pale and weary; and I noticed, too, that little Jimmy looked flushed, as he sat there in his arm chair;
and it occurred to me that it was just possible that my wife might be feeling ill, and that little Jimmy was affected by the weather, just like older folks, and that perhaps this damp air might have affected the draught of the chimney. I asked Lucy if she was ill, and she said that for six hours she had had a terrible nervous headache; so "I thought I wouldn't" say anything about the tea and toast, but I persuaded Lucy to lay down on the settee with the baby, while I took little Jimmy on my knee, and commenced telling him a story, as I put on his night-gown, and then put him into his crib, where as I was describing to him the old man's sheep jumping over the wall—then another—and then another—and then another—he went over the wall with the twentieth, and was fast asleep.

Then I cleared the table, and put away the things till morning, raked out the fire and got it going, and took the baby, and placed it in the cradle. I got some cold water and bathed Lucy's hands and face and smoothed down her hair with my hands, (magnetism you think? well, no matter,) and placed a wet cloth upon her forehead. I asked her if she was better. Yes, she said with a sweet smile, and fairly went to sleep while she said so. So I got down a book of travels and forgot all about myself for a couple of hours.

Then I looked up, and as I saw little Jimmy sleeping so soundly and pleasantly in his crib, where he had kicked himself out to the top of the bed-clothes; and the baby, too, dozing quietly with her thumb in her mouth; and Lucy, who was so cross, and with a half smile on her parted lips, the fire burning brightly, and the rain beating against the windows, I was glad I did not speak a cross word to Lucy, and leave her sick and alone with a deranged kitchen, a dull fire, a fretful child, and a nursing baby. What a brute I should have been to have done it.

Yes, of course, said Tom, rather slowly, for he was just then impressed with an idea that he, with all his good temper, had "done it" at a time not very remote. Well, he regained his composure by saying, Well, go on Dick, his is as interesting as a prize tale.

I have but little more to say, continued Dick.
I have considered the matter a great deal and the more I consider upon it, the more
"I think I won't."

When old Scoldem is insolent to me when any one jostles me insultingly, when a tradesman or a fellow-craftsman treats me rudely, my first impulse is to pay him in his kind; but when I consider that it will do me no good to do it, "I think I won't." When I am annoyed by short comings at home, and am tempted to find fault, I ask myself if Lucy is not a good-tempered, industrious woman, a good mother and a loving wife, and if I don't really think she meant to do as well as she might under the circumstances, and the sharp expression never forms on my lips, because "I think I won't." So when the children are too noisy, or one of them is fretful, I think the noise is of preferable to constrained silence, and that it is better to take the little fevered urchin on one's lap, and take his little fevered hand in yours, and tell him about Gulliver and the Lilliputians, than to cuff his ears and send him outraged and crying to bed. I am glad that I often "think I won't." I feel that I have triumphed when I can say, "I thought I wouldn't."

Dick, said Tom, can you give me a scrap of paper?

His friend examined his wallet and produced a piece.

Here, said he, is the back of a letter dropped to-day in the city post-office; it is addressed to me, and a post-mark on it, too, but as it is marked "Paid" I hope that won't hurt it.

All the better for having your name and date on it, Dick, said Tom, who proceeded to the desk, wrote something very carefully on the paper, folded it, and put it away in his pocket-book.

The two friends grew old together in their native city. They both became prosperous in their calling, and were noted for their kindness to their workmen and servants, for amenity to the community at large, and for their domestic happiness. They were distinguished by civil honors, and were made de-positaries of responsible trusts. They remained fast and intimate friends, and it was a source of happiness to them that their children inter-married. Thomas died first. In his last will he made a singular provision.

Item. I direct that a certain sealed package, bearing my name, shall be delivered to my true and life-long friend, Richard Felton.
It contains a gift which he made me in early life; it has been to me a great source of success, and of domestic happiness. I return it to him now; he does not need it, but will be glad to receive it.

The mysterious package was produced and opened. It contained only a crumpled, worn and somewhat soiled scrap of paper, apparently a piece of a post-marked letter, which read as follows: "July 1, 1806."

RICHARD FELTON,

LONDON, SEPTEMBER 14, 1864.

Englishmen travelling in America are much in the habit of spicing their letters home with a description of some odd genius, such as may be occasionally met with and which by representing his idiosyncrasies and vices as characteristics of the American people, we are in that manner very much misrepresented.

A true Yankee is still supposed to be long and lank, wearing a bell-crowned white hat, a short waisted swallow-tailed coat, and striped pants, which are as much too short in the legs, as the coat is too long in the tails;
the blue cotton umbrella continues in place under his arm, and he continues to whistle—and to whistle Yankee Doodle. A Yankee soldier is supposed to be of little account;
he cannot fight, and is much given to stealing pianos, poultry, pigs, and is very barbarous generally. If a Yankee upon his arrival here, will get a new hat, shave his chin, and exchange his square-toed boots for round toes, he will pass for an Englishman, although he does not take a pint of stout with his dinner, and does not eat pastry after his meals. Some of omission and of commission an Englishman is not guilty of; a Yankee can generally manage with the other beverages, and with the smokers; so that, upon the whole, there is not such a marked difference in his habits as to cause remark.

Persons that vend milk, are called cow-keepers. The individual who supplies me with that necessary article, announces his presence, early every morning, by bel-lowing like a cow. If I should follow the example of English letter writers in America, I should reason from this that all cow-keepers in this country advertise their calling in the same patented and musical manner; and that the children of cow-keepers instinctively bleat like calves.

What's in a name? Peter B. Cow has his sign upon King William street. A Mr. Death has gone to New York to recognize Muller.
Crooked Bilet is the name of a hotel in Liverpool. Cock & Trumpet, Pig & Whistle, Hatchet's Hotel, are all names of hotels in London. Common horses are led to market in droves, or rather in strings, of ten or twelve; being all fastened to one long rope by the neck and by the tail, putting one in mind of a string of huckle beads.

Since the murder of Mr. Briggs in a railway carriage, there has been some talk of adopting the American style of passenger cars; but it takes the people here so long to make up their minds to any change, that the present box style will no doubt be used fifty or one hundred years longer; and perhaps in the meantime, the disposition to ape the rich and aristocratic, will become so strong with us, that we shall insist upon suffering inconvenience, and running the risk of being robbed and murdered for the satisfaction of riding in English style. I see by the

LECTURES ON ANATOMY AND PHYSIOLOGY.
"Know thyself." There is no more practical way to observe this ancient aphorism, than we can recommend, than to put ourselves under the instruction of Dr. Miller, who is to deliver a course of lectures on these interesting subjects, at the Town Hall, commencing Nov. 10, and to be continued each succeeding evening, until the series—ten in number—are completed.

The Doctor has made these branches of science a familiar study; and with his cultivated mind, and highly illustrated anatomical cabinet and designs, he introduces interesting and wholesome truths, for the contemplation of his audience, connected with their being, as revealed in the wonderful mechanism of the human frame. Much may be learned from these lectures to preserve uninterrupted that great boon of life—health—in observing the rules there presented,—by regulating our passions and appetites, so as not to impair those secret agents, from which life springs, who rebel if Nature's laws are violated. "Know thyself," is an appeal in which every individual of the human race has more or less interest—if they would not be the slaves of ignorance and vice.

Dr. Miller has been very successful wherever he has lectured. In the most intellectual communities he has had the highest commendations awarded him. The following, which we copy from a late number of the Old Colony Memorial and Plymouth Rock, is but one among other evidences of the kind which has come to our notice.

The Resolutions here appended were offered by Rev. Dr. Brooks, Pastor of the Episcopal Church, Plymouth, at the close of a course of Lectures recently given by Dr. Miller in that town:

"Resolved. That the grateful thanks of the citizens of Plymouth are most justly due, and are hereby tendered to Dr. A. E. Miller, for his course of pleasing and profitable Lectures on the Anatomy and Physiology of Man."

"Resolved. That the elevated, moral and Christian sentiments enunciated in his Lectures are deserving of warm commendation, and entitle him to the confidence of those whom he addresses."

"Resolved. That we heartily advise all persons desirous of understanding the mechanism of the human frame,—so fearfully and wonderfully made by the Creator,—and to obtain such a knowledge of the laws of life and remedial agencies as will, through the blessing of God, either prevent, alleviate, or cure, the diseases or infirmities to which mankind is heir, to hear the entertaining and instructive Lectures, of Dr. Miller."

"Resolved. That a copy of the foregoing Resolutions be presented to Dr. Miller."

POTATOES. The Lebanon (N. H.) Free Press says: "Our farmers are getting enormous crops of potatoes this fall. Some get at the rate of five hundred bushels per acre, and so rotten ones at all, and single potatoes are often found weighing two and a half and three pounds. Such a crop has not been known for thirty years. The price will not be over thirty cents per bushel."

REV. E. P. THAWING will preach to-morrow evening in the Congregational Church, Hancock Street, on the NATIONAL ELECTION. Exercises commence at 7 o'clock. The public are invited.

Camp Burnside.

INDIANAPOLIS, (Ind.) Oct. 27, 1864.

I find in your issue of the 23d inst., an exposure of the illegal voting of a portion of our Regiment. The statements made in the communication to which I refer, are undoubtedly substantially true; but fearing that an erroneous impression may have been unintentionally conveyed to your readers, I desire to add one or two facts which may set the matter in a clearer light.

In the first place, although the men of the 69th who voted, and voted repeatedly at the late gubernatorial election, are not by any means to be excused, their offence cannot but be somewhat palliated by the fact, that the blameworthy action was instigated by certain evil minded persons of this city who have disgraced themselves, and cast opprobrium upon the union cause, by engaging in a scheme which all truth-loving and self-respecting men here, and every where else, must unhesitatingly denounce.

Secondly: So far as I am aware, the arrangements referred to was not known to our field and staff officers until after election day.

Thirdly: The result of the election was not changed by the illegal ballots cast; Governor Morton having obtained a large majority without them.

Fourthly: It is to the eternal honor of our Quincy Company, and of its officers, that but one member of it, so far as I have been able to ascertain, cast a single ballot; and in his case, it was more the result of thoughtlessness than of civil intent.

There is talk of our remaining here until after the Presidential election. I, for one, am perfectly willing to stay, if the Nation's weal requires our presence; but I trust that no man among us will again lend himself to the base services of defying the Nation's laws, even for the highest ends. CORPORAL.

For the Patriot.
McClellan Demonstration.

A large and enthusiastic assemblage consisting of our citizens, and Clubs from the adjoining towns, was gathered at the Town Hall on Tuesday evening last, by invitation of the McClellan Club. Jeffrey R. Brackett presiding, welcomed them to this old historic town—a place, he said, sacred to the memory of Hancock, the Adamses and the Quincy of Revolutionary days; and though they they had passed away—"Still in their ashes live their wonted fires."

The impartial historian of the next century is to write the page that we are living now; and on it would be recorded events that had they occurred in the times of those patriots would have lighted the beacon fires through the Colonies. In pursuance of their example, we had invited our neighbors, that we might take counsel together in this great emergency. We have seen the old man torn from his home on a quiet Sunday, in violation of all the rights of a citizen; and we have seen our young men enlisted under the pretence that they were to protect the Capital—when in fact, they were sent to a western State, there to outvote the legal residents. And notwithstanding these atrocities, we are told we must vote for Mr. Lincoln because we are at war. Now, said he, that is the very reason we intend to vote against him—because we want to get rid of him and the war too; together they came, together let them depart. Mr. Lincoln's friends would have us look upon him as the Turks look upon their Sultan:

"Who, while he wears the diadem,
Is just the same as God to them."

We acknowledge no such creed,—but propose to elect General McClellan, because we believe he is the only man who can restore the Union, and save our beloved country, now on the verge of destruction.

Some men, he said, admitted McClellan's superiority over any other man, but they did not like the platform. He had nothing to do with that. His platform was his sword and his spur—his cultivated intellect and his unpolluted heart. Others of his admirers did not like the men they thought might surround him. Now where, asked Mr. Brackett, can worse men be found than those who have surrounded Mr. Lincoln the past four years?

And in this connection, he wished to impress upon his hearers the importance of electing Senators and Representatives who would oppose the re-election of Henry Wilson; for it was not alone upon the tented field the great battle for the restoration of the Union was to be fought, but in the Cabinet and in the Council; therefore it was, that we should put beside our next President our ablest and safest men; and bid such as Wilson and Sumner—their hands all reeking with the blood of the Nation—to retire to the private station which he hoped they would adorn.

Hon. William Aspinwall, of Brookline, then spoke of the high position Norfolk County had held in the affairs of our State; saying, that when Charles Sumner was chosen, by that one vote, to his seat in the United States Senate, which had brought upon us so much suffering, he had with every member from this County opposed him to the last; and he hoped we should send just such a delegation to the Legislature this year, to oppose Henry Wilson. He then went on reviewing the acts of the administration of Mr. Lincoln, citing many cases of usurpation, of high handed assumption of power, such as the people of no other country would have submitted to.

He was followed by Richard Alney, Esq., of Boston, who held the audience in close and undivided attention, with a speech, sharp in analogies, and sound in logic. Showing the safety of our Nation to depend upon the success of the Democratic party; the preservation of the rights of each State; the yielding of all to the requirements of the Constitution; mutual respect and forbearance of sister States—and a determination to abide by the doctrines of the founders of the Republic. Mr. Alney's address was one of the most effective and convincing that we have listened to during the campaign.

Mr. Brackett in dismissing the audience gave notice that Colonel Stephenson would address the loyal citizens of the town, next Monday evening, at 7 1/2 o'clock,—reminding them that he was one of the survivors of that noble band that sprang to arms when the rebellion first broke out; when the battle was for the Union, the Constitution and the Laws; many of whom, like our own Webster and Revere:

"Had sunk to rest,
With all their country's wishes blest."

THE STATE OF NEVADA. The thirty-fifth State is added to the Union. Nevada the new member, lies east of California and south of Utah Territory, and west of Colorado, and has an immense territorial extent. Its population by the last census was 26,000, of whom nearly two-thirds were Indians. But, owing mainly to the rich silver and gold mines of the region, there has been a great influx of settlers during the last four years. At the Territorial election of 1863 nearly 11,000 votes were thrown. The new States will have three electoral votes.

Boston Correspondence.

BOSTON, Nov. 4, 1864.

The speech of the Hon. William Whiting, Solicitor of the War Department, delivered at the Musical Hall on Monday evening last, was wonderfully fine and patriotic. It was a general review of the progress of the rebellion from its inception to the present condition of the civil war, and the prospects of the dread future should the principles of the Chicago platform of 1864 prevail. He spoke two and a half hours to an attentive and immense audience, with logical force and thoroughness not surpassed by any union speech of the campaign. The following are the heads or premises he assumed:

We are in the fourth year of the war. Shall it go on or shall it not? It must decide whether this great and intelligent nation can govern itself. Whether the rule of majorities must cease. Whether honesty shall be made dishonorable? Whether free speech, the free press, and free schools, must be given up. Whether you, "greasy mechanics," you, hardfisted farmers, and you, "Northern mudsills," would not prefer to submit yourselves and your daughters to the lords of the lash? Whether the flag of the union shall hereafter be an object of contempt to every foreigner who hates us and every rebel who betrays us? Whether we shall be allowed to have the whole of our country, or only what the traitors do not want? Whether we prefer national debt and national dishonor; a broken, a crippled army; a dishonorable peace—contempt abroad and humiliation at home; or honor maintained by war, and peace won by victory? Whether our country shall be all slave or all free? Whether the Republic shall be saved or lost? These questions must be settled by the war. He maintains that there are now but two great political parties. One for the country the other for the rebels. There is no middle ground—every man must show his colors. Of those who will vote for Lincoln, there are none that deny the principles of the Declaration of Independence. None who believe the Constitution a cheat and a sham. None who oppose free speech, the free press or free schools. None who think honest labor dishonorable. None by open war or sneaking treason seek to overthrow the government. None who ever disgraced or fired upon the flag of his country. Every man should vote for Lincoln who means to fight it out until the last rebel shall be conquered.

Such are the imperfect outlines of Mr. Whiting's address. One of the ablest, if not the most able document of the present campaign. And now, before the next number of the Quincy Patriot shall be thrown from the press and scattered to its intelligent readers, the Presidential election of 1864 will have been past. A mighty, a solemn responsibility rests upon the voters of the loyal States. The destiny of their country on Tuesday is in their hands. Vote for the Union; vote for freedom; vote to sustain the general government; vote for Lincoln and Johnson; and their election will cause a shout of joy to go up from millions of loyal hearts in high anthems to Him, the Great Ruler of the Universe.

"There is a boy in Quincy, (Mass.) two years old, that can call all the letters of the alphabet, spell three or four words, and do a sum in arithmetic."

We copy the above from the N. York Sun of the 29th ult. Upon enquiry, we learn that this infant prodigy, which is making such a stir in Gotham, by his exploits, being published through their public journals, is the son of James E. Tirrell, Esq., a worthy barrister of this place, of considerable professional repute. The circumstance does not excite much interest here; we have other marvels equally rare; and as the young man is making rapid proficiency in the field of letters, we would bespeak a situation for him, if the conductors of that paper would like an assistant in their editorial bureau. We can assure them he is good for a 'moon hoax' now.

A GREAT MANUFACTURING CONCERN.

The capital of the Ameskeag Company is three millions. It has cleared ten per cent. on the capital. Its chief product has cotton for the foundation, and operations in that line are doubtful till the war ends. It has made 5,442,000 yards of cloth, equal to three thousand and three hundred and nineteen miles, the past year, or between ten and eleven miles each working day. That is about one-quarter of what it has done in peace time. Besides, it has manufactured twenty two steam fire engines, fourteen thousand five hundred Springfield rifled muskets, and other machinery.

A WORD TO ADVERTISERS. Some traders seem to have a very mistaken idea about advertising. They imagine if they insert a half square, a couple of weeks twice a year, it is all that is necessary. How silly you would call the man who should pull down his sign after it had been up two or three weeks, and store it away. Merchants obtain favorable notice only in just such measure as they appropriate the means for so doing. Advertisement, then, and let your goods meet the public eye. Our subscription list is weekly increasing and consequently we are affording greater facilities.

THERE WERE GIANTS IN THOSE DAYS.—M. Bruce, the giant of the Vosges Mountains, is visiting Edinburgh. He is eight feet high four feet six round the waist, wears a ring presented to him by the Emperor which is three times as large as ordinary rings and sleeps on a bed nine feet six inches long.

THE HARTFORD (CT.) COURANT, entered on the hundred and first year of its existence Saturday last. It published a fac simile of its initial number, published October 29, 1764 which has news from Boston only four days old.

The statistics of the provision trade show that half the cost of nearly every article of table supply in New York is profit, making an aggregate of seventy million dollars yearly and it is believed that at least one-half this amount may be saved to the consumers, without wrong to anybody.

Summary of Intelligence.

ORIGINAL AND SELECTED.

A letter from the Army of the Potomac, dated Oct. 22, says that eleven hundred rebel deserters came into our lines in twelve days. They report that if Lincoln is elected, the Confederate soldiers will desert by brigades.

On the 17th, of September many of the parishes in England celebrated what is called a "harvest home." The villagers went to church in procession, listened to a sermon, and then had a dinner of roast beef and plum pudding in the open air.

Some New Yorkers are moving to send a thousand barrels of apples to our soldiers in the army of the Potomac for Thanksgiving purposes.

An engineer officer says that Sheridan's command has captured in the valley one mile and thirty-two yards of artillery—averaging about two pieces a day since the campaign commenced—about as fast as the enemy can make them.

Snow has fallen in Vermont and on the hills of Berkshire. Old Winter is on his way.

The Bath Sentinel states that within less than two years, about thirty Bath ships, amounting in value at present rates of exchange to over $1,000,000 in our currency have been sold in England.

Forty-seven vessels are now on the way to England from the East Indies, with cargoes of cotton ranging from 1800 to 7000 bales each. The aggregate amount is no less than 224,864 bales. All these vessels are at sea, and their arrival at Liverpool at different periods will keep the cotton mills in operation for a considerable part of the coming winter.

Intelligence from Illinois says that, "all the different crops have been enormous, and in consequence business of all kinds is exceedingly brisk. Corn sells from the field at fifty cents per bushel."

Every man who is put into the United States service in Concord, N. H., has his photograph accurately taken. On the back of it his descriptive list is placed, and it is then laid away for future reference.

Foreign papers say that nothing can be more magnificent than the vintage this year in all parts of France. In the wine districts there is a superabundance of grapes. The proprietors of vineyards are actually puzzled to know what to do, their usual supply of casks having long been filled.

A farmer near Davenport, Iowa, has forty acres of onions, which are estimated to yield 915 bushels to the acre, or 6000 bushels in all. At $1.50 a bushel, this anti-scorbutic patch will bring $54,900.

Wisconsin is said to be the sportsman's paradise at this time. There are lots of fat ducks and partridges running about loose.

The celebrated Blackfriars bridge at London is in process of demolition, and a new one is to be erected in its place.

Secretary Fessenden is going to issue new fractional currency to take the place of that which has been counterfeited.

Robert Atkins, a farmer in the Connecticut River Valley, in the vicinity of Middletown, has raised a fine crop of sweet potatoes this season; some of them weighed 8 1/2 pounds.

The number of Congregational churches in Connecticut is 284, and the aggregate of members is 45,615, about ten per cent. of the population. There are 167 pastors, 50 other stated preachers, and 166 ministers without a charge.

The Taunton Gazette says that in spite of the rain, wells are yet dry, and a great deal more rain is needed to fill the springs with a winter supply.

The long bridge at Washington, commenced about fifteen months ago is completed. It is 4,046 feet long, has two draws, each 78 feet long, which are so constructed as to require but two minutes to be opened and shut again. The cost of this bridge is only about $150,000.

A Hindoo in South India has notified the English Government to vacate that country in two years as he will after that period proceed to exterminate them.

FARMING

Market Gardening Lands

IN

NEW JERSEY.

THE SUBSCRIBERS will sell Tracts of one good Land for Farming and Garden, in quantities to suit purchasers, situated in the Counties of Ocean and Burlington, on the line of the Raritan and Delaware Bay Railroad, midway between New York and Philadelphia, at $10 per acre. In addition to all the common products of a farm, these lands are valuable for growing cranberries, sweet potatoes, peaches, grapes, tobacco and hops. All crops ripen ten days earlier than on Long Island. Spunkum man is delivered at any point on the railroad at one dollar and fifty cents per ton, and fertilizes the land for seven years after its application. The lands are mostly covered with yellow pine timber, suitable for lumber and cord wood. A portion of the timber has been recently cut off, leaving the land ready for immediate use. Price of cedar rails, $5 per 100. Cord wood, at any railroad station, $3 per cord. A portion of the land contain a large quantity of the best potter's clay yet discovered, for the manufacture of yellow ware. Saw-mill within one mile of Shamong Station. A good hotel at Shamong, on the lands offered for sale.—The location is very healthy and water excellent. Lands well watered with unfailing streams, and supplied with good mill-sites and water-power for manufacturing purposes. The whole purchase money may remain on mortgage for a term of years of desired, if the purchaser cultivates the land.

FOR SALE.

FARMING

Market Gardening Lands

NEW JERSEY.

THE SUBSCRIBERS will sell Tracts of good Land for Farming and Market Gardening, in quantities to suit purchasers, situated in the Counties of Ocean and Burlington, on the line of the Raritan and Delaware Bay Railroad, military route, New York and Philadelphia, at $10 per acre. In addition to all the common products of a farm, these lands are valuable for growing cranberries, sweet potatoes, peaches, grapes, tobacco and hops. All crops ripen ten days earlier than on Long Island. Syrup can be delivered at any point on the railroad at one dollar and fifty cents per ton, and fertilizes the land for seven years after its application. The lands are mostly covered with yellow pine timber, suitable for lumber and cord wood. A portion of the timber has been recently cut off, leaving the land ready for immediate cultivation. Price of cedar rails, $5 per 100. Cord wood, at any railroad station, $3 per cord. A portion of the land contains a large quantity of the best potatoes yet discovered, for the manufacture of yellow ware. Saw-mill within one mile of Shannong Station. A good hotel at Shannong, on the lands offered for sale. The location is very healthy and water excellent. Lands well watered, with running streams, and supplied with good mill-races and water-power for manufacturing purposes. The whole purchase money may remain on mortgage for a term of years if desired, if the purchaser estimates the land.

A true copy—attest,
WASHINGTON M. FRENCH,
Constable of Quincy.

NORFOLK, ss. Quincy, October 25th, 1864.

Pursuant to the foregoing Warrant, I hereby notify and warn the Inhabitants of the Town of Quincy, qualified as therein expressed, to meet at the time and place, and for the purposes therein named.

WASHINGTON M. FRENCH,
Quincy, October 29

Constable of Quincy.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
Office of Comptroller of Currency,
Washington, September 13, 1864.

WHEREAS by satisfactory evidence presented to the undersigned, it has been made to appear that The National Mount Washington Bank of Quincy, in the Town of Quincy, in the County of Norfolk, and State of Massachusetts, has been duly organized under and according to the requirements of the Act of Congress entitled "An Act to provide a National Currency secured by a pledge of United States Bonds and to provide for the circulation and redemption thereof," approved June 3d, 1864, and has complied with all the provisions of said Act required to be complied with before commencing the business of Banking under said Act.

Now, therefore, I, Hugh McCulloch, Comptroller of the Currency, do hereby certify that "The National Mount Washington Bank of Quincy, in the Town of Quincy, in the County of Norfolk, and State of Massachusetts, is authorized to commence the business of Banking under the Act aforesaid."

In testimony whereof, witness my hand, and seal of office, this thirteenth day of September, 1864.

HUGH McCULLOCK,

NOTICE!

THE Business connection between D. B.

Poetry.

For the Patriot.
Peg and I.
TUNE—Yankee Doodle.
Hazza I hear the whistle blow,
The soldier boys are starting;
Three rousing cheers before they go,
To give them luck at parting.
Chorus—Yankee folks will go ahead,
And never say surrender;
In spite of reb or copperhead,
Or mongrel peace pretender.
Our brothers, John and Jim and Joe,
Have gone to fight the traitors;
And Peg and I will plough and sow,
Yankee folks, &c.
Our Peg is just within her teens,
And I'm a year the older;
But Peg can tell what labor means,
And I'm the boy 'tuphold her.
Yankee folks, &c.
Our Yankee boys are used to work,
And all our girls are ready;
Except a few who sneak and shirk,
When they get copperhead.
Yankee folks, &c.
Our Daddy's lame and past a cure,
But plays his crutches handy;
He'll go and vote you may be sure,
For Father Abe and Andy.
Yankee folks, &c.
And when his boys shall home return,
In triumph from the battle;
I guess he'll make some powder burn,
And make his old gun rattle.
Yankee folks, &c.
While Father Lincoln rules the roost,
And Jeff and Co. are swinging;
We'll fill the bumper for a toast,
And set the bells a ringing.
Yankee folks, &c.
And this the ruling toast will be,
To be forgotten never;
Let Justice, Law and Liberty,
Here rule henceforth forever.
Yankee folks will go ahead,
And never say surrender;
For spite of reb and copperhead,
Or mongrel peace pretender.
FRANK.

Now I Lay Me down to Sleep.

"Now I lay me down to sleep"
First beside my mother dear;
Through the husied up silence deep,
Here the double whisper stealing—
"If I die before I wake, Pray the Lord my soul to take."
"Now I lay me down to sleep"
And the angels o'er me bending,
Sent by God my soul to keep,
Through the purple night descending,
Wide-arched wings above me spread,
Heavenly shelter round my head.
"Now I lay me down to sleep"
No wild dreams could break that slumber—
I had prayed for God to keep Blessed visions without number,
Glory caught from heavenly wings,
Showers from those angel wings!
"Now I lay me down to sleep"
Had I died before the waking,
I had never learned to keep Memories for a life's heart-breaking!
From the future and the past
God had caught me up at last.
"Now I lay me down to sleep"
Ah! the angels cease the keeping Watch above the haunted dreams,
When the prayerless man is sleeping—
Where such feverish visions burn Back the sorrowing watchers turn!
"Now I lay me down to sleep"
Oh, my God? when I am dying,
Hear me pray that old-time prayer,
On my haunted death-bed lying,
From the old dreams let me wake—
"Pray the Lord my soul to take!"

Anecdotes.

Mary, why did you kiss your hand to the gentleman opposite this morning? said a careful mother to her blooming daughter.
Why, the gentleman had the impudence to throw a kernel across the street to me, and, of course, I indignantly threw it back. You wouldn't have me encourage him by keeping it, would you?
A physician passing by a gravestone maker's shop, called out to him: Good morning, neighbor; hard at work I see. You finish your gravestones as far as "In memory of," and then wait, I suppose, to see who wants a monument next.
Why, yes, replied the old joker, unless somebody is sick, and you are doctoring 'em, then I keep right on.
And what is the matter with you? asked Arabella of a hearty invalid with shoulder-straps; Why aren't you with your regiment?
Oh! I'm sick—I've got something the matter with my liver—
Ah! Yes; it is white! replied the maiden, scornfully; and off she went to dance—would you believe it?—with a civilian!
An Irishman, who had been asked to furnish proof of his marriage, took of his hat and examined a scar on his head.
"Here," said he, "is my marriage certificate—that's Judy's mark."

DR. S. O. RICHARDSON'S
BLOOD-ROOT ELIXIR

Has been thoroughly tested and proved in his medical practice, for a period of THIRTY YEARS, and is now presented to the public as an effective cure for

COSTIVENESS,

And the Best Remedy ever prepared for Diseases of the Liver,
SCROFULA,
All Humors and Impurities of the Blood and Diseases of the Skin.

The preparing and combining the BLOOD-ROOT ELIXIR is attended with results to medical science next in importance to inhalation of ether in surgery. Roots and plants, in themselves pungent and disagreeable, are by a new and scientific process of extracting (in vacuum), rendered MORE EFFECTIVE IN THEIR OPERATION, entirely divested of the gripping and distressing pain which attends the action of all other purgative medicines.—They are also made to become highly

TO THE TASTE,

and by their peculiar combination, work so perfectly in HARMONY WITH NATURE that no unpleasant reaction will follow its operation. It also possesses

A DIFFUSIVE AND ALTERNATIVE

which can only be obtained by medicine in a fluid state. These are new elements in purgative medicines.

THE BLOOD-ROOT ELIXIR has no partial action upon the bowels, but is equally diffused there, and throughout the whole circulation of the Blood, imparting a healthy and invigorating action to the STOMACH and BOWELS, LIVER, LUNGS, KIDNEYS, and gently stimulating dormant and morbid secretions throughout the whole system. A single dose will produce a cheerful and exhilarating COMMOTION, which will inspire the patient with confidence, and assurance of IMMEDIATE RELIEF. A continuance for a short period will DRIVE the obscure and hidden humors to the surface of the skin, and relieve or check SCROFULOUS AFFECTIONS—and by thus purifying and strengthening the Blood, will remove the most fruitful

CAUSE OF CONSUMPTION.

It invites the various organs of the system to act their allotted part, removing the causes which induce RHEUMATISM and NEURALGIA, HEADACHE, LOSS OF APPETITE, DYSPEPSIA, COSTIVENESS, and the various diseases which arise from a derangement of the Stomach and Bowels, and restricted circulation of the Blood.

See the pamphlet around each bottle for a history of the Elixir.

The proprietor of the BLOOD-ROOT ELIXIR, (Dr. S. O. Richardson) has been long and favorably known to the public by his celebrated SHERRY WINE BITTERS, the best tonic medicine ever discovered, and which has been in use over thirty years. He is a graduate of the New Hampshire Medical College, and many years associate member of the Massachusetts Medical Society—and has made the study of medicine his passion since 1820.

And so fully convinced is the Doctor of the wonderful curative effects of his BLOOD-ROOT ELIXIR that he hereby offers to each and every person who will use ONE HALF OF A BOTTLE of his Elixir, and not be case-hardened of a good effect therefrom, to refund to said person the full amount which he paid for the same, by returning the original bottle to his office.

Price $1.50 per Bottle.
Sold in Quincy by MRS. E. HAYDEN, and by dealers in medicine generally, and at the

DOCTOR'S OFFICE,

STURGIS'

ELECTRIC COMPOUND,

An Effectual External Remedy for

NEURALGIA

RHEUMATISM.

ALSO, INVALUABLE FOR
Spinal Irritation, Ague in the Face
Toothache, Pain in the Side,
Back, and Limbs, Ear,
Ague, &c.

Among the Advantages of this Medicine are the following:

Its effect is very rapid—in most cases instantaneous.

It is external in its application, and the patient runs no risk in using it. It does not strike to the stomach.

It reaches the nerves and muscles, as it is believed no other medicine does.

It has cured some of the most violent and obstinate cases of Neuralgia ever known.

It can be used on a child or an aged person alike.

While it is very powerful, it is perfectly harmless.

The proprietor has been allowed to publish the names of many persons who have used the Compound with the most beneficial results. He inserts a few of them. They are among the most respectable citizens of Boston and other places, and their residences and places of business are given.

The following letter from one of our best citizens, will speak for itself.

Rev. JOSEPH E. BARRY, the children's missionary of Boston, was the recipient a few weeks since of a bottle of Sturgis's Electric Compound, for Neuralgia, Rheumatism, &c., and having experienced great benefit from its use, and having known of many severe cases of the above complaints where it produced cures, considers it his duty to make known to his friends and others being so unfortunate as to be troubled with these terrible complaints, the virtue of this preparation.

REMARKABLE CURE OF NEURALGIA:—The following letter, (unsolicited,) was received by the proprietor in May last.

CAMP ROGERS, Newbury, May 6, 1863.
Dear Sir: I have been for some weeks suffering under a severe attack of Neuralgia, the agony which has caused me to be in "perfect agony" both night and day. Having heard of Sturgis's Electric Compound from a "companion in arms," I was induced to give it a trial, which had the happy effect to immediately cure me. I am surprised that surgeons do not have it in the army, as there is a constant demand for such an invaluable relief. I make this statement for the public good, and I have no scruples about using this as a recommendation to other victims of this painful disorder.

Yours, respectfully,
JOSEPH HOUGHTON,

Miscellaneous.

Just My Luck.

Just My Luck! I glanced toward the speaker. He was a handsome young man, with a healthy, intelligent face, and something in look and manner that attracted you irresistibly. Just my luck! He spoke with a fretfulness of tone that showed him to be seriously annoyed. Somebody must trip, and, of course it fell to my lot.

A few brief inquiries led me into the secret of his trouble. Edward Parsons was at college and had failed on examination-day. He must be kept back another year from honorable graduation.

How was this? I felt interested enough to make a few more inquiries. Why had he not passed with the thirty students who were receiving diplomas. Was it only his ill luck? Was the fates only against him?

Edward was handsome, intelligent and social; fond of billiards, fond of driving, fond of company. He was not dissipated—was guilty of no excesses, or immoralities. Life flooded his veins, and he enjoyed the passing hours. Study and pleasure are very apt to jostle each other. If pleasure is simply for re-innovation, it serves a high purpose; but when it is permitted to interfere with study or work, it injures. In the case of Edward Parsons, the billiards, the driving, and the pleasant company, had drawn him away from books and classes. He saw his deficiencies when near the closing term, and worked hard to make up for lost time; but he had sprung to his tasks too late. This was his luck—nothing more, nothing less.

I am sorry for him. It is really unfortunate, said a friend. He would have got a place in an engineer corps but for this. His application was in, and favorably considered. Had he passed his examination, the appointment would have been made. His failure to graduate had shut the door against him.

What a pity! I said.

Yes. But he has only himself to blame. Perhaps the lesson will do him good.

Just my luck! It was a year afterwards. The sentence fell from the lips of Edward Parsons. He was annoyed, excited, chafed. Had he failed again? Not in the examination; he had his diploma in his pocket. But he had failed to get an appointment in a corps of engineers about starting to make a survey for a projected railroad in California. His application was backed by influential friends, and strong efforts were made to secure the position which was regarded as most desirable; particularly so, as he had studied with a view to civil engineering as a profession.

Just my luck! So he interpreted his failure to get the place, which was given to a classmate, who had not been considered over brilliant by his fellow students. But this luck is no myth. Cause and effect are always in relation to each other. They were so in the present case. A few days previously some of the principal men in the Engineer Corps had called on a Professor in the College to ask about Edward, and also about another graduate, who had likewise put in an application for the vacant place.

Which shall we take? If I have any personal preference, it is for young Parsons, said the Engineer; but, as our field of operations is far distant, we must select our men with care, for we shall have to keep what we take even if any should prove indifferent.

I have no interest in either of them, replied the Professor, beyond what is felt for students generally. Parsons is a very clever young man; not quite as studious as he might be. We had put him back last year. His own fault, for he has ability enough.

A little too fond of pleasure, perhaps, said the Engineer.

Well, yes; he enjoys the world as he goes along. I've often said to him that he was hardly enough in earnest; that we were living in an earnest age, and that only to earnest people was success possible.

What of the other young man? asked the Engineer.

Scarcely so bright as Parsons, but patient and persevering.

One of the earnest ones to whom you have referred.

Yes, sir; and bound to succeed in anything he undertakes.

Good at mathematics?

O, yes.

The Engineer mused for a little while, and then remarked:

Young Parsons has strong friends—we are pressed to give him the appointment; but the best man for the purpose must have the place.

And so it was Edward Parsons lost this opportunity.

Just my luck! It was three years afterwards. Failing to get into an Engineer corps, Edward Parsons had taken a clerkship in the office of a railroad company, at a small salary. There were other clerks in the office, and as the business of the company was large, requiring many employees to fill a variety of positions more or less responsible, changes and promotions were things of frequent occurrence. Knowing this, Edward had accepted the clerkship as a stepping-stone to some high place. But his peculiar "ill luck" still attended him. For three years he had waited, but no advancement came. Others were put forward, some quite rapidly; but, he remained in his position.

Just my luck! he said, fretfully and despondingly, to himself one day, after these three years of waiting and hoping for advancement. The work of the office was particularly pressing, and in the midst of it Edward had taken a three days' holiday to himself, for his annual indulgence in rail shooting along the banks of the Delaware. A fellow clerk had said to him, in view of the pressure of work in the office:

It's hardly right for you to be away just now, for your absence will make it harder for us.

I can't help it if it does. I'm not going to kill myself. If a fellow can't have a day or two now and then, what is life good for? Let the company get additional clerks in the office. We need them but enough.

So he dropped his oar when the tide was pressing, and went to enjoy himself. While absent, the president of the Company came to the city. He had often noticed Parsons, on his visits to the office. The bright, handsome young man had attracted him. Several times a natural desire to advance him to a better position had been obstructed through some untimely absence from his desk on the part of Edward, or from some other reason for which he was himself to blame. On this occasion, the President had an important place, at one of the middle stations on the road, vacant. The salary was double what Edward received.

It will just suit that young man, said the President to himself, referring in his thoughts to Parsons. He should have been advanced long ago. I don't like to see a capable clerk passed over as he has been.

Where is young Parsons? asked the President, on looking through the office, and seeing his desk vacant.

Sick?

No.

What's the matter? Too many hands for the work?

So far from it, we are really short-handed. Every clerk is overtasked.

Why, then, is Parsons absent?

Rail and road birds are in season. He's off shooting.

Hadn't you better fill his desk? said the President, a little angrily.

Oh, no. He's faithful, and does his work well. You can't always count on him, it is true; but for the desk he occupies, I don't think I can find a better man.

O, well, that is for you to decide. But it won't do for me to have him in my office. I want a first rate man for F— station. Who shall I take? Parsons was on my mind; but this rail shooting has settled him.

When Edward Parsons returned from his three days' sport in the marshes, sun-browned and feverish from exposure to miasma, he learned that his desk companion, who came into the office only a year before, had been sent to F— station on a salary of eighteen hundred dollars a year.

I heard the President asking for you, said a fellow clerk. If you had been here I've no doubt you would have got the appointment.

The miserably despondent answer we have already heard—Just my luck!

It was the rail shooting that did the business for you, said the other.

No, it was my luck! If I had remained at my desk, the President wouldn't have come. I'm baffled and tantalized in this way until I'm out of heart. A fellow like Jones for F— station! It's too bad! It's just the place I wanted. I would have had some chance to show what is in me—some chance to have rewards. As to vegetating here, it doesn't suit me at all. I shall try something else if there isn't a change very soon.

Thirty years have passed since my first observation of Edward Parsons. His ill luck was just then beginning. He had failed to graduate, and been put back a year. His "ill luck" has dogged his steps even to the age of fifty. I saw him last week. He looked worn and haggard—a disappointed and disheartened man.

More ill luck, he said in answer to a question about his affairs. Things always go against me.

What has happened? I asked.

Well, you see, he talked earnestly—after fighting for it almost a year, I got a contract from the government. I had to bid low of course, but took good care, as I thought for a margin. Well, I've worked on the contract for six months, and delivered over fifty thousand dollars worth of goods. I set my profit down at twenty-five per cent., and therefore ought to have made ten thousand dollars. Think of my disappointment at discovering myself actually ten thousand dollars in debt.

How can that be? I asked.

He shrugged his shoulders, looked wretched, and replied:

An error in calculation. I was late with my proposals, and went over the figures hurriedly. Putting a four instead of a three, made all the difference. It was one too many on the wrong side. I discovered the error last week, and threw up the contract a ruined man.

Very unfortunate! I said.

Oh, it's just my luck! he answered. I might have known how it would be. If you or any other man had obtained the contract, a fortune would have been made. I lost all the little I had, and am thrown in debt—but it's my luck. The Fates are against me.

And he turned from me, as miserable a looking man as I have seen for a year.

What think you, my friend, just starting in the world? Was it all luck? It may be worth your while to determine the question.

The Art of Being Polite.

First and foremost, don't try to be polite; it will spoil all.

If you keep overwhelming your guests with ostentatious attentions to make themselves at home, they will very soon wish they were there. Let them find out that you are happy to see them by your actions, rather than words.

Always remember to let bashful people alone at first. It is the only way to set them at ease. Trying to draw them out has sometimes the contrary effect of driving them out—of the house.

Leading the conversation is a dangerous experiment. Better follow in its wake, and if you want to endear yourself to talkers, learn to listen well. Never make a fuss about anything—never talk about yourself—and always preserve perfect composure, no matter what solecisms or blunders others may commit. Remember that it is a very foolish proceeding to leave that up to your own office or friends.

It is fair to presume that the visit is to you, not those surroundings. Give people a pleasant impression of themselves, and they will be pretty sure to go away with a pleasant impression of your qualities. On just such slender wheels as these the whole fabric of society turns; it is our business then, to keep them in perfect revolving order.

A Sharp Bargain

A bright eyed essence pedler, who had perambulated the streets of one of our suburban cities nearly the whole of a long summer's day, without selling a single vial of his wares called in upon a hatter, near the market place, and told him that he should like a good hat, provided that he could pay for it in his essence.

Trade had been rather dull with the latter also, that day; so he was not backward for an "operation," and in a short time a bargain was struck up for a tulo, the price of which was fixed at five dollars, to be paid in essence.

There, by thunder! exclaimed the man of extracts, I've made one trade to-day, anyhow.

It's the first bargain I've closed to-day, returned the hatter.

Now, continued the pedler-man, I don't want this hat. It is too nice for my business, exposed as I am to all weathers—sun, dust and rain. What will you give me for it in cash.

I sell, but do not buy hats, returned the man of titles.

You shall have it cheap, said the pedler. I'll sell it to you for three dollars.

No you will not, replied the hatter.

Well, importuned the vender of tinctures, what will you give for it.

I tell you I sell, and do not buy, at any rate, returned the dealer in castors.

But, continued the indefatigable dispenser of peppermint and lavender, it certainly must be worth something to you, it must have cost you something for stock and labor. Now please, make me one offer, and I'll not ask you further.

The hatter, wearied with his customer, took out a dollar and a half, threw it upon the counter and said:

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are we."

THE ELECTION. The election on Tuesday last, was a triumph for the Republican party. The nation, the state, the county, the town, and, in fact, everything appears to be carried most gloriously by the Union party. Henry H. Faxon, Esq., the Republican candidate for Representative in this town received 555 votes, being the largest number ever received by any person for that office. On Thursday evening the Republicans formed a procession, at the south part of the town, and marched through some of the principal streets, to the residence of Mr. Faxon. While there they had the pleasure of listening to a patriotic address from John Quincy Adams, Esq. Mr. Faxon followed Mr. Adams with a short and pertinent speech closing his remarks by inviting his friends to the Lyceum Room, where he thought he could do better justice to their palates, than to their intellects. After playing several pieces the Band started for the Lyceum Room, followed by the procession, where the crowd found a bounteous repast in waiting, to which they did ample justice. Speeches again were the order of the evening, and a merry time was certainly the lot of all present. The Band after the ceremonies in the Hall were over serenaded many of our citizens at their residences, viz: Francis Williams, John Hall, Francis P. Lord, W. M. French, John Quincy Adams, Henry Barker, Wm. G. Prescott, Eli Hayden, and among the number not forgetting our humble self.

For the Patriot.
"Let the Blackbird Scream."

"Remember the Sabbath Day, and keep it holy."
"There will be a Political Caucus in the Orthodox Church this evening."

To the Publisher of the Patriot:

Such was the anonymous notice circulated last Sunday, and being interested in the three subjects embraced therein, viz: ornithology, morality and politics, and summoned by the ringing of the bell, we wended our way to the meeting house where the Rev. Mr. Thwing officiated, and found there a very large and highly respectable audience of persons who manifested a deep interest in a sermon which he preached on the "National Election," defining the true position of the Christian pulpit, and the duties of the people, in pertinent and forcible language, with an earnestness and eloquence of delivery which added much to his present high reputation as a pulpit orator.

Taking for his text the words: "Choose you this day whom ye will serve," the preacher alluded to the absorbing interest awakened by our national election both at home and abroad—not only by political men, but by Christian people; the degree of unanimity among whom was a very significant fact. The first point discussed was the danger of a divorce from our secular duties, so called, from the sphere of religious obligation. All duties were shown to be religious duties, and all actions subject to the behests of divine law. The caustic censure poured on preachers for exposing individual and national sins, was nothing new. Christ was rebuked by those whose infamy he exposed, for not keeping the "holy Sabbath." No class of men have been more troublesome or more hated by evil minded men. They cannot be intimidated, they will not be silenced! Like Elder Brewster, of Mayflower memory, they "rip up the conscience" by means of God's truth. That truth they apply to civil affairs and are not frightened by the bug-bear of "political preaching." Webster was right when he in 1830 invoked the influence of the pulpit in behalf of freedom. The Massachusetts House of Representatives did the same in the days of '76. No class of men were better qualified to respond to the call. To them more than to any other class—said President Adams—do we owe American Independence.

The Sabbath is not too "holy," nor the pulpit too sacred, to use in pleading for God and our native land! We pray "Thy kingdom come," let every man vote "thy kingdom come." —Editor, Quincy, Nov. 12th, 1864.

Abraham Lincoln is a man who is far-famed for his fighting—He has the robes about split up, but still he keeps a splitting; And now he's got them about split up and ready for the grate.

The friends of little Mac will find They stepped in rather late.

From Kansas to Maine, They have struck a vein; The vein it is a wopper! The gold they found is large and sound, And covers all the copper.

To the Publisher of the Patriot:

Another exciting election is over. We are all glad of it. Allow me simply to express for myself and others the satisfaction we have felt in the impartial manner in which you have endeavored to discharge your trying duties as proprietor of a journal which stands aloof from partisan warfare. May the Patriot—while it never loses its name—always keep its columns free from that which engenders strife and personal animosities. Wishing you much success I remain

A CONSTANT READER.

THE LADY'S FRIEND. This new competitor for public favor, we are gratified to learn through its columns is on the high road of prosperity. Within a twelve month, it has rolled up a subscription list unprecedented in periodical literature. This is the main reason of its excellent management. The talented editress, has been ably supported by the contributions of some of the most eminent writers of the day; and the ladies department has been deservedly popular for its rich illustrations of the latest fashions, and other matters pertaining to their interest. In these times, when every thing has an upward tendency, it seems almost incredible that a work which, financially, requires such an outlay, can be afforded at the low price of $2.50 a year. This is only attainable through a large and widely extended circulation—secured by acknowledged merits. With the ladies this magazine is always a welcome and amusing friend, and they will be pleased to hear that new attractions, of a high order, during the incoming year, will be introduced.

THE CITY DAILIES VS COUNTRY WEEKLIES. The city advertisers, we are glad to note, are beginning to realize the advantages of advertising in well conducted country papers as compared with city dailies. The increase in price of the daily papers has curtailed their circulation outside of the city, and we are informed by a news-dealer in a town a few miles from Boston, that where he sold three hundred daily papers before the rise, he does not now sell one hundred. Most of the country papers are gaining largely in circulation in consequence, and as their scale of prices for advertising is much lower than the city papers, the time is sure to come when they will be the sole medium for city advertisers.

CALIFORNIA SILK. It is said that the silk grown in California is even better than European, the fertility of the soil and the dryness of the atmosphere favoring the growth of the mulberry, and giving a more delicate quality to the fabric.

Dr. Miller's Lectures. If we may judge of the course from the introductory one we do not hesitate to say that our citizens have a treat before them the coming week. The great importance of the matters discussed, the admirable facilities furnished for illustrating them, and the attractive style of the lecturer, should secure for every lecture as large and intelligent an audience as assembled Thursday evening. Our readers have already seen the programme, and we will not repeat it, but only advise them if they wish to obtain solid instruction combined with rational amusement, to go and hear what this young and talented physician has to say on health—"the poor man's wealth, the rich man's bliss." His collection of human skeletons, manikins and models is one of the finest in the country.

CONCERT. There will be a Sabbath School Concert to-morrow evening at the Congregational Church. Rev. Mr. Trask, the well known advocate of Temperance, Dr. Miller of New York, and others are expected to address the meeting.

NATIONAL BANK. At a meeting of citizens interested in forming a National Bank in South Weymouth, held at the counting-room of Fogg, Houghton & Co., on Monday, Oct. 31st, Hon. B. F. White was chosen Chairman, and Joseph Dyer, Secretary. It was voted to organize a Bank under U. S. laws, to be known as the South Weymouth National Bank, with a Capital of $150,000.

THE LATE HORACE BEALS, Esq. The Lewiston Journal says that Horace Beals, Esq., whose death we recently noticed, left a fortune estimated at $2,000,000. He had three daughters and one son. He expended in the hotel and grounds at Togus about $100,000. This was primarily a labor of love, as he had derived great benefit from the mineral waters of the springs. He was also the proprietor of the extensive granite works at Dix Island, near Rockland.

SAFES. E. R. Morse 74 Sudbury Street, Boston, has the finest assortment of fire proof and burglar proof safes we remember to have ever seen. Prices from sixteen hundred dollars. Some have elegant marble tops and make handsome as well needed articles of household furniture. Those who have silver ware or government bonds in their possession will do well to put them in one of these safes.

STATISTICS of the wealth of Massachusetts for 1861, show that the total valuation of personal estate is $324,581,817, an apparent decrease from 1863 of about $19,000,000. But this arises from the stock in corporations being assessed to the companies instead of individuals, as heretofore. This would add $30,000,000 to the valuation. The valuation of real estate is $577,298,256, and the total valuation $901,883,103, against $897,150,980 in 1863. The total tax for all purposes is $12,876,850 59, an increase of nearly $3,000,000 over 1863. The number of polls is 281,220, against 275,758 in 1863.

Poetry.

My Own Fireside

"It is a mystic circle, that surrounds
Comforts and virtues never known beyond Its hallowed limit."—SOUTHEY.

Let others seek for empty joys
At ball or concert, rout or play;
While, far from Fashion's idle noise,
Her gilded domes and trappings gay,
I while the wintry eve away,
Twixt book and lute the hours divide;
And marvel how I e'er could stray
From thee—my own fireside!

My own fireside! Those simple words
Can bid the sweetest dreams arise,
Awaken tenderest tenderness,
And fill with tears of joy mine eyes.
What is there my wild heart can prize,
That doth not in thy sphere abide;
Haunt of my home-bred sympathies,
My own—my own fireside.

A gentle form is near me now;
A small white hand is clasped in mine;
I gaze upon her placid brow,
And ask, what joys can equal thine?
A babe, whose beauties half divine,
In sleep his mother's eyes doth hide;
Where may I love seek a fitter shrine
Than thou—my own fireside!

My refuge ever from the storm
Of this world's passions, strife and care;
Though thunder-clouds the skies deform,
Their fury cannot reach me there;
There all is cheerful, calm and fair;
Wrath, Envy, Malice, Strife or Pride
Hath never made the hated fair
By thee—my own fireside!

Shrine of my household deities!
Bright scene of home's unsullied joys:
To thee my burdened spirit flies
When Fortune frowns, or Care annoys!
Thine is the bliss that never cloy;
The smile whose truth has oft been tried;
What, then, are this world's tinsel toys
To thee—my own fireside!

Oh may the yearnings, fond and sweet,
That bid my thoughts be all of thee,
Thus ever guide my wandering feet
To thy heart's soothing sanctuary!
What e'er my future years may be,
Let joy or grief my fate beside,
Be still as Eden, bright to me,
My own—my own fireside!

What are Woman's Rights?

The right to watch when others sleep;
The right to watch, the right to weep;
The right to comfort in distress,
The right to soothe, the right to bless;
The right the widow's heart to cheer,
The right to dry an orphan's tear;
The right to feed and clothe the poor
The right to teach them to endure;
The right, when other friends have flown,
And left the sufferer all alone,
To kneel that dying couch beside,
And meekly point to Him who died;
The right a happy home to make,
In any clime, for Jesus' sake;
Rights such as these are all we crave,
Until our last—a quiet grave.

What O'clock.

The clock has struck the hour again—
Another added to the past!
When time is ended, once more then,
It will return at last!
It proffered opportunities
Of golden moments, gliding by—
Did we the passing blessings seize,
Or let them idly fly?

A witness in the Judgment Day,
Of our account, this hour will stand,
With blessings, she has borne away,
As proofs within her hand.

—O! be the passing hours employed!
They go! but they return again!
Their moments if we render void,
Will bring but sorrow then!

Anecdotes.

The late Colonel —, when once importuned by a diminutive tailor for payment of a bill, contemptuously exclaimed:
"If you were not such a little reptile I would kick you down stairs."
Little reptile! demonstrated the don; and what if I am? Recollect, colonel, that we can't all be great brutes!

Napoleon Alexis Dubbs, come up here and say your lesson. What makes boys grow? It is the rain.
Why do not men grow? Because they carry umbrellas, which keep off the rain.
What makes a young man and woman fall in love? Because one of 'em has a heart of steel and t'other a heart of flint, and when they come together they strike fire and that is called love.

What's your name? said an officer to a young colored lad, who joined the ship at the Cape.
Algoe Bay, sir.
Where were you born?
Wasn't born at all, sir.
Wasn't born at all, sir.
No, sir! Was washed ashore in a storm!

I think I see a new fee-ture in this case," as the lawyer said when his client informed him that he had plenty of money.

DR. S. O. RICHARDSON'S

BLOOD-ROOT ELIXIR

Has been thoroughly tested and proved in his medical practice, for a period of THIRTY YEARS, and is now presented to the public as an

effective cure for

COSTIVENESS.

And the Best Remedy ever prepared for

Diseases of the Liver,

SCROFULA,

All Humors and Impurities of the

Blood and Diseases of the Skin.

The preparing and combining the BLOOD-ROOT ELIXIR is attended with results to medical science next in importance to inhalation of ether in surgery. Kinds and forms, in themselves pungent and disagreeable, are by a new and scientific process of extracting (in vacuo) rendered MORE EFFECTIVE IN THEIR OPERATION, entirely divested of the gripping and distressing pain which attends the action of all other purgative medicine.—They are also made to become highly

PLEASANT AND AGREEABLE TO THE TASTE,

and by their peculiar combination, work so perfectly a HARMONY WITH NATURE that no unpleasant reaction will follow its operation. It also possesses

which can only be obtained by medicine in a fluid state. These are new elements in purgative medicine.

The BLOOD-ROOT ELIXIR has no partial action upon the bowels, but is equally diffused there, and throughout the whole circulation of the Blood, imparting a healthy and invigorating action to the STOMACH AND BOWELS, LIVER, LUNGS, KIDNEYS, and greatly stimulating dormant and morbid secretions throughout the whole system.

A single dose will produce a cheerful and exhilarating COMMOTION, which will inspire the patient with confidence, and assurance of IMMEDIATE RELIEF. A continuance for a short period will DRIVE the obscure and hidden humors to the surface of the skin, and relieve or check SCROFULOUS AFFECTIONS—and by thus purifying and strengthening the Blood, will remove the most fruitful

CAUSE OF CONSUMPTION.

It cures the various organs of the system, to act their allotted part, removing the causes which induce RHEUMATISM and NEURALGIA, HEADACHE, LOSS OF APPETITE, DYSPEPSIA, COSTIVENESS, and the various diseases which arise from a derangement of the Stomach and Bowels, and restricted circulation of the Blood.

See my pamphlet around each bottle for a history of the Elixir.

The proprietor of the BLOOD-ROOT ELIXIR, (Dr. S. O. Richardson) has been long and favorably known to the public by his celebrated SHERIFF WINEBITTERS, the best tonic medicine ever discovered, and which has been in use over thirty years. He is a graduate of the New Hampshire Medical College, and many years a resident member of the Massachusetts Medical Society,—and has made the study of medicine his profession since 1820.

And so fully convinced is the Doctor of the wonderful curative effects his BLOOD-ROOT ELIXIR that he hereby offers to each and every person who will use ONE HALF OF A BOTTLE of his ELIXIR, and not be conscious of a good effect therefrom, to refund to said person the FULL amount which he paid for the same, by returning the unopened bottle to his office.

Price $1.50 per Bottle.

CAUTION

TO FEMALES IN DELICATE HEALTH.

DR. DOW, Physician and Surgeon, No. 7

Edinboro Street, Boston, is consulted daily for all diseases incident to the female system. Prolapsus Uteri or Floor Albus, Suppression, and other Menstrual derangements, are all treated on new pathological principles, and speedily relieved in a very few days. So invariably certain is the new mode of treatment, that most obstinate complaints yield under it, and the afflicted person soon rejoices in perfect health.

Dr. Dow has no doubt had greater experience in the cure of diseases of women than any other physician in Boston.

Boarding accommodations for patients with may wish to stay in Boston a few days under his treatment.

Dr. Dow, since 1845, having confined his whole attention to an office practice for the cure of Private Diseases and Female Complaints, acknowledges no superior in the United States.

Hope for the Sufferers!

LET NONE DESPAIR,

For DAILY and almost HOURLY cases are Reported, in which the effect of THE GREAT

Humor Remedy,

HOWARD'S

VEGETABLE

Canker and Cancer Syrup,

Has been by the use of the Root of the Great Blighting UPASTREE OF HUMANITY, WHOSE FRUITS ARE DEATH!

THE CANKER AND CANCER SYRUP has the most extraordinary cleansing action on the BLOOD, which it PURIFIES AT ITS SOURCE, and it penetrates every organ of the Body, repairing injured Tissues, arresting the Progress of Decay, and stimulating to healthy action the Digestive, Nutritive and Circulatory Organs. As nearly all DISEASES have their ORIGIN IN THE BLOOD, as fountain should be purified.

CLEANSER AT ITS SOURCE!

This cure you can be infallibly secured by HOWARD'S SYRUP, which has

Redeemed Thousands of Victims

FROM PREMATURE GRAVES!

THE SYRUP is the most efficacious Remedy known for that dreadful scourge of our Race, CANCER in its many forms, however obstinate—completely banishing the TOLLING KNIFE. The worst cases, given over by Physicians, have yielded to it.

CANKER, it cures in its worst forms in young adults. SCROFULA, hereditary, or recent, it completely eradicates, leaving the system without taint.

SALT RHEUM in its many aspects cannot without its virtues, as thousands testify. ERYSIPELAS of the worst kind soon loses its virulent character. The Syrup is an unerring remedy.

TUMORS need not be removed by the knife; the Syrup disposes them permanently.

WHITE SWELLINGS are acted on by the Syrup through the Blood. Many limbs have been saved by it.

ULCERS, however old or malignant, are healed by the Syrup without the usual danger of stopping Running Sores.

KING'S EVIL, found in the Syrup a specific. NEURALGIA, however distressing, has been cured by it when all other remedies have failed.

JAUNDICE is cured by the action of the Syrup on the Liver and Bile Ducts, and DYSPEPSIA caused by vitiated or insufficient bile is removed.

FEMALE WEAKNESSES—it removes with ease and certainty, and taken regularly, it promotes the healthy periodical secretion.

RICKETS, a Children's disease, it completely eradicates, and saves years of misery, even preventing convulsion. In short it is the only safe and certain remedy known for THE CURE OF

EVERY KIND OF HUMOR!

and is so permeating that mothers nursing may keep their own and their infants' blood pure by its use. All suffering from Nervous Complaints, Insipient Consumption, Palpitations and General Debility will find it give them RENewed STRENGTH AND VIGOR.

FOR SKIN DISEASES—it is especially suited, as it soon eradicates all blotches, Pimples, &c., and imparts the Brilliance of Health to the Complexion.

* Where irritation of the Lungs and Cough attend the diseases named, the excellent and soothing effect of the Syrup ensures relief and repose, and strengthens the system.

No case of failure of the SYRUP has ever been known where its use has been persevered in. It might be easy to enter into learned scientific theories. We prefer to lay a plain story of facts before the sufferers who seek relief, therefore we now offer this which cannot harm or certainly cures. PRICE, $1 per Bottle—or $5 for Six Bottles.

FARMING

Market Gardening Lands

IN

NEW JERSEY.

THE SUBSCRIBER will sell Tracts of good Land for Farming and Market Gardening, in quantities to suit purchasers, situated in the Counties of Ocean and Burlington, on the line of the Raritan and Delaware Bay Railroad, midway between New York and Philadelphia, at $10 per acre. In addition to all the common products of a farm, these lands are valuable for growing cranberries, sweet potatoes, peaches, grapes, tobacco and hops. All crops ripen ten days earlier than on Long Island. Spunkum manure is delivered at any point on the railroad at one dollar and fifty cents per ton, and fertilizes the land for seven years after its application. The lands are mostly covered with yellow pine timber, suitable for lumber and cord wood. A portion of the timber has been recently cut off, leaving the land ready for immediate cultivation. Price of cedar rails, $5 per 100. Cord wood, at any railroad station, $3 per cord. A portion of the land contain a large quantity of the best potash clay yet discovered, for the manufacture of yellow ware. Saw-mill within one mile of Shamong Station. A good hotel at Shamong, on the lands offered for sale. The location is very healthy and water excellent. Lands well watered with running streams, and supplied with good mill-sites and water-power for manufacturing purposes. The whole purchase money may remain on mortgage for a term of years if desired, if the purchaser cultivates the land.

Clover Blossoms.

There's a modest little blossom Blooming closely to the ground, While its wealth of sweetest perfume Thrills through all the air around. White and pure, a field of clover, In the sunny summer day, Brings a calm my spirit over, Sweet as music far away.

In the rich man's terraced garden Many a fair exotic twines; Many a gaily tinted flower 'Neath the glossy foliage shines. By the poor man's lowly cottage, Violets sweetest odors yield; Yet I love the air of freedom Blowing from a clover-field.

Lilies in the valley growing, Roses in their blushing pride, These may wreath their regal beauty Fully for the youthful bride. Laurel wreaths may suit the poet, Forest flowers may lure the child; I would only ask the clover, Meek and modest, brave and mild.

Little cares my hardy flower, Though the soil be poor and dry; Blooming by the dusty wayside, Blessing all who pass thereby. Let me learn the gentle lesson, Even in my lowly way, Working bravely, like the clover, In the sultry summer day.

Scraps.

Living was cheap enough in the olden time. Socrates was supposed to have lived upon an income of seventy-five dollars; but he lived worse than a slave. His coat was shabby, and he wore the same garment winter and summer; he went barefooted; his chief food was bread and water; and as he engaged in no business to mend his estates or income, it is not wonderful that his wife scolded. Demosthenes, his sister and their mother, paid for their board $105 a year, and provided the house in the bargain.

To all men the best friend is virtue, and the best companions long endeavor and honorable sentiments.

A curse is like a stone thrown up to heaven—most likely to return on the head of him who throws it.

Penny omnibuses—the rate of fare a penny a head—have been started in London.

The best of friends fall out. Our teeth are no exception.

The tobacco crop of the Connecticut Valley is very abundant.

Persons who are always cheerful and good-humored are very useful in the world; they maintain peace and happiness, and spread a thankful temper amongst all who live around them.

This is cool. A recruit in the Third N. H. Regiment while the "long-roll" was beating furiously, and the rebels every moment expected to be in camp, quietly put his head out of his tent and asked the Colonel, who was standing near, "If they should come out with dress coats or blouses?"

No man can be twice punished for the same offence. This is a law maxim. Brown, formerly, but not now a widower denies its truth. His only offence has been matrimony, and his experience, he says, negatives the above rule.

No one knows anything of himself till he is tried. Trial is the touchstone of the character.

Union is not always strength, as the sailor said when he saw the purser mixing his rum with water.

At the great donkey show in London the prizes, consisting of nineteen silver cups were all taken by one man. Not that he was the greatest donkey but he stole them.

Dr. Franklin used to say that rich widows are the only piece of second hand goods that sell for prime cost.

The prayer of the selfish man is, "forgive us our debts," but he makes everybody pay who owes him to the utmost farthing.

Carlyle says that each man carries under his coat a "private theatre," wherein is acted a greater drama than is ever performed on the mimic stage, beginning and ending in eternity.

There, give that to your son, said the doctor, writing a prescription with chalk on the door. When the son awoke, the kind mother took the door from its hinges to the bed, and insisted on his taking it as the doctor says it is good.

Nothing but a mere pittance, which was more than swallowed up by the expenses of your daughter's last sickness.

Judge Harding's eyes blazed with a sudden scorn that was almost startling.

Do not hope to delude me so easily, he cried. There is not one act of yours that has escaped my notice. I know that your son left property which should have descended to his wife and child, of which you took possession. I know also, the grudging care you bestowed on the deluded girl that your son loved from her friends and home. But let them both pass. I will take the child and amply indemnify you from every possible expense; but only on one condition, that you sign this paper, by which you pledge yourself to abstain from all future interference with your grandchild.

The woman's eyes sparkled, as she caught a glimpse of the roll of bills in Judge Harding's hand, but still she hesitated.

The sharp sighted old man saw quickly the cause of this hesitation.

I wish you to distinctly understand, he said, that though I will provide for the child, it is not my intention to make her my heir; I shall leave her only sufficient to place her above actual want, the bulk of my property will go to some charitable institution.

As Mrs. Dugald looked upon that resolute countenance she felt that he was in earnest, and without another word she signed the paper, and then taking the money the Judge placed in her hand, departed.

As soon as she closed the door after her, Judge Harding turned to the little girl who stood regarding him with a timid, wistful look.

What is your name, child? he said abruptly. Estelle Harding Dugald, she replied in a sweet, clear voice, that had a pretty lisp to it. Do you know who I am?

You are my grandpapa Harding. Ah, how many pleading voices arose in his heart at these words; but he crushed them down with a stern hand.

I am not your grandpapa, he said, harshly; you must never call me by that name.

The small red lips quivered, and the soft brown eyes filled with tears; but without appearing to notice them, Judge Harding gave the bell a hasty pull.

Margery, he said, as that individual entered, this little girl is the child of Richard Dugald. I place her for the present, under your care. See that she has every thing that she needs, but do not let her come within my sight or hearing.

Margery cast a look of pity and tenderness upon the child, who, attracted by her kind, motherly face, sprang eagerly to the hand she held out to her, and then, with a respectful courtesy to the Judge, she led her from the room.

Weeks came and went. Little Estelle grew dearer every day to the faithful old nurse, who had tended her mother in her helpless infancy.

She obeyed her master's injunctions, tho' many were her inward murmurs at what she termed his unnatural treatment of the child of his only daughter. This was not difficult, for the house was large, and there were some portions of it that the Judge never entered.

Miscellaneous.

Judge Harding's Birth-Day Gift.

Slowly and wearily Judge Harding ascended the steps of his stately but gloomy mansion. Not one of its many rooms were lighted, with the exception of the library, and that used in common by the two domestics.

Yet there had been a time when those darkened and deserted parlors had been one blaze of light, and its walls had echoed to the sound of merry laughter and gay young voices.

Judge Harding entered the library, and closing the door looked drearily around. Yet it was filled with all the appliances of wealth and luxury; the carpet was like velvet to the foot; the lofty walls were decked with pictures, and the wide, deep windows hung with vine colored drapery of the richest silk.

A large easy chair was wheeled in front of the fire, which gave forth a ruddy glow; across it lay a dressing gown, while, on the rug were slippers, all ready for his feet. But Judge Harding knew it was the work of old Margery, his housekeeper, who, though she had been in his service two score years, feared more than she loved him. There was no eye to brighten at his approach, no voice to welcome him.

This thought was uppermost in the old man's mind, as leaning back in his chair he gazed abstractedly into the fire. Some years before, God had called to himself the wife of his youth—taken her mercifully from the evil to come. One of the sons she had borne him filled a drunkard's grave, the other had been mortally wounded in some disgraceful quarrel. But Estelle, his little Estelle, the ewe lamb of his flock, loved beyond all others, and yet who had wounded his heart so sorely, where was she?

Ah, well he knew that the December snow was falling on her grave; that she died unsoothed by the knowledge of his forgiveness.

The iron grey locks that shaded his temples accorded well with the general expression of the strongly marked features, and which were characterized by a hardness and coldness almost repelling, yet through it could be seen traces of a depth of mental anguish which weaker natures are incapable.

He was aroused from the gloomy reverie into which he had fallen by old Margery, who, opening the door, said:

There is a woman and a little girl in the hall who insists on seeing you.

Did she give her name?

She said her name was Dugald, returned Margery, speaking with evident hesitation.

But contrary to her expectations, this mention of a name hated above all others, produced no visible effect upon her master.

Show her in, he said after a moment's reflection.

It was difficult to determine the age of the woman who entered. Her hair was nearly white, but her eye bright and piercing, and her tall, strongly built frame as erect as in early life. Though evidently a person of little education, her countenance and bearing indicated an unusual amount of will and energy, combined with no little shrewdness and efficiency.

Judge Harding evidently saw all this in the steady look with which he regarded her.

You are the mother of the late Richard Dugald.

I am the mother of your late daughter's husband, Judge Harding.

The proud old man winced visibly at this thrust, but did not lose his self-possession.

And this is the child of your son? he enquired, pointing to a lovely little girl of six, clad in deep mourning, who was standing by her side.

This is the daughter of Richard and Estelle Dugald; your grandchild and mine, Judge Harding! returned the woman in the same sharp defiant tone.

Judge Harding could not controvert this statement, humbling though it was, but his voice took a sharper tone as he said:

Why have you brought her to me? Because I have not the means of supporting her, and you have.

Did your late son have no property?

For a moment the woman's eyes wavered beneath his penetrating look, then she said boldly:

Nothing but a mere pittance, which was more than swallowed up by the expenses of your daughter's last sickness.

Judge Harding's eyes blazed with a sudden scorn that was almost startling.

Do not hope to delude me so easily, he cried. There is not one act of yours that has escaped my notice. I know that your son left property which should have descended to his wife and child, of which you took possession. I know also, the grudging care you bestowed on the deluded girl that your son loved from her friends and home. But let them both pass. I will take the child and amply indemnify you from every possible expense; but only on one condition, that you sign this paper, by which you pledge yourself to abstain from all future interference with your grandchild.

The woman's eyes sparkled, as she caught a glimpse of the roll of bills in Judge Harding's hand, but still she hesitated.

The sharp sighted old man saw quickly the cause of this hesitation.

I wish you to distinctly understand, he said, that though I will provide for the child, it is not my intention to make her my heir; I shall leave her only sufficient to place her above actual want, the bulk of my property will go to some charitable institution.

As Mrs. Dugald looked upon that resolute countenance she felt that he was in earnest, and without another word she signed the paper, and then taking the money the Judge placed in her hand, departed.

As soon as she closed the door after her, Judge Harding turned to the little girl who stood regarding him with a timid, wistful look.

What is your name, child? he said abruptly. Estelle Harding Dugald, she replied in a sweet, clear voice, that had a pretty lisp to it. Do you know who I am?

You are my grandpapa Harding. Ah, how many pleading voices arose in his heart at these words; but he crushed them down with a stern hand.

I am not your grandpapa, he said, harshly; you must never call me by that name.

The small red lips quivered, and the soft brown eyes filled with tears; but without appearing to notice them, Judge Harding gave the bell a hasty pull.

Margery, he said, as that individual entered, this little girl is the child of Richard Dugald. I place her for the present, under your care. See that she has every thing that she needs, but do not let her come within my sight or hearing.

Margery cast a look of pity and tenderness upon the child, who, attracted by her kind, motherly face, sprang eagerly to the hand she held out to her, and then, with a respectful courtesy to the Judge, she led her from the room.

Weeks came and went. Little Estelle grew dearer every day to the faithful old nurse, who had tended her mother in her helpless infancy.

She obeyed her master's injunctions, tho' many were her inward murmurs at what she termed his unnatural treatment of the child of his only daughter. This was not difficult, for the house was large, and there were some portions of it that the Judge never entered.

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are we."

Next week being Thanksgiving, and our workmen wishing to go out of town, we shall issue our paper on Wednesday next. Advertisers will please hand in their favors as early as possible on Wednesday forenoon.

ANATOMICAL LECTURES. These lectures, which have been in the course of delivery at the Town Hall, by Dr. Miller, during the week, much to the satisfaction of an interested and appreciating audience, who were in attendance each evening, have been brought to a close, the course having been completed. The lecturer brought to his subject a highly cultivated mind, and assisted by illustrated diagrams, has unfolded a fund of knowledge in regard to the mysteries of our being—the offices of the different organs of the human system—the delicate nerve, the seat of life and sensibility; the muscular organization, the motive power of action; and the active brain, the empire of reason and thought, which holds the reins of government, that we seem ushered into a new state of existence. Such sound, practical instruction, as may be gathered from these lectures, is what every son and daughter of Adam is interested in knowing.

Private Lectures: An audience, exclusively for the ladies, will be held at the Town Hall, at 2 o'clock this afternoon, and on Tuesday afternoon, at the same hour. Monday evening, Nov. 21st, there will be a private lecture for gentlemen.

APPROPRIATE APPROPRIATION. The National Union Club of this town, at a meeting last Wednesday evening voted to appropriate the balance of funds in the treasury towards the Thanksgiving dinner of turkeys, for the soldiers in the field, and the Treasurer, Mr. W. M. French, was authorized to carry the vote into effect.

THE SAILOR'S NATIONAL FAIR. This great Fair has been a success as have all such exhibitions that have been got up by the ladies. We learn from the "Boatswain's Whistle" that Quincy is well represented at Mrs. Wise's station, by Miss Adams, who is the London Autograph book is to be seen, and also a painting by Cranch, "A Skating Scene." This autograph album was arranged and contributed by Mrs. Charles Francis Adams, wife of our Minister at the Court of St. James, it comprises autographs and autograph letters and manuscripts of some of the most distinguished English and European monarchs, nobility, statesmen, authors and artists, and was put into a raffle of a thousand shares at $1 each; a superbly bound volume of "Art Treasures of the United Kingdom," being drawings in water color of all the principal objects of art and vertu in the British Isles, in a raffle of five hundred shares at $1 each; an English doll, "Miss Atlanta Farragut," were also contributions by Mrs. Adams. We return thanks to Miss Adams, for her kindness in furnishing us copies of the Boatswain's Whistle.

QUINCY CHARITABLE SOCIETY. The Annual meeting of this Society was held Monday evening, November 14th, when the following persons were elected officers for the ensuing year:

President: Rev. John D. Wells.
Vice President: Dea. George Baxter.
Secretary: Miss Mary Baxter.
Treasurer: Miss Sophia Marsh.
Directors: Mr. George L. Gill, Mr. Chester Mitchell, Mrs. Benjamin Curtis, Mrs. H. N. Glover, Mrs. Nathan Ames, Mrs. Eliza Hersey, Miss Ann Curtis, Miss Susanna B. Marsh.

The Treasurer's Report was read and accepted. Number of families assisted the past year twenty.

PEACE. The Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Ledger says a great pressure has already been brought upon the President to induce him to appoint Commissioners to Richmond, for the purpose of founding the authorities in that city upon the subject of peace.

GEORGIA COMING BACK. The Nashville Union states that Judge Wright, of Georgia, formerly a member of the United States Congress, has passed through that city to Washington, to see what can be done towards bringing about a peace. He reports the common people as for peace. The Georgia Legislature convenes in a few days, when efforts will be made to save the State by coming back into the Union.

Boston Correspondence.

Boston, Nov. 17, 1864.

Notwithstanding the early onset of winter, there is much animation in general business. Money continues easy of access for discounts, and speculative action seems on the decrease. Since the election there is a temporary rise in the prices, but the certainty that there will soon be a decline, renders the trading community very wary. The Sailors' National Fair, at Monitor Hall, is the great source of attraction through the week. Though thousands of articles have been sold, the tables appear as crowded as ever, and the display exceedingly handsome. Henry Ward Beecher was to lecture last evening before the Mercantile Library Association on the political horoscope. And the Hon. Schuyler Colfax, Speaker of the United States House of Representatives was to give the first series of lectures before the Boston Young Men's Christian Association at Tremont Temple last evening. Both without doubt attracted full houses. Friday bids fair to be a public day here. The Union Republican City Committee of Boston in offering their congratulations to the citizens of Massachusetts for the peaceful, glorious victory achieved at the polls on the 8th instant, recommend that the citizens generally testify their devotion to our common country by such patriotic offering as shall seem appropriate. They recommend a general suspension of business to-morrow. We shall probably have a good time here.

The dinner given at the Revere House on Tuesday evening last by the merchants and ship owners of Boston to Captain Winslow of the Kearsage, in honor of his victory over the rebel privateer Alabama, was a brilliant affair. A more magnificent table never was spread in Boston. Gentlemen of all parties participated in the festival. The address of Captain Winslow was both excellent and entertaining; eliciting some facts with regard to public sentiments in France and England towards our government not generally known or understood. They are of that class that the royal people of America can well say, "save us from our friends." The speech of Edward Everett at the Wilson banquet upon President Lincoln was received with great enthusiasm. In Mr. Lincoln he recognized a full measure of the qualities which entitle him to the full respect of the people. He had passed through the fiery ordeal of the recent canvass, and stood the storm of detraction from hundreds of vigorous and hostile presses, and had so little said against him which deserves even an answer. He spoke of him as a peer of Douglas in the Illinois Senatorial contest, as eminently kind-hearted; as entirely conscientious in the discharge of his high trust, and as having administered the government with the deepest sense of his responsibility to his country and his God. He was sure that the President spoke the truth the other day, when he said he had never willingly planted a thorn in any man's bosom. Angry passions form no part of his nature, but a kindly and playful spirit mingles its sweetness with the austere cup of public duty. He spoke of the personal appearance of the President, remarking that he had seen him in company at table with Foreign Ministers and other distinguished personages, and that in manners and conversation he was the peer of any man at the table. He also defended him from the charge of want of unity in his Cabinet; remarking that precisely the same charges might be brought against Washington, who kept his Cabinet as long as he could induce them to stay there; two such diverse political leaders as Jefferson and Hamilton.

The recent visit of General Banks to Massachusetts has been attended with high gratification to him and his legion of friends. His public course in Louisiana has met the approval of the general government. His achievements in Louisiana has furnished liberty to fifty thousand men, women and children, and the number seeking its enjoyment is still irresistibly strong. His past history guarantees his future success. He has been found equal to all that has been required of him, and drew from the President the memorable compliment, that he did his work better and gave him less trouble than any other man of the same rank in the service.

We hear the name of your distinguished townsman, Hon. Charles Francis Adams mentioned in connection with the new Cabinet of President Lincoln. It is earnestly hoped that he will be made Secretary of State, a position which he is eminently qualified to fill.

The electors of President and Vice President met on the first Wednesday of December, at the Capitols of their respective States, to cast their votes, which are sent to the President of the Senate, and counted before both Houses of Congress on the second Wednesday of February.

Thanksgiving Proclamation.

By and with the advice and consent of the Council, I do hereby appoint Thursday, the 24th day of November next, to be observed throughout this Commonwealth as a day of Public Thanksgiving and Praise.

I cordially and earnestly invite the people of Massachusetts, uniting with all the people of our common country, whose patriotic loyalty, and whose religious faith and convictions combine to inspire their hearts with the spirit of devout thanksgiving and joyful gratitude for the national and temporal blessings, as well as for the personal and spiritual blessings of the year, to lift up their hearts with one accord in solemn and grateful adoration to Him who rules in the Heavens and rules the Universe; but who has condescended to our own estate—who has owned and visited and redeemed the children of men.

For the innumerable mercies of divine forbearance and love; for the tender sympathies and associations of home and household; for the ties and affections of friendship; for the examples and testimonies of the noble, the brave and the good, who have instructed and encouraged our hearts—who have lived with us on earth, and who, offering their lives in devoted sacrifice for mankind, have passed beyond mortality; but who, though dead, yet speak to us; for the fruits and the feasts of nature; for the gifts and faculties of mind and hand, and of every art which helps our conquest and mastery over poverty and want, over disease and accident, over ignorance and wrong; for all our capacities of enjoyment and happiness; for all our opportunities of activity and usefulness; for all the sunshine and the rain; for the strength vouchsafed to us in the experiences of affliction, not less than in the delights of our happiest days; for the revelation of duty; for the bliss of being and for the hope of immortality; let us unite with heart and voice in prayer and songs of grateful and adoring praise.

Let us kindle afresh in the sublime devotion of the sanctuary the fires of patriotic love of country, the pure flames of unselfish consecration to the cause of her honor and welfare.

Let us learn to feel its sweet and honorable encounter all peril, toil or difficulty in her behalf, whether in bearing forward the ensign of her power against her enemies, or in harmonizing the policy of her rulers, and the sentiments of her people with the venerable traditions and the immortal principles of justice, humanity, freedom and sacred right, by the Fathers of the Republic, vindicated by generations of heroes, sealed by the blood of martyrs, preached by every branch of the Church in all ages wherever the purity of religion has triumphed over the devices of men.

Given at the Council Chamber, in Boston, this thirty-first day of October, in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-four, and the eighty-ninth of the Independence of the United States of America.

JOHN A. ANDREW.

REBEL FINANCES. The rebel Secretary of the Treasury in his annual report, states that the government owns 250,000 bales of cotton. This he considers adequate to the liquidation of the foreign debt of the Confederacy, which is £240,000.

ECONOMIZING COAL. The Scientific American gives the following useful hints upon this subject, which are confirmed by every one's experience who understands the philosophy of coal fires:

"A good bright fire can be steadily maintained with coal with less trouble than with any other kind of fuel; but not by raking, poking and piling in green fuel continuously. After breakfast the fire should be cleared of ashes, if there are any, and fresh fuel put on to fill the grate moderately. Let the oven damper be turned up, so as to heat it, and leave the small top door open, more or less, according to the intensity of heat required. In this way air enters over the top of the fire, and maintains a far better combustion, and consequently greater heat than when the draft dampers are thrown open. A washing can be done or ironing accomplished with one third less coal than is generally thought necessary to use. So far as sitting ashes for the cinders they contain is concerned, it is a good idea to express water from the waste of poor families in cities live off the waste of their improvident neighbors, and in this way there is something used which would otherwise be lost; but it seems to us that charity should be practised in a different and more positive manner. If the proverb be true that 'charity begins at home,' then we have a still stronger argument against the wasteful practice. Cinders will burn admirably in small cylinder stoves, and heat a nursery or a laundry as hot as it should be. Every shovel full saved is a shovel full of coal put in the cellar—and a hint to the wise is enough on this point."

"Blackbird."

To the Publisher of the Patriot:

It is known to be the fact, that a certain scurrilous poster headed, "Let the Blackbird scream," was posted at your office, and it is the desire of many citizens to know if said proceeding was by sanction of you. If not, you will oblige them, and benefit yourself, by a denial of your knowledge of the fact.

Yours,

A SUBSCRIBER.

In the first place we would inform our correspondent that it is not our custom to publish anonymous communications, and we caution the writer as well as others who may send articles for publication, to forward their names, unless they wish to spend their time uselessly, as such communications usually find the scrap barrel. As to the handbill, we would say that it was printed for one of our citizens, late on Saturday evening, after the office had been closed as we supposed for the night, and without the knowledge or consent of ourself or foreman of the office. After an explanation to the parties concerned we deemed it unworthy of notice.

VERMONT. The Vermont Legislature is still at work on the agricultural college question. The House has voted by a large majority to repeal the act of last year "to incorporate the Vermont State University and Associate Colleges," and the favorite plan now is to divide the income of the agricultural fund among the three colleges already existing in the State.

BURGERS. Look out for them, and if you are fortunate enough to have government bonds, silverware or other valuables about your house, get one of Morse's safes, advertised in another column, which fire cannot consume nor thieves break through and steal.

Poetry.

Autumn.

O, Ruler of the waning year!
How calm, while summer lingers here,
Is thine enchanted sleep;
When murmuring woods are full of songs,
And all green leaves are whispering tongues,
And fields grow rich and deep—
Till wakened by the thrilling sound
Of the sharp scythe along the ground,
Through Nature's flowering heart:
Or shouts of jocund harvest home,
That down the echoing valleys come,
From laughing hills a part.

How calm a splendor ever lies Within thy royal waking eyes,
O wondrous autumn time!
Like glory round a good man's head,
When glory round about his bed,
And waken thoughts sublime.

And who could dream you soft, sweet light
Were herald of the year's dark night:
And North wind's stormy breath?
That all these tints of red and gold,
Burning through every starry fold,
Were signs of Nature's death!

Ah, na! thy coming stirs the sense
At every portal, calling thence
The troops of awe and fear,
We think, perforce, of days gone by,
And days that all as swiftly fly,
Knowing thine errand here.

We cannot with the swallow flee,
And shun the gloomy days that be
So full of winter snow:
We pass into our Orient land
Across dark seas where some bright hand
Calls from the deeps below.

Born where the black pines crowned the hills,
And violets pierced the soil that fills
The elm-tree's rugged spurs;
When were the thorn her snow-white crown,
And chestnut spires fell softly down
Among the golden furze—

Still thy dread pinions, as of old,
The sylvan hills and vales unfold
O'er all the spreading land;
And earth's sweet face, once bright and mild
As the fair forehead of a child,
Is seared as with a brand.

And still man's conscious spirit feels,
While far and wide the east wind peals,
'Tis God Almighty's breath;
While as in prayer all heaven is bowed,
O'er hill and valley blowing loud
The Autumn-blast of death.

SEEDS.

A wonderful thing is a seed—
The one thing deathless forever!
The one thing changeless—utterly true—
Forever old, forever new,
And fickle and faithless never.

Plant blessings, and blessings will bloom;
Plant hate, and hate will grow;
You can sow to-day to-morrow bring
The blossom that proves what sort of thing
Is the seed, the seed that you sow.

A Hundred Years to Come.

Who'll press for gold this crowded street,
A hundred years to come?

Who'll tread your church with willing feet,
A hundred years to come?

Pale, trembling age, and fiery youth,
And childhood with its brow of truth,
The rich and poor on land, on sea,
Where will the mighty millions be,
A hundred years to come?

We all within our graves shall sleep,
A hundred years to come;

No living soul for us will weep,
A hundred years to come;

But other men our land will till
And other men our streets will fill;
And other birds will sing as gay,
And bright the sun shall be to-day,
A hundred years to come.

Anecdotes.

A Philadelphia merchant sent a cargo of goods to Constantinople. After the supercargo had seen the bales and boxes safely landed, he inquired where they should be stored. Leave them here, it would rain to-night, was the reply.

But I dare not leave them so exposed, some of the goods may be stolen, said the supercargo.

The Mohammedan merchant laughed as he replied:

Don't be alarmed, my friend, there isn't a Christian within a hundred miles of us.

Dr. A., physician at Newcastle, being summoned to a druggery in order to reprimand the sexton for drunkenness, he dwelt so long on the sexton's misconduct as to raise his choler so as to draw from him this expression—
"Sir, I was in hopes you would have treated my feelings with more gentleness, or that you would have been the last man alive to appear against me, as I have covered so many blunders of yours!"

"Why is it you behaved so well when you first came to school, and are so disobedient now?" said a schoolmaster to a young scapegrace who had caused him much trouble by his bad conduct.
"Because," said young hopeful, looking into his face, "we wasn't much acquainted then."

BLOOD-ROOT ELIXIR
Has been thoroughly tested and proved in its medical practice, for a period of THIRTY YEARS, and is now presented to the public as an effective cure for

COSTIVENESS,

And the Best Remedy ever prepared for Diseases of the Liver,
SCROFULA,
All Humors and Impurities of the Blood and Diseases of the Skin.

The preparing and combining the BLOOD-ROOT ELIXIR is attended with results to medical science most in importance, in relation to either in surgery. Rupture and plants, in themselves pungent and disagreeable, are by a new and scientific process of extracting (in vacuo) rendered MORE EFFECTIVE IN THEIR OPERATION, entirely devoid of the gripping and distressing pain which attends the action of all other purgative medicine.—They are also made to become highly

PLEASANT AND AGREEABLE TO THE TASTE, and by their peculiar combination, work so perfectly in HARMONY WITH NATURE that no unpleasant reaction will follow its operation. It also possesses

A DIFFUSIVE AND ALTERNATIVE EFFECT, which can only be obtained by medicine in a fluid state. These are new elements in purgative medicine.

The BLOOD-ROOT ELIXIR has no partial action upon the bowels, but is equally diffused there, and throughout the whole circulation of the Blood, imparting a healthy and invigorating action to the STOMACH AND BOWELS, LIVER, LUNGS, KIDNEYS, and gently stimulating dormant and morbid secretions throughout the whole system.

A single dose will produce a cheerful and exhilarating COMMOION, which will inspire the patient with confidence, and secure of IMMEDIATE RELIEF. A continuance for a short period will DRIVE the obscure and hidden humors to the surface of the skin, and relieve or check SCROFULOUS AFFECTIONS—and by thus purifying and strengthening the Blood, will remove the most fruitful

CAUSE OF CONSUMPTION.

It incites the various organs of the system to act their allotted part, removing the causes which induce RHEUMATISM and NEURALGIA, HEADACHE, LOSS OF APETITE, DYSPEPSIA, COSTIVENESS, and the various diseases which arise from a derangement of the Stomach and Bowels, and restricted circulation of the Blood.

See the pamphlet around each bottle for a history of the Elixir.

The proprietor of the BLOOD-ROOT ELIXIR, (Dr. S. O. Richardson), has been long and favorably known to the public by his celebrated SHERRY WINE BITTERS, the best tonic medicine ever discovered, and which has been in use for thirty years. He is a graduate of the New Hampshire Medical College, and many years associate member of the Massachusetts Medical Society, and has made the study of medicine his profession since 1850.

And as fully conversant is the Doctor of the wonderful curative effects of his BLOOD-ROOT ELIXIR that he hereby offers to each and every person who will use ONE HALF of a BOTTLE of the Elixir, and not be cured of a good effect therefrom, to refund to said person the FULL amount which he paid for the same, by returning the unopened bottle to his office.

Price $1.50 per Bottle.

Sold in Quincy by MRS. E. HAYDEN, and by dealers in medicine generally, and at the
DOCTOR'S OFFICE,
51 Hanover Street, Boston.

An Effectual External Remedy for

NEURALGIA

RHEUMATISM.

AND

ALSO, INVALUABLE FOR

Spinal Irritation, Ague in the Face

Toothache, Pain in the Side,

Back, and Limbs, Ear,

Ague, &c.

Among the Advantages of this Medicine

are the following:

Its effect is very rapid—in most cases instan-taneous.

It is external in its application, and the patient runs no risk in using it. It does not strike to the stomach.

It reaches the nerves and muscles, as it is believed no other medicine does.

It has cured some of the most violent and obstinate cases of Neuralgia ever known.

It can be used on a child or an aged person
alike.

While it is very powerful, it is perfectly harmless.

The proprietor has been allowed to publish the names of many persons who have used the Compound with the most beneficial results. He inserts a few of them. They are among the most respectable citizens of Boston and other places,
and their residences and places of business are given.

The following letter from one of our best citizens, will speak for itself.

Rev. JOHN E. BARRY, the children's missionary of Boston, was the recipient a few weeks
since of a bottle of Sturgis's Electric Compound,
for Neuralgia, Rheumatism, &c., and having experienced great benefit from its use, and having known of many severe cases of the above complaints where it produced cures, considers it his duty to make known to his friends and others
being so unfortunate as to be troubled with these terrible complaints, the virtue of this preparation.

JOSEPH E. BARRY.

REMARKABLE CURE OF NEURALGIA.—
The following letter, (unsolicited,) was received by the proprietor in May last.

CAMP ROGERS, Newbury, May 6, 1863.
Dear Sir: I have been for some weeks suffering under a severe attack of Neuralgia, the severity of which has caused me to be in "perfect agony" both night and day. Having heard of Sturgis's Electric Compound from a "companion
in arms," I was induced to give it a trial, which had the happy effect to immediately cure me. I am surprised that surgeons do not have it in the army, as there is a constant demand for such an invaluable relief. I make this statement for the public good, and I have no scruples about your using this as a recommendation to other victims
of this painful disorder.

Yours, respectfully,

Hope for the Sufferers!

LET NONE DESPAIR,
For DAILY and almost HOURLY cures are Reported, in which the effect of
THE GREAT

Humor Remedy,

HOWARD'S
VEGETABLE
Canker and Cancer Syrup,
Has been to lay the Axe to the Roots of the
Great Blighting
UPSTREE OF HUMANITY.
WHOSE FRUITS ARE DEATH!

The CANKER and CANCER SYRUP
has the most extraordinary cleansing action on
the BLOOD, which it PURIFIES AT ITS SOURCE; and though it penetrates every organ of the Body, repairing injured Tissues, arresting the Progress of Decay, and stimulating
to healthy action the Digestive, Nutritive and Circulating Organs. As nearly all
DISEASES have their ORIGIN in the BLOOD its function should be

CLEANSED AT ITS SOURCE!
This aim you now so infallibly secured by HOW-
ARD'S SYRUP, which has

Redeemed Thousands of Victims

FROM PREMATURE GRAVES!
THE SYRUP is the most efficacious Remedy
known for that dreadful scourge of our Race,
CANCER in its many forms, however obstinate—complexity, banding, thickening, ulcers, KNIFE. The most cases, given over by Physicians, have yielded to it.

CANCER, in its worst forms in
young and old.

SCURF, leucoderma, or recent, it completely eradicates, leaving the system without taint.

SALT RHEUM in its many aspects, manifested without its system, it completely testifies, ERYSIPELAS of the worst kind soon
loses its virulent character. The Syrup is an antidote to it.

TUMORS need not be removed by the knife;
the Syrup dissolves them permanently.

WHITE SWELLINGS are acted on by the Syrup through the Blood. Many limbs have been saved by it.

ULCERS, however old or malignant, are
healed by the Syrup without the usual danger of stopping running Nerves.

KING'S EVIL, the Syrup is a Specific.
NEURALGIA, however distressing, has been cured by it when all other remedies have failed.

JAUNDICE is cured by the action of the
Syrup on the Liver and Bile Ducts, and DYS-PEPSIA caused by vitiated or inefficient Bile
is removed.

FEMALE WEAKNESSES—it removes acid, catarrh, and, taken regularly, it promotes the healthy physiological secretion.

RICKETS, a Child's disease, it completely eradicates, and saves scars of misery, even preventing consumption. In short it is the only safe and certain remedy known for THE CURE of

EVERY KIND OF HUMOR!

and is so penetrating that mothers nursing may keep their own and their infants' blood pure by
its use. All suffering from Nervous Complaints, Insistent Consumption, Pelvic and General
Debility will find it give them RENEWED VIGOR AND YOUTH.

FOR SKIN DISEASES—it is especially suited, as it so eradicates all Blemishes, Pimples, &c., and imparts the Brilliance of Health
to the Complexion.

* * * Where irritation of the Lungs and Coughs attend the diseases named, the excellent and soothing effect of the Syrup ensures relief and recovery, and obviates the system.

No cure of failure of the Syrup has ever been known where its use has been persevered in.

It might be easy to enter into long and scientific theories. We prefer to lay a plain case of misery
before the sufferers who seek relief, therefore we
now offer this

Simple Vegetable Compound
which cannot harm and certainly cures.

Thoughts of Home.

Sweet it is to soar on fancy's wing,
To that remembered spot I love,
While memory smiles, and rapture sings
O'er each familiar scene I love;
Tis far different here to roam.
These streams are quite unlike to me;
How dear the woods and wilds of home—
That early home of infancy.

The forest, with its mantle green,
Whose fragrance once I called my own;
The streams, within whose depths serene,
The spotted trout is ever known;
The mountain which I climbed, to view
That quiet vale so dear to me,—
I cannot bid you all adieu,
Bright haunts of home in infancy!

Though o'er me smiles a sunny sky,
Though hills and level plains are here,
Though kindness beams from many an eye,
Still I may not live ever here!
Here friends would soothe me with their mirth,
But ah! they cannot give to me,
That seat beside my father's hearth,
Or on that gentle mother's knee.

I must bid those scenes all adieu!
Oh! for another lingering gaze!
There I the joys of childhood knew,
And there were passed my happiest days;
While memory sways her magic wand,
And unchained fancy still is free,
I'll love thee still my native land,
For thou art ever dear to me.

COLD CREAM. The best cold cream, and the only thing of the kind that is really softening and healing to the skin, is made as follows: Take two ounces of white wax, half an ounce of spermaceti, and a pint of sweet oil, put altogether in a jar, place on the hob close to a good fire, let the ingredients melt and remain molten for some time, stirring them occasionally. When cold, the preparation is complete. Scent of any kind, though agreeable to the olfactory nerves, is injurious to the skin, and should not be added to the cold cream.

To remove the stains on spoons caused by using them for boiled eggs, take a little common salt moist between the thumb and finger, and briskly rub the stain which will soon disappear.

One of our venerable citizens, says the Springfield Republican, recently in justifying his conduct towards a neighbor with whom he had quarrelled, remarked, in a serious and impressive manner, that his enemy was very abusive, applying to him repeatedly the "vulgar epithets."

Hardly any original thoughts assume their proper importance in the minds even of their inventors, until spiced selected words or phrases have, as it were, nailed them down and held them fast.

You always lose your temper in my company," said an individual of doubtful reputation to a gentleman. "True, sir, and I shouldn't wonder if I lost everything I have about me."

It is a joy to know, that there is a realm where all those aspirations which have beckoned us, only to crown us still with thorns shall be realized, and where there is no bud which shall fall without being filled into fruit.

Where there is the ability and taste, I regard music, as combining in happiest proportions instruction and pleasure as standing at the head of home evening enjoyments.

Prejudices are like rats, and a man's mind like a trap; they get in easily, and then perhaps can't get out at all.

In fruits a pleasant sour is generally thought better than a sweet; in dispositions and temper never.

Whoso bathes his hand in blood, must wash it with tears.

Hope may had under cloud, but it blows only in sunshine.

Consider whence thou comest; whither thou goest, and before whom thou art to stand.

A gentleman walking with two ladies stepped on a hogshead hoop that flew up and struck him in the face. "Mercy!" said he,
"which one of you dropped that?"

It is difficult to keep one's temper in a hot day; but getting under a shady tree is the best way of taking unbrag.

must be stamped. (Internal Revenue decision, by Jingo.)

MUTUAL DELIGHT. During Lord Holland's last illness, George Selwyn called and left his card. Selwyn had a fondness for seeing dead bodies, and the dying lord, fully comprehending his feelings is said to have replied, "If Mr. Selwyn calls again, show him up; if I am alive, I shall be delighted to see him, and if I am dead, he will be delig-ted to see me."

Let the youth who stands at the bar with a glass of liquor in his hand, consider which he had better throw away—the liquor or himself.

A man on going with a friend to dine at the house of an acquaintance, in order to save time, said,—"Scrape for me, while I knock for both of us."

Nothing is wholly good or bad. There are dark spots on the sun, and bright ones in a coal mine.

Miscellaneous.

Taken by Strategy.

Thanksgiving Day! with a chill, gray sky, and sudden flurries of snow eddying through the air like flights of white birds! Who would give a fig for a sunshiny Thanksgiving Day? Why, one might as well have Thanksgiving Day without its keen wind and fluttering drifts of scarlet leaves making their moan among the dimpled hollows of the lonely woods.

Deacon Jacob Marble fully appreciated the possession of both these necessary adjuncts to the day of national gratitude; and therefore it was that his brown, wrinkled face wore such an aspect of contentment as he stood before the looking-glass tying his checked silk neckerchief.

We ain't rich people, Huld, he slowly enunciated, but I don't see but what we've as much to keep Thanksgiving for as most folks. The harvests have been midlin' good and things has gone pretty prosperous, considerin'—

The Deacon's little wife interrupted this leisurely tirade in wife-like fashion, by standing on tip-toe to jerk out the clumsy knot that her husband's knobby brown fingers had constructed, and tying it trimly anew.

There! she said complacently, eyeing her work; that's something like! You always take hold of a cravat as though it were the handle of a plow, Jacob!

The Deacon looked down upon the bright eyes and plump cheeks of his helpmate with a broad smile that was not unlike a sudden gleam of autumn sunshine on one of his own sere harvest fields, as she stood there in the
"go-to-meeting" costume of sober New England—a drab satin bonnet, with dark blue bows inside, and a gray shawl wrapped cosily around her shoulders.

Maybe you are right, Huld, said the Deacon; but come—we shall be late to meetin'.

Well, I'm ready, responded Mrs. Marble, briskly, Bessy, be sure you catch the turkey, and keep it well basted—and put in the pumpkin pies when the brick oven is hot—and,
Bess, the pudding—and the stewed apple-Bess—

There, there! interrupted the Deacon, tucking his wife under his arm, and walking her off, yet in the full tide of her directions, Bess will do well enough; she wouldn't be your daughter if she wasn't a steel trap.

How you do talk, Deacon! ejaculated Mrs.
Marble, looking uneasily over her shoulder.
I didn't remember to tell her about the chicken pies, after all. Shut the gate, Deacon, or Joe Grime's cows'll be in, catin' the tops off every chrysanthemum I've got.

And thus divided between thoughts temporal and spiritual, the worthy matron went on her way under the wing of the Deacon's butternut colored coat, toward the gray old church that nestled afar off among the desolate hills, its spire already obscured with a dizzy mist of snow flakes.

over the well marshalled forces of the larder, stood quietly before the fire, tapping one dainty foot on the polished red brick hearth, and thoughtfully playing with the string of coral that encircled her round, white throat.

She was a dimpled, rosy little body, with lips like the scarlet geranium in the window, and dark blue eyes full of roguish sparkles—a damsel, in short, whom you would have fancied created for the special purpose of being kissed and made much of. She knew it, too, the demure fairy, for there was no co-quetry in every fold of the crimson delaine dress she wore, and espagnole indescribable in the fluttering bows of ribbons that fastened it. Right over the mantle, an old lookingglass—Deacon Marble would have started if you had called it a mirror—reflected every dimple and rose tint on the peachy cheek, yet Bessy never glanced at its flattering transcript. No, she looked gravely into the blazing heart of the fire with an unwonted debe before the blue eyes, and a pensive shadow on her brow.

I say, Bessy!

She had not heard the door open, yet she did not start when in the looking-glass she saw imaged another form besides her own—that of a tall, stalwart young man, in blue uniform, outlined with curves of vivid scarlet.
He was a handsome fellow, too, dark-eyed and sun-browned, with brown hair thrown carelessly back from his open forehead.

Charles, you here? she asked, half reproachfully.

I need not scold Bessy; there's a darling!
I tried to keep away, upon my word I did, but you might as well expect a hungry bee to keep away from a bunch of honey suckles;
I couldn't stand it, and so here I am.

And he passed his arm about her waist and looked, with a species of laughing defiance, down into the blue depths of her eyes.

Don't Charles! she said, possibly alluding to a kiss, which terminated his words in a manner most satisfactory to himself. When you know that my father has forbidden you the house.

Know it? Of course I know it, and that's the reason I waited in the hazel copse until I saw the good Deacon well on his way to church before I walked in! But, Bessy, he added in a graver tone, you must own yourself that it is unjust for your father to dislike me simply for being poor. He was a poor boy himself when he married your mother.
I've heard him say so a thousand times. And as for Mark Vernon—

Hush, Charles! coaxed Bessy, placing her little hand over the young soldier's mouth.

You know that I never would marry Mark Vernon were he richer than Cæsar himself.

said these words, he pressed his hand against his side, adding: "Oh! this hard lump!"

It's all through leaving off grog, replied the landlord; some good drink will take your lump away. If you are fool enough to keep on teetotal, your lump will get bigger, and very likely you'll be having a hard lump at your other side.

True, true! old boy, with a hearty laugh, responded the merry tar, as he briskly drew out a bag of gold from his side-pocket, and held it up to the publican's gaze. This is my hard lump. You are right in saying that if I drink my lump will go away, and if I stick to teetotal I shall have a bigger lump. Good-bye to you, landlord. By God's help I'll keep out of your net, and try to get a hard lump on both sides.

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are we."

Complimentary to Dr. Miller.

At the close of the lecture on Monday evening, the following resolutions were offered by Rev. Mr. Thwing, pastor of the Hancock Street Church, which were read and unanimously adopted.

"Resolved, That the course of lectures by Dr. A. E. Miller, to which it has been our privilege and satisfaction to listen, has deepened our convictions of the vital importance of physiological knowledge as essential to the health and comfort, the moral and religious well-being of man.

"Resolved, That the importance of the subjects discussed in these lectures; the facilities furnished for their illustration in the large and costly collection of models and drawings; the rare ability shown by the lecturer in securing the attention of his constantly increasing audience, together with his thorough scholarly and Christian views of scientific truth, should continue to secure for him the warmest welcome and the most cordial cooperation of every friend of virtue and humanity."

At the close of the last lecture of Dr. Miller to the ladies, on Tuesday afternoon, the following resolutions were presented by Mrs. Heath and unanimously adopted by the large and intelligent audience.

"Resolved, That we the ladies of Quincy, who have had the privilege of listening to the chaste and scientific lectures of Dr. Miller upon the constitution and diseases of our sex and the way to health, do hereby express to him our grateful thanks for the valuable instruction we have received from his wise and eloquent words, impressing our minds more than ever with that important truth, 'knowledge is the handmaid of religion.'"

And most cheerfully do we recommend him, as their faithful friend, to all mothers, wives and daughters who are interested in health, virtue and happiness.

THE ONE HUNDRED DAYS' MEN. Capt. F. Edward Bent's company of this town arrived about 10 o'clock on Tuesday evening, and will be mustered out of the United States' service on Monday next. They were all in pretty good health and able to return with their Company.

THE EXPLOSIVE ELEMENT. The quality they use in the army for their heavy ordnance is not the kind our sportsmen would select for their purpose. A single kernel would be a charge sufficient for a common small arm. We have a specimen before us—received from our correspondent at Charleston, (S. C.) harbor. It is very coarse—the grains, many of them, being as large as good sized walnuts. It has little the appearance of gunpowder, but we are told that its explosive qualities are of a tremendous power.

THANKSGIVING. Our Sunday—10 o'clock, P. M. We here, kind reader, on the eve of our autumnal festival, bid you adieu until the return of our next publication day. In the interval, may you have abundant cause for thanksgiving and praise. In friendship's bonds, health, a competency of this world's wealth, and bright visions for a peaceful and glorious future for ourselves and our beloved country.

THE OYSTER BET. The Boston man who proposed to purchase a barrel of oysters in Providence and wheel them to Boston, if Little Mac should be defeated, stands to the terms of his wager, although there was an alternative forfeit of ten dollars. He was in town yesterday to make the preliminary arrangements and will start on his journey on the 28th inst. He manfully discards rails and ralers, and will stick to the Turnpike and two-wheeled barrow. And every McClellan boy will say, "bully for him."—Providence Journal.

The remains of the late Rev. Thos. Starr King were removed, on the evening of the 22d of September, and deposited in the new vault prepared for them to the enclosure of the church of San Francisco. The monument is of Columbia marble, and was cut out of a solid block, which in its rough state weighed twenty tons. The next morning the monument was found covered with wreaths and flowers.

Head Quarters U. S. Naval Battery.

MORRIS ISLAND, CHARLESTON HARBOR, (S. C.) Nov. 5th, 1864.

To the Publisher of the Patriot:

Here I am again with more of my nonsense. I am here yet in the sand, and here I seem likely to remain for some time, the way things are going on down here. We all thought that the grand attack would begin on the fifth of November—that is to-day—but nothing unusual has happened as yet; nothing but the city gun every half hour. The rebels are as busy as bees, working at Sumter; they are building a battery on the side next to Gregg, so that they can mount light pieces to annoy us when we are working our guns, but we will soon knock that down when we get to work at them. The greatest plague that we have, is a company of sharpshooters that the rebels have on Fort Sumter; they annoy us very much; just as soon as a man shows his head, they let slip, and the bullets come whistling around our heads, rather too close for comfort; although there has been but few hit as yet, one of our boys was standing on the battery the other day looking at Sumter, when they let go a whole volley at him; and one of the bullets struck him in the front of his cap, going through, and just starting the blood on the top of his head. One of the 3d Rhode Island Artillery, while on duty on Fort Gregg, was struck in the side, the ball going through and lodging in the backbone; he lived but three hours. There has been a great many narrow escapes; it is an ugly piece of lead they fire out of their Mississippi rifles; they are over an inch long, and a third of an inch through; they are sure death at the distance of a mile—that is if it hits you in the right place. The rebel prisoners placed under fire in front of Wagner, have all been sent away to Fort Pulaski for the winter, or till they are exchanged. The reason for this, is that the yellow fever is raging in Charleston, and the rebels agreed to remove the prisoners from Charleston if we would those in front of Wagner—and so it was done. The island we are on is very healthy, and very little sickness of a malignant kind is known here. As I set in the door of my tent, I can see the fleet at anchor, and then I look up towards the city of Secesh, and every thing looks peaceful and quiet. One would not think that in that short distance that every device and invention that the worst passions of the human mind suggest for the destruction of human life was in full blast; or that this quiet spot would in the short space of one hour be made a perfect hell. But so it is. Alas, when will men get sense enough to live in peace and good will with one another. By the time this reaches you the fate of the country will be decided. I don't know how the election is carried on at home, but they want let us vote at all here in the naval battery. Well, never mind, William Penniman says in his letter to your excellent paper, that some of his company voted "thirty and forty times;" that will make up for us. If any thing turns up I will let you know as soon as possible. And now I must say adieu for the present. Yours truly, "BLUE JACKET."

"Resolved, That we the ladies of Quincy, who have had the privilege of listening to the chaste and scientific lectures of Dr. Miller upon the constitution and diseases of our sex and the way to health, do hereby express to him our grateful thanks for the valuable instruction we have received from his wise and eloquent words, impressing our minds more than ever with that important truth, 'knowledge is the handmaid of religion.'"

And most cheerfully do we recommend him, as their faithful friend, to all mothers, wives and daughters who are interested in health, virtue and happiness.

THE ONE HUNDRED DAYS' MEN. Capt. F. Edward Bent's company of this town arrived about 10 o'clock on Tuesday evening, and will be mustered out of the United States' service on Monday next. They were all in pretty good health and able to return with their Company.

THE EXPLOSIVE ELEMENT. The quality they use in the army for their heavy ordnance is not the kind our sportsmen would select for their purpose. A single kernel would be a charge sufficient for a common small arm. We have a specimen before us—received from our correspondent at Charleston, (S. C.) harbor. It is very coarse—the grains, many of them, being as large as good sized walnuts. It has little the appearance of gunpowder, but we are told that its explosive qualities are of a tremendous power.

THANKSGIVING. Our Sunday—10 o'clock, P. M. We here, kind reader, on the eve of our autumnal festival, bid you adieu until the return of our next publication day. In the interval, may you have abundant cause for thanksgiving and praise. In friendship's bonds, health, a competency of this world's wealth, and bright visions for a peaceful and glorious future for ourselves and our beloved country.

THE OYSTER BET. The Boston man who proposed to purchase a barrel of oysters in Providence and wheel them to Boston, if Little Mac should be defeated, stands to the terms of his wager, although there was an alternative forfeit of ten dollars. He was in town yesterday to make the preliminary arrangements and will start on his journey on the 28th inst. He manfully discards rails and ralers, and will stick to the Turnpike and two-wheeled barrow. And every McClellan boy will say, "bully for him."—Providence Journal.

The remains of the late Rev. Thos. Starr King were removed, on the evening of the 22d of September, and deposited in the new vault prepared for them to the enclosure of the church of San Francisco. The monument is of Columbia marble, and was cut out of a solid block, which in its rough state weighed twenty tons. The next morning the monument was found covered with wreaths and flowers.

Complimentary to Dr. Miller.

At the close of the lecture on Monday evening, the following resolutions were offered by Rev. Mr. Thwing, pastor of the Hancock Street Church, which were read and unanimously adopted.

"Resolved, That the course of lectures by Dr. A. E. Miller, to which it has been our privilege and satisfaction to listen, has deepened our convictions of the vital importance of physiological knowledge as essential to the health and comfort, the moral and religious well-being of man.

"Resolved, That the importance of the subjects discussed in these lectures; the facilities furnished for their illustration in the large and costly collection of models and drawings; the rare ability shown by the lecturer in securing the attention of his constantly increasing audience, together with his thorough scholarly and Christian views of scientific truth, should continue to secure for him the warmest welcome and the most cordial cooperation of every friend of virtue and humanity."

At the close of the last lecture of Dr. Miller to the ladies, on Tuesday afternoon, the following resolutions were presented by Mrs. Heath and unanimously adopted by the large and intelligent audience.

"Resolved, That we the ladies of Quincy, who have had the privilege of listening to the chaste and scientific lectures of Dr. Miller upon the constitution and diseases of our sex and the way to health, do hereby express to him our grateful thanks for the valuable instruction we have received from his wise and eloquent words, impressing our minds more than ever with that important truth, 'knowledge is the handmaid of religion.'"

Poetry.

The Dew-Drop.

A thoughtful child, with pallid brow,
And wisdom fitting riper years,
Mourning as the dew-drops left the bough,
And thus he spoke amid his tears:
"Alas, the brightest, fairest gems
Along the garden's glistening path,
The rose's jewelled diadems,
The sun has gathered in his wrath.
"Less happy they than those which rest
In humble dimness 'neath the shade,
And fall not like the rose's crest,
Till evening's light shall softly fade."
A cloud its shower of wonders threw
When brightly shone the sunset glow,
And pointed on the eastern blue
A beautiful and matchless bow.
"Now look my son," the father cried,
"The morning dew is gleaming yet;
In yonder sky, with gorgeous pride,
Those gems are gloriously rest.
"No more the careless hand of man
To earth may dash their glory down;
But purified by God's own plan,
They sparkle in a heavenly crown.
"Then learn, my son, the gems of love
That first from mortal life are given,
But pass from earth to shine above,
With lustre purer far than heaven.
Time spake the sire; but of the child
"Prophecy words to him were given;
For soon his spirit was exalted,
Like morning dew-drops into heaven.

The Old Folks' Story.

The old man sat by the chimney side:
His face was wrinkled and wan,
And he leaned both hands on his stout oak cane.
As if all his work were done.
His coat was of good old-fashioned gray,
The pockets were deep and wide,
Where his "specs" and his steel tobacco-box
Lay snugly side by side.
The old man liked to stir the fire,
So near him the logs were kept;
Sometimes he mused as he gazed on the coals,
Sometimes he sat and slept.
What saw he in the embers there?
Ah! pictures of other years;
And now and then they wakened smiles,
But often started tears.
His good wife sat on the other side,
In a high-backed, cane seat chair;
I see 'neath the pile of her muslin cap
The sheen of her silvery hair.
There's a happy look on her aged face,
As she busily knits for him,
And Nellie takes up the stitches dropped,
For grandmother's eyes are dim.
Their children came and read the news,
To pass the time each day;
How it stirs the blood in an old man's heart
To hear of the world away.
"Tis a homely scene—I told you so,
But pleasant it is to view;
At least I thought it so myself,
And sketched it down for you.
Be kind unto the old, my friend,
They're worn with this world's strife,
Though bravely once perhaps they fought
The stern, fierce battle of life!
They taught your feet to climb
Upward life's rugged steep;
Then let us gently lead them down
To where the weary sleep.

Anecdotes.

A stupid person, one day, seeing a man of learning enjoying the pleasures of the table,
said:
"So, sir, philosophers, I see, can indulge in the greatest delicacies?
Why not? rejoined the other. Do you think Providence intended all the good things for fools?
An idea inculcated writes: I was teaching school in a quiet country village. The second morning of the session I found time to note my surroundings, and among the scanty furniture I espied a three-legged stool.
Is that the dunce's block? I said to a little girl of five. The dark eye sparkled, the curls nodded assent, and the lips rippled out: I guess so—the teachers always sit on that.
While a country parson was preaching, the chief of his parishioners, sitting near the pulpit, were fast asleep, whereupon he said:
Now, beloved friends, I am in a great strut, for I speak too softly, those at the farther end of the church cannot hear me, and if I talk too loud, I shall wake the chief man in the parish.
A sailor about to be married, could not find change enough for the parson's fee. The minister unwilling to let the couple without the accustomed fee, demurred. Jack, placing his hand in his pocket, drew out a few shillings, saying:
Never mind; marry us as far as that will go!
Three and sixpence per gal. exclaimed
Mrs. Partington, on looking over the price current. Why, bless me, what is the world coming to when the gals are valued at only three and sixpence?
The old lady pulled off her spectacles, threw down the paper, and went into a brown study on the want of a proper appreciation of the true value of the females.

FARMING

Market Gardening Lands

IN

NEW JERSEY.

THE SUBSCRIBERS will sell Tracts of good Land for Farming and Market Gardening, in quantities to suit purchasers, situated in the Counties of Ocean and Burlington, on the line of the Camden and Delaware Bay Railroad, midway between New York and Philadelphia, at $10 per acre. In addition to all the common products of a farm, these lands
are valuable for growing cranberries, sweet potatoes, peaches, grapes, tobacco and hops.
All crops ripen ten days earlier than on Long Island. Squash and melons are delivered at any point on the railroad at one dollar and fifty cents per ton, and fertilizers for land for seven years after its application. The lands are mostly covered with yellow pine timber, suitable for lumber and cord wood. A portion of the land has been recently cut off, leaving the land ready for immediate cultivation.—
Price of cedar rails, $3 per 100. Cord wood, at any railroad station, $3 per cord. A portion of the land contain a large quantity of the best potter's clay yet discovered, for the manufacture of yellow ware. Saw-mill within one mile of Shamong Station. A good hotel
at Shamong, on the lands offered for sale.—
The location is very healthy and water excellent. Lands well watered with unfailing streams, and supplied with good mill-sites and water-power for manufacturing purposes. The whole purchase money may remain on mortgage for a term of years if desired, if the purchaser certifies the land.

COOK'S LEATHER CEMENT
For Sticking Patches on Boots and Shoes!

PATCHES Put on with this Cement are warranted not to come off. The directions for applying the Cement are on each bottle, and can be applied by any one. The beauty of patches put on by this process, are that they are almost invisible and will wear longer than those put on in the old-fashioned way of sewing.
Price, 25 and 45 cents per bottle.

Quincy, Sept. 3

Dr. S. O. RICHARDSON'S
BLOOD-ROOT ELIXIR
Has been thoroughly tested and proved in his medical practice, for a period of THIRTY YEARS, and is now presented
to the public as an effective cure for
COSTIVENESS.

And the Best Remedy ever prepared for

Diseases of the Liver,
SCROFULA.

All Humors and Impurities of the Blood and Diseases of the Skin.

The preparing and combining the BLOOD-
ROOT ELIXIR is attended with results to medical science next in importance to inhalation of oxygen in the treatment of the lungs, in themselves purgative and disintegrating, are by a new and scientific process of extracting (in vacuo) renewed MORE EFFECTIVE IN THEIR operation, entirely divested of the gripping and distressing pain which attends the action of all other purgative medicines.—They are also made to combine freely
PLEASANT AND AGREEABLE
TO THE TASTE,
and by their peculiar combination, work so perfectly in HARMONY WITH NATURE that no unnatural opposition will follow its operation.
It also possesses
A DIFFUSIVE AND ALTERNATIVE
EFFECT,

which can only be obtained by medicine in a fluid
state. These are new elements in purgative medicines.

The BLOOD-ROOT ELIXIR has no partial action upon the bowels, but is equally diffused throughout the system, and exerts a powerful action upon the stomach and bowels, liver, lungs, kidneys, and gently stimulating diuretic and moderately cathartic throughout the whole system.
A single dose will produce a cheerful and exhilarating COMOTION, which will inspire the patient with confidence, and assurance of IM-MEDIATE RELIEF. A continuance for a short period will DRIVE the obscure and hidden humors to the surface of the skin, and by thus purifying and strengthening the Blood, will remove
the most fruitful
CAUSE OF CONSUMPTION.

It incites the various organs of the system to their allotted part, removing the causes which induce RHEUMATISM and NEURALGIA,
HEADACHE, LOSS OF APPETITE, DYS-PEPSIA, COSTIVENESS, and the various diseases which arise from a derangement of the Stomach and Bowels, and restricted circulation
of the Blood.
See the pamphlet around each bottle for a history of the Elixir.

The proprietor of the BLOOD-ROOT ELIXIR, (Dr. S. O. Richardson) has been long and favorably known to the public by his celebrated SHERRY WINE BITTERS, the best tonic medicine ever discovered, and which will inspire the patient with confidence. He is a graduate of the New Hampshire Medical College, and many years an associate member of the Massachusetts Medical Society, and has made the study of medicine his profession since 1820.

And so fully convinced is the Doctor of the wonderful curative effects of his BLOOD-ROOT ELIXIR that he hereby offers to each and every person who will use ONE HALF OF A BOTTLE of his ELIXIR, and not be conscious of a good effect therefrom, to refund to said person the FULL amount which he paid for the same, by returning the usage bottle to his office.

Price $1.50 per Bottle.

Sold in Quincy by MRS. E. HAYDEN, and by dealers in medicine generally, and at the DOCTOR'S OFFICE,
51 Hanover Street, Boston.

CAUTION

TO FEMALES IN DELICATE HEALTH

DR. DOW, Physician and Surgeon, No. 7
Eden Street, Boston, is consulted daily
for all diseases incident to the female system.
Prolapsus Uteri or Floor Albus, Suppression,
and other Menstrual derangements, are all treated on new pathological principles, and are speedily guaranteed in a very few days. So invariably certain is the new mode of treatment, that most obstinate complaints yield under it, and the afflicted person soon enjoys perfect health.

Dr. Dow has had greater experience in the cure of diseases of women than any other physician in Boston.

Boasting accommodations for patients who may wish to stay in Boston a few days under his treatment.

Dr. Dow, since 1845, having confined his whole attention to an office practice for the cure
of Private Diseases and Female Complaints, acknowledges no superior in the United States.

STURGIS'

ELECTRIC COMPOUND,

An Effective External Remedy for

NEURALGIA

—AND—

RHEUMATISM.

ALSO, INVALUABLE FOR

Spinal Irritation, Ague in the Face

Toothache, Pain in the Side,

Back, and Limbs, Ear,

Ague, &c.

Among the Advantages of this Medicine

are the following:

Its effect is very rapid—in most cases instan-taneous.

It is external in its application, and the patient runs no risk in using it. It does not strike to the stomach.

It reaches the nerves and muscles, as it is believed no other medicine does.

It has cured some of the most violent and obstinate cases of Neuralgia ever known.

It can be used on a child or an aged person
alike.

While it is very powerful, it is perfectly harmless.

The proprietor has been allowed to publish the names of many persons who have used the Compound with the most beneficial results. He commends a few of them. They are among the most respectable citizens of Boston and other places,
and their residences and places of business are given.

The following letter from one of our best citizens, will speak for itself.

Rev. JOSEPH E. BARRY, the children's missionary of Boston, was the recipient a few weeks
since of a bottle of Sturgis's Electric Compound,
for Neuralgia, Rheumatism, &c., and having experienced great benefit from its use, and having known of many severe cases of the above complaints where it produced cures, considers it his duty to make known to his friends and others
being so unfortunate as to be troubled with these terrible complaints, the virtue of this preparation.

Hope for the Sufferers!

LET NONE DESPAIR,
For DAILY and almost HOURLY cases are Reported, in which the effect of
THE GREAT

Humor Remedy, HOWARD'S VEGETABLE

Canker and Cancer Syrup,
Has been to lay the Axe to the Roots of the
Great Blighting
UPASTREE OF HUMANITY,
WHOSE FRUITS ARE DEATH!

THE CANKER AND CANCER SYRUP
has the most extraordinary cleansing action on
the BLOOD, which it PURIFIES AT ITS SOURCE, and through it penetrates every organ of the Body, repairing injured Tissues, accelerating the Progress of Decay, and stimulating to healthy action the Digestive, Nutritive and Circulatory Organs. As nearly all DISEASES have their ORIGIN in the BLOOD,
its fountain should be
CLEANSED AT ITS SOURCE!

This one great sin is infallibly secured by HOW-
ARD'S SYRUP, which has
Redeemed Thousands of Victims
FROM PREMATURE GRAVES!

THE SYRUP is the most efficacious Remedy
known for that dreadful Scourge of our Race,
CANCER, in its many forms, however obsti-
nate—completely banishing the TORTURING
KNIFE. The worst cases, given over by Physicians, have yielded to it.
CANCER, in its worst forms, is
SCROFULA, hereditary, or recent, it completely eradicates, leaving the system without
taint.

SALT RHEUM in its many aspects, cannot withstand its virtues, as thousands testify.
ECZEMA, the worst kind soon loses its virulent character. The Syrup is an unfailing remedy.

TUMORS need not be removed by the knife;
the Syrup dissolves them permanently.
WHITE SWELLINGS are cured on by the Syrup through the Blood. Many limbs have been saved by it.

CLAPERS, however old or malignant, are cured by the Syrup without the usual danger of stopping Running Sores.

KING'S EVIL finds in the Syrup a Specific.
NEURALGIA, however distressing, has been cured by it when all other remedies have failed.

JAUNDICE is cured by the action of the
Syrup on the Liver and Bile Ducts, and DYS-PEPSIA caused by vitiated or insufficient Bile
is removed.

FEMALE WEAKNESSES—it removes
with ease and certainty, and taken regularly, it
promotes the healthy periodical secretion.
RICKETS, a Children's disease, is completely eradicated, and saves years of misery, even preventing consumption. In short it is the only safe and certain remedy known for THE
CURE OF

EVERY KIND OF HUMOR!
and is so permeating that mothers nursing may
keep their own and their infants' blood pure by
its use. All suffering from Nervous Complaints, Impaired Constitution, Exhaustion and General
Debility will find it give them RENEWED
VIGOR AND STRENGTH.

FOR SKIN DISEASES—it is especially suited, as it soon eradicates all Blotches, Pimples, &c., and imparts the Brilliance of Health
to the Complexion.

*Where irritation of the Lungs and Congestion attend the diseases named, the expectant and soothing effect of the Syrup ensures relief and repose,
and strengthens the system.
No case of failure of the SYRUP has ever been
known where its use has been persevered in.
It might be easy to enter into learned scientific
theories. We prefer to lay a plain story of facts
before the sufferers who seek relief, therefore we
now offer this

Simple Vegetable Compound
which cannot harm and certainly cures.

HARPER'S NEW MONTHLY MAGAZINE.

Critical Notices of the Press
It is the foremost Magazine of the day—the freshest never had a more delightful companion, nor the million a more enterprising friend, than Harper's Magazine. Methodist Protestant (Baltimore)

The most popular Monthly in the world—
New York Observer.
We must refer in terms of eulogy to the high tone and varied excellences of HARPER'S MAGAZINE—a journal of monthly circulation of about 170,000 copies—in whose pages are to be found some of the choicest light and general reading of the day. We speak of this as an evidence of the American People; and the popularity it has acquired is merited.

Each Number contains fully 144 pages of reading matter, appropriately illustrated with good woodcuts; and itself contains in itself the racy monthly and the more philosophical quarterly, blended with the best features of the daily journal. It has great power in the dissemination of a love of pure literature.

Blessed are they that Mourn.

O, deem not that earth's crowning bliss
Is found in joy alone;
For sorrow, bitter though it be,
Hath blessings all its own:

From lips Divine, like healing balm
To hearts oppressed and torn,
This heavenly consolation fell—
"Blessed are they that mourn."

As blossoms, smitten by the rain,
Their sweetest odors yield—
As where the ploughshare deepest strikes,
Rich harvests crown the field:

So, to the hopes by sorrow crushed,
A nobler faith succeeds;
And life, by trials furrowed, bears
The fruit of loving deeds.

Who never mourned have never known What treasures grief reveals—
The sympathies that humanize—
The tenderness that heals—

The power to look within the veil
And learn the heavenly lore—
The key word to life's mysteries,
So dark to us before.

How rich and sweet and full of strength
Our human spirits are,
Baptized into the sanctities
Of suffering and of prayer!

Supernal wisdom, love Divine,
Breathed through the lips which said,
"O blessed are the souls that mourn—
They shall be comforted."

ADVERTISING. A mistake that is often made, is to stop advertising when business is dull, and no greater error could be committed; that is the time to continue it with increased vigor, to put on full steam and carry the public by storm.

KEROSENE LAMP WICKS. A correspondent says: "In the present price of kerosene lamp wicks, people can make a better wick than they buy by taking cotton flannel, of which all have pieces, and folding it up three thicknesses, just wide enough to go into the tube, and catching the edge with coarse stitches."

A mother once asked a clergyman when she should begin the education of her child, and she told him it was then four years old.
"Madam," was the reply, "you have lost three years already. From the first smile over an infant's face your opportunity begins."

A good story was told of Jimmy Mahar, who had long been the gardener at the Presidential Mansion. The President had heard rumors that Jimmy was accustomed to get drunk and be unclean to visitors at the White House, so one bright morning he summoned him into his presence to receive his dismissal.

"Jimmy," said the President, "I hear bad stories about you. It is said that you are constantly drunk and unclean to visitors." Jimmy was puzzled for a reply; at last he said—"Mr. President, I hear much worse stories about you, but do you think I believe them?"

Talent and virtue are less frequent hereditary than the gout.

The phrase "the last ditch," was first used by William III. In 1682, the English ambassador, in the midst of a terrible crisis represented to him that Holland was utterly lost unless he consented to the protection of France.
"I have thought of a means," he replied, to avoid beholding the ruin of my country—to die in the last ditch."

PROVERBS. A grain of prudence is worth a pound of craft. Bonsters are cousins to liars. Confession of a fault makes half-amends.
Denying a fault doubles it. Envy shooteth at others and woundeth herself.

Mrs. Wilkins, in speaking of the accounts of some Rocky Mountain explorers, says:—
"The accounts of the veracity of the grizzlies, are such that in some cases the voracity of the writers are doubtful."

We once heard a lady who said there was but two things which on looking over her past life, she regretted; one of these was that she did not eat more of the cake when her sister Fanny was married!

Fame is represented bearing a trumpet.
Would not the picture be truer, were she to hold a handful of dust.

A man's good fortune often turns his head; bad fortune as often averts the heads of his friends.

GOLD TEST. A good test for gold or silver is a piece of lunar caustic, fixed with a pointed piece of wood. Slightly wet the metal to be tested, and rub it gently with the caustic. If gold or silver the mark will be white; but if an inferior metal, it will be quite black. Jewellers who purchase old gold often use this test.

Good dinners have a harmonizing influence, few disputes are so large they cannot be covered with a table cloth.

Miscellaneous.

The Young Soldier's Promise.

There are no sadder or more trying hours in all the sad and trying hours of motherhood than that when a beloved son goes from his sheltered home to a soldier's untrod life, What exposure before him, and who but God to protect? What hardships, and who but God to sustain? What perils, and who but God to shield and guard? God be with them.
God be with the mother, too, as she gives him up and bids him go forth with her blessing.

Promise me, Charles, said a mother, as she held the hand of her son, just leaving for the camp, and looking entreatingly into his eyes.
A broken promise would weigh me down, mother. But I mean to be a good boy, for your sake, if for no other reason. And he put his arms around the stooping shoulders, and kissed her pale, sunken cheek.

Promise what I ask, my son. The sacredness in which you hold a promise will make it a safeguard to you as I hope and trust for me. It will be one more shield between you and sin; one more restraint. And if a promise broken would weigh you down, a promise kept would give you strength and firmness.

The son grasped tighter the hand that held his own and promised to do what it is strange that any one should ever fail to do—nightly to ask help and blessing from the great and good Father of us all, and daily read His word of love and mercy, and to shun profanity, gambling and vices of camp life.

Bless you, my son? exclaimed the thankful mother. You have given new life to my hope and new strength to my prayer for you.
The next night sees the young soldier in camp. The hour of sleep has come, yet on every hand is heard the laugh, the jest, the light song. The men lie down to sleep as thoughtless as the beasts that perish. Is there not one to pray here? Does no one ask help for his necessities, protection for his unguarded hours? What! no one to supplicate addressing from the bounteous Giver?

No one to plead for forgiveness when so many are overburdened with sin? No one seems to pray. Foolish as needy, the starving soul will not ask for bread; the weak will not ask for help; the impure, the unclean will not ask for cleansing; the sick will not ask for healing. They will suffer, starve, or they will perish forever before they will ask.

Amazing folly! Shall the young soldier pray alone? Why not? Does he not need prayer? Does he not need it more to-night than ever, this first night amid strange, rough scenes, amid strange, rough men—this first night of a new life? What can he do without the help, the blessing he will obtain from prayer?

But he will be laughed at if he prays here.
He will offend his elders by seeming to be better than they. And where can he kneel?
There is no quiet spot—not one. How can he pray here? He hesitates. The thin hand of his mother is again clasped tightly in his own; her tearful eyes are gazing into his; her voice of tenderness is in his ears. The promise made to her at their last parting is on his heart like a new baptism.

The young knees bend—the young head bows before God. Amid the laugh, the jest, the mirth, one prayer ascends.

It is well. Brave, dutiful boy! There was no braver heart in all that company that night.
Do any sneer? Nay, but the laugh sinks lower; the jest ceases around him. He holds audience with God, and those unused to prayer feel better, safer, that there is one among them who holds a link with Heaven.

The praying youth lies down to untroubled sleep. Thank God now for the promise made. Thank God, too, for the anxiety of the mother—for her wise love, her unyielding purpose!

Men always respect prayer, piety, in their hearts; but too often, in their folly, they scoff at sacred things. The first night even the abandoned were hushed, solemnized, as they saw the young stranger kneel among them; but it was not long before he heard the low jeer at his devotions. He heard himself called the "little saint," the "model youth." This was hard to be borne. Rudicule is torturing to the sensitive. It is withering to the young. Can I openly pray on quered the young soldier. Had I not better leave off kneeling before the men? Then came freshly to his mind the promise to his mother, his duty to his God. Were these rude men, almost strangers, more to him than his mother and his God! He prayed as he before. Honor to thee, young hero! Better courage, bravery, hast thou shown than many a conqueror on battle field.

The soldiers in the tent was merry over the intoxicating cup.

Take a drink, Charlie!
No, I never drink.
Come, you better. I'll do you good.
I never drink, he said firmly.
You better learn, then.

No, I never drink and never mean to.
But you must. We won't have you with us unless you do, exclaimed one of them, who was overheated by liquor.

He stepped forward and pressed the cup to the boy's lips. Charlie drew back, interposing his hand.

I will not drink. I promised my mother I would not.

P

particular reasons, the immense stock of fashionable Ready-Made Clothing, SHING GOODS AND CLOTHS, — AT — 13 Dock Square, Cor. Elm St., sold without reserve, previous to Jan. 1, 1865. The departments combined present one of the most opportunities for selecting any garments desired, MADE OR CUSTOM-MADE, to be found in the city. Poetry.

News from the Front.

"Hold there, courier, what news from the front?
Go not so fast on your galloping way!
Have the armies met, has a battle been fought?
Tell us which side has won the day;
And who are living, and who lie low;
We all have friends in the ranks you know."

"The armies met but a few days since,
And a terrible battle has been fought;
We are the victors, thank the Lord!
But the victory, oh, it was dearly bought!
For the ground is littered with Union dead,
And the trampled grass with their blood is red."

"Tell me, courier, say if you can,
How it has fared with my own brave boy?
He was the last of five gallant sons—
His mother's only remaining joy."
Thus spoke a woman wrinkled and gray,
As the courier paused awhile by the way.

"Your boy, good woman? Alas! he is killed;
In the front of the battle I saw him fall;
With his face to the enemy he lay;
Shot through the heart by a rifleman's ball;
But tell me, mother, was your boy's life
More dear than our cause in this deadly strife?"

"Courier, I have already said
He was the child of my later years;
I have given five to my noble cause—
And the Lord will wipe away these tears.
But I yield them with a willing heart."

"Courier," said a young wife then,
"Is my husband living, and is he well?"
My captain, lady, was wounded at first,
Close by my side in the fight he fell;
And asked that this token to you I'd give,
For he knew himself that he could not live."

"O God, he is dead! 'tis my picture this;
I had him wear it on every field
Close to his heart, where I placed it then;
Praying his precious life might shield
And I strove to keep the tears from my eyes
When I gave him to God a sacrifice!"

"And courier, what of Walter Holt?
Pray tell me, if of him you know aught?"
This from the lips of a fair young girl.
"I know how bravely and well he fought,
And I know as well that he lost an arm,
But otherwise he is safe from harm."

"Oh, courier, tell him when you return,
How that of one thing he may be sure—
That I am his whenever he will;
And though he has lost an arm and is poor,
Bid him remember that I have two,
And will prove what a Yankee girl can do!"

Then the courier spurred his foaming steed,
Thinking aloud as he rode away—
"Oh, when will the night of the battle clear,
And show us the dawn of a brighter day,
When these groans of anguish and grief shall cease
In the golden sunrise of perfect peace?"

More Cn.

The march of life should never stay—
All things should onward tend;
Man should not clog progression's way,
But strive to move and mend.

The waters move in depths of ocean,
The streams along the dunes,
And rivulets, with onward motion,
Through sweet and verdant vales,
Move on!

The clouds move gently through the sky,
The earth rolls over on;
Time swiftly in its course runs by,
And years pass one by one.

Man, too, should strive to follow them,
In this onward way,
Permitting naught the tide to stem,
But ever, day by day,
Move on!

Anecdotes.

Suppose you were to see the sun rising in the middle of the night, what would you call that? said a teacher to a plowboy pupil, who he was examining on miracles.

"The moon, please sir."
But suppose you knew it was not the moon but the sun and that you saw it actually rise in the middle of the night what should you think?

"Please, sir, I should think it was time to get up."

A young minister, in a highly elaborate sermon which he preached, said several times: "The commentators do not agree with me here."

Next morning a poor woman came to see him with something in her apron. She said her husband heard his sermon, and thought it was a very fine one; and as he said, the common taters did not agree with him, he had sent him some of his very best kidneys.

Doctor, said an old lady the other day to her family physician, kin you tell me how it is that some folks is born dumb?

Why them!—why certainly, madam? replied the doctor; it's owing to the fact that they came into the world without speech!
La me, remarked the old lady, now just see what it is to have a physic education; I've axed my old man more'n hundred times that ar same thing.

An Irish judge said when addressing a prisoner: You are to be hanged, and I hope it will prove a warning to you.

FOR SALE. FARMING AND Market Gardening Lands IN NEW JERSEY.

THE SUBSCRIBER will sell Tracts of good Land for Farming and Market Gardening, in quantities to suit purchasers, situated in the Counties of Ocean and Burlington, on the line of the Raritan and Delaware Bay Railroad, midway between New York and Philadelphia, at $10 per acre. In addition to all the common products of a farm, these lands are valuable for growing cranberries, sweet potatoes, peaches, grapes, tobacco and hops. All crops ripen ten days earlier than on Long Island. Spoken man is delivered at any point on the railroad at one dollar and fifty cents per ton, and fertilizes the land for seven years after its application. The lands are mostly covered with yellow pine timber, suitable for lumber and cord wood. A portion of the timber has been recently cut off, leaving the land ready for immediate cultivation.

Price of cedar rails, $5 per 100. Cord wood, at any railroad station, $3 per cord. A portion of the land contain a large quantity of the best potter's clay yet discovered, for the manufacture of yellow ware. Sawmill within one mile of Shannock Station. A good hotel at Shannock, on the lands offered for sale.

The location is very healthy and water excellent. Lands well watered with unfailing streams, and supplied with good mill-sites and water-power for manufacturing purposes. The whole purchase money may remain on mortgage for a term of years if desired, if the purchaser cultivates the land.

For further particulars apply to F. B. CHETWOOD, Elizabeth, N. J. WM. O. GILES, 70 & 72 Franklin St., Nov. 5—6m. New York.

Dr. S. O. RICHARDSON'S BLOOD-ROOT ELIXIR

Has been thoroughly tested and proved in his medical practice, for a period of THIRTY YEARS, and is now presented to the public as an effectual cure for

COSTIVENESS, And the Best Remedy ever prepared for Diseases of the Liver, SCROFULA, All Humors and Impurities of the Blood and Diseases of the Skin.

The preparing and combining the BLOOD-ROOT ELIXIR is attended with results to medical science next in importance to inhalation of ether in surgery. Ruptures and tumors, which are painful and disagreeable, are by a new and scientific process of extracting (in vacuo) rendered MORE EFFECTIVE IN THEIR OPERATION, entirely directed to the gripping and distressing pain which attends the action of all other purgative medicine.—They are also made to become highly

PLEASANT AND AGREEABLE TO THE TASTE, and by their peculiar combination, work so perfectly in HARMONY WITH NATURE that no unpleasant reaction will follow its operation. It is

A DIFFUSIVE AND ALTERNATIVE EFFECT, which can only be obtained by medicine in a fluid state. These are new elements in purgative medicines.

The BLOOD-ROOT ELIXIR has no partial action upon the bowels, but is equally diffused there, and throughout the whole circulation of the Blood, imparting a healthy and purgative action to the STOMACH and BOWELS, LIVER, LUNGS, KIDNEYS, and gently stimulating dormant and morbid secretions throughout the whole system.

A single dose will produce a cheerful and exhilarating COMFORT, which will inspire the patient with confidence, and assurance of IMMEDIATE RELIEF. A continuance for a short period will DRIVE the obscure and hidden humors to the surface of the skin, and relieve or check SCROFULOUS AFFECTIONS—and by thus purifying and strengthening the Blood, will remove the most fruitful

CAUSE OF CONSUMPTION. It incites the various organs of the system to act their allotted part, removing the causes which induce RHEUMATISM and NEURALGIA, HEADACHE, LOSS OF APPETITE, DYSPEPSIA, COSTIVENESS, and the various diseases which arise from a derangement of the Stomach and Bowels, and restricted circulation of the Blood.

See the pamphlet around each bottle for a history of the ELIXIR.

The proprietor of the BLOOD-ROOT ELIXIR, (Dr. S. O. Richardson) has been long and favorably known to the public by his celebrated SHERRY WINE BITTERS, the best tonic and tonic ever discovered, and which has been in use over thirty years. He is a graduate of the New Hampshire Medical College, and many years a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society—and has made the study of medicine his profession since 1820.

And so fully convinced is the Doctor of the wonderful curative effects of his BLOOD-ROOT ELIXIR that he freely offers to each and every person who will use ONE HALF OF A BOTTLE of his ELIXIR, and not be conscious of a good effect therefrom, to refund to said person the FULL amount which he paid for the same, by returning the unopened bottle to his office.

Price $1.50 per Bottle. Sold in Quincy by MRS. E. HAYDEN, and by dealers in medicine generally, and at the DOCTOR'S OFFICE, 51 Hanover Street, Boston. Oct. 8.

STURGIS' ELECTRIC COMPOUND, An Effectual External Remedy for

NEURALGIA RHEUMATISM.

ALSO, INVALUABLE FOR Spinal Irritation, Ague in the Face, Toothache, Pain in the Side, Back, and Limbs, Ear, Ague, &c.

Among the Advantages of this Medicine are the following:

It is external in its application, and the patient runs no risk in using it. It does not strike to the stomach.

It reaches the nerves and muscles, as it is believed no other medicine does.

It has cured some of the most violent and obstinate cases of Neuralgia ever known.

It can be used on a child or an aged person alike.

While it is very powerful, it is perfectly harmless.

The proprietor has been allowed to publish the names of many persons who have used the COMPOUND with the most beneficial results. He inserts a few of them. They are among the most respectable citizens of Boston and other places, and their residences and places of business are given.

REV. N. MURKOE, late of Boston Recorder. JOSEPH H. ALLEN, 119 Washington St., house 55 Railroad St.

N. P. KEMP, Tract Society, 40 Cornhill. ADDRESS: BOYDEN, 408 Washington Street, Boston, firm of Haley, Morse & Boyden. WILLIAM H. BLENSTER, Publisher of Boston Traveller.

The following letter from one of our best citizens, will speak for itself.

Rev. JOSEPH E. BARRY, the children's missionary of Boston, was the recipient a few weeks since of a bottle of Sturgis' Electric Compound, for Neuralgia, Rheumatism, &c., and having experienced great benefit from its use, and having known of many severe cases of the above complaints where it produced cures, considers it his duty to make known to his friends and others being so unfortunate as to be troubled with these terrible complaints, the virtue of this preparation.

JOSEPH E. BARRY. Boston, Sept. 15, 1863.

REMARKABLE CURE OF NEURALGIA.—The following letter, (unpublished), was received by the proprietor in May last.

Dear Sir: I have been for some weeks suffering under a severe attack of Neuralgia, the severity of which has caused me to be in "perfect agony" both night and day. Having heard of Sturgis' Electric Compound from a "companion in arms," I was induced to give it a trial, which had the happy effect to immediately cure me. I am surprised that surgeons do not have it in their arms, as there is a constant demand for such an invaluable relief. I make this statement for the public good, and I have no scruples about your using this as a recommendation to other victims of this painful disorder.

Yours, respectfully, JOSEPH HOUGHTON, Co. D, 43d Reg't Mass. Vol's. FOR SALE BY Mrs. E. HAYDEN, and all Medicine Dealers. OFFICE, 119 Washington St., Boston. Quincy, Sept. 24.

Dr. Harrison's Chalybeate Tonic, Or Ironized Catawba Wine,

FOR General Debility, habitual constipation, Consumptive tendencies, low spirits and all symptoms arising from a low state of the blood. For sale by

THE GREAT Humor Remedy, HOWARD'S VEGETABLE Canker and Cancer Syrup.

Has been to lay the Axe to the Roots of the Great Blighting UPAS-TREE OF HUMANITY, WHOSE FRUITS ARE DEATH!

The CANKER AND CANCER SYRUP has the most extraordinary cleansing action on the BLOOD, which it PURIFIES AT ITS SOURCE; and though it penetrates every organ of the Body, restoring injured Tissues, arresting the Progress of Decay, and stimulating to healthy action the Digestive, Nutritive and Circulating Organs. As nearly all DISEASES have their ORIGIN in the BLOOD its fountainhead, it is

CLEANSED AT ITS SOURCE! This sine qua non is infallibly secured by HOWARD'S SYRUP, which has

Redeemed Thousands of Victims FROM PREMATURE GRAVES!

THE SYRUP is the most efficacious Remedy known for that dreadful Scourge of our Race, CANCER in its many forms, however obstinate—completely banishing the TORTURING KNAVE. The worst cases, given over by Physicians, have yielded to it.

CANCER, it cures in its worst forms in young and old.

SCROFULA, hereditary, or recent, it completely eradicates, leaving the system without taint.

ERYSIPELAS of the worst kind soon loses its virulent character. The Syrup is an untailing remedy.

TUMORS need not be removed by the knife; the Syrup disperses them permanently.

WHITE SWELLINGS are acted on by the Syrup without the Blood. Many limbs have been saved by it.

ULCERS, however old or malignant, are healed by the Syrup without the usual danger of stopping Running Sores.

NEURALGIA finds in the Syrup a Specific. RICKETS, a Children's scourge, it completely eradicates, and saves years of misery, even preventing consumption. In short it is the only safe and certain remedy known for THE CURE OF EVERY KIND OF HUMOR! and is so potent that mothers nursing may keep their own and their infants' blood pure by its use. All suffering from Nervous Complaints, Impotent Consumption, Palpitations and General Debility will find it give them RENEWED HEALTH and vigor.

FOR SKIN DISEASES—it is especially suited, as it soon eradicates all Blotches, Pimples, &c., and imparts the Brilliance of Health to the Complexion.

MRS. E. HAYDEN

Hope for the Sufferers!

LET NONE DESPAIR,

For DAILY and almost HOURLY cures are

Reported, in which the effect of

THE GREAT

Humor Remedy,

HOWARD'S

VEGETABLE

Canker and Cancer Syrup,

Has been to lay the Axe to the Roots of the

Great Blighting

UPAS-TREE OF HUMANITY,

WHOSE FRUITS ARE DEATH!

The CANKER AND CANCER SYRUP

has the most extraordinary cleansing action on

the BLOOD, which it PURIFIES AT ITS

SOURCE; and though it penetrates every organ of the Body, it does not irritate, but restores the Progress of Nature, and stimulates

to healthy action the Digestive, Nutritive and

Circulating Organs. As nearly all

DISEASES have their ORIGIN IN THE BLOOD

its purification should be

CLEANSED AT ITS SOURCE!

This can now be accomplished by HOW-

ARD'S SYRUP, which has

Redeemed Thousands of Victims

FROM PREMATURE GRAVES!

THE SYRUP is the most efficacious Remedy

known for that dreadful scourge of our Race,

CANCER in its many forms, however obsti-

nately completely banishing the TORTURING

KNIFE. The knife, however, given over by Physicians, have yielded to it.

CANCER, in its worst forms in

young and old.

SCROFULA, hereditary, or recent, it completely eradicates, leaving the system without trace.

SALT RHEUM in its many aspects, can-

not withstand its virtues, as thousands testify.

ERYSIPELAS of the worst kind soon

loses its virulent character. The Syrup is an antidote.

TUMORS need not be removed by the knife;

the Syrup will remove them.

WHITE SWELLINGS are cured on by the Syrup through the Blood. Many limbs have

been saved by it.

CLAPERS, however old or indignant, are

healed by the Syrup without the usual danger of stopping Running Notes.

KINGS' EVIL finds in the Syrup a Specific.

NEURALGIA, however distressing, has been cured by it when all other remedies have

failed.

JAUNDICE is cured by the action of the

Syrup on the Liver and Bile Ducts, and DYS-

PEPSIA caused by vitiated or insufficient Bile

is removed.

FEMALE WEAKNESSES—in removes

with ease and certainty, and taken regularly, it

promotes the healthy periodical secretion.

RICKETS, a child's disease, is completely eradicated, and saves years of misery,

even preventing consumption. In short it is the only safe and certain remedy known for THE

CURE OF

EVERY KIND OF HUMOR!

It is so potent that mothers nursing may

keep their own and their infants' blood pure by

its use. All suffering from Nervous Complaints,

Insipient Consumption, Pulmonary and General

Debility will find it give them RENEWED

HEALTH AND VIGOR.

FOR SKIN DISEASES—it is especially suitable, as it soon eradicates all Blisters, Pimples, &c., and imparts the Brilliance of Health

to the Complexion.

* * * Where irritation of the Lungs and Coughs attend the diseases named, the essential and soothing effect of the Syrup ensures relief and restores

and strengthens the system.

No case of failure of the SYRUP has ever been

known where its use has been persevered in.

It might be easy to enter into a series of scientific theories. We prefer to lay a plain story of facts

before the sufferers who seek relief, therefore we

now offer this

Simple Vegetable Compound

which cannot harm and certainly cures.

Seasonable Words.

A gentle to the little child,

In kindly accents given,

Lest we with angry words should blight

The lily buds of heaven.

A loving to the bright-haired boy,

Upon whose sunny face

A brave and noble beauty sets

Its purest seal of grace.

A tender to the blue-eyed bride,

Who from the mother nest

Flies to a dream land of a love,

Warm fluttering at her breast.

A patient to the wayward youth:

The barque by tempests tossed

Oft comes to harbor, while the ship

Lies tempest-ried to rest.

A cheery for the white-haired man;

The frost upon his brow

May hide as warm a heart as thine,

Though winter crowns it now.

A timely to the wearied soul,

Beneath life's noontide sun;

That fainting sinks upon its way

Ere yet the fight be won.

Good words, true words, good deeds, kind deeds,

Oh! 'tis a glorious part

To shed upon our fellow-men

The sunshine of the heart.

Then, though the chain that binds us here

By death awhile be given,

Its golden links shall join again,

God-blessed in heaven.

Seraps.

One Jones, who had been sent to prison for marrying two wives, attempted to justify himself by saying that when he had one, she fought him; but when he had two they fought each other.

A good deal of the consolation offered in the world is about as consoling as the assurance of the man to his wife when she fell in to the river. "You'll find ground at the bottom, my dear."

Quiet happiness is the sweetest, as quiet waters are the deepest.

Those men who are of the noblest dispositions think themselves the happiest when others share their happiness with them.

In the reign of James I., when a person was invited out to dinner he took his own knife with him, and on entering the house of his host, found a whistle behind the door, on which to sharpen it.

The dove was the first newspaper carrier, when one morning it went and fetched a leaf for Noah. It contained a paragraph on the weather, notifying him that the heavy rain storm was at an end.

There are no people in the world with whom eloquence is so perfect a gift as with the Irish. When Lench Ritchie was traveling in Ireland he passed a man who was a painful spectacle of pallor, squallor and regreance. His heart smote him and he turned back.

Unless one can cure men of being fools, it is to no purpose to cure them of any folly, as it is only making room for some other.

Never flirt with a young widow who calls you by your Christian name ly-five or thirty feet beyond where it struck. As he was picked up, in a mangled condition, some one asked him, "Why didn't you put on the brake?" "Put on the brake," said he, "vy, it ish break all to pieces!" And this was the end of that ride.

THE QUINCY PATRIOT.

Saturday, December 10th, 1864.

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are we."

QUINCY RAILROAD. Never was the Quincy Horse Railroad in better running order, we believe, than at the present time. Particular attention has been given to leveling the dirt and repairing the track along the entire route. The cars, also, for comfort and pleasure, are in excellent trim. A part of one of the seats has been removed and the stove arranged very neatly on one side, making it much more convenient than in former seasons.

STILL THEY GO. We learn that another of our prominent citizens is about to leave us. Mr. Joseph G. Brackett, for many years one of the principal lumber dealers in this town, is to sail on Tuesday next, in company with Mr. Thompson Barker, for California. May his pleasant countenance carry with him an abundance of good success.

WINTER. We have had a touch of it for a few days past; the thermometer was a number of degrees below the freezing point, and ice made pretty freely on Thursday and Friday. It has approached gradually, but not the less sure.

PROMOTION. Among the commissions issued last week, we find the name of our gallant townsman, Second Lieutenant Daniel F. French, to be promoted to First Lieutenant in the 56th regiment.

ATTEMPT TO BURN A SCHOOL HOUSE. Monday evening, about nine o'clock, a fire was discovered in the cellar of the North District school house, in Milton. The fire had been kindled in a barrel of shavings in the cellar, which communicated with the building. Fortunately it was discovered before it had made much headway, and the building was saved from destruction. No doubt it was the work of an incendiary.

ARTICLE FOR THE TOILET. Since Mr. Packard has vacated the office as superintendent of this department, Mr. Joseph W. Lombard has assumed its duties. He has purchased the recipe for the manufacture of that indispensable article of the toilet, Eau de Cologne, which is pronounced by those who have used it, equal in every respect to the imported. Recollet, No. 90, Hancock street, is now the purveyor of fashion, for the sale of all articles of the toilet and fashionable made clothing.

CHRISTMAS FESTIVAL. We are happy to learn that some of our patriotic ladies are preparing for a Soldier's Levee in the Town Hall, Monday afternoon and evening, Dec. 26. Vocal and instrumental music, a Post Office, a Paper, an Express Office, Tables of Fancy Articles for Holiday gifts and a Supper with other attractions are on the programme. With the generous co-operation of all, we doubt not that the festival will be a success. Contributions of articles or money may be left at the store of J. O. Holden, and will be gratefully acknowledged.

CHIEF JUSTICE CHASE. The President has appointed to the highest office in the nation Salmon P. Chase, the late Secretary of the Treasury. The Senate, contrary to its custom, immediately confirmed the appointment waiving the usual formality of a reference. Mr. Chase is a man of unquestioned ability, and, we believe, of high personal character, a gentleman in his manners, and a person of considerable culture and wide information. His professional rank was very high when he was at the bar, and with his abilities he will easily perform his duties in an acceptable manner.

PREPARING FOR THE DRAFT. Newburyport is taking time by the forelock in the matter of providing for the next draft. The city government has appropriated $125 each for 125 recruits, and the citizens are going to make up enough to allow to each recruit a bounty of $200.

KEROSENE OIL. A superior article may be had at N. B. Fernald's, new household warehouse, corner of Coddington and Washington streets. Also, the most improved burners of every description. Mr. F. has paid particular attention to this branch of his business, and the public has been benefited thereby. While paying our address to this establishment, we would call attention to the large assortment of household furniture, embracing almost every description, where families, and those about to commence housekeeping, may furnish themselves with all the details in the line, and on the most reasonable terms. Here also, you may get your furniture newly dressed—gilding, varnishing and repairing promptly attended to.

Boston Correspondence.

Boston, Dec. 8, 1864.

The President's Message appeared in our morning papers of yesterday. It is not of great length, and will be eagerly read by millions of our countrymen. He commences by saying, "again the blessings of health and an abundant harvest claim our profoundest gratitude to Almighty God." He says the condition of our foreign affairs is reasonably satisfactory. The Boston Post says of the Message, it is simply and in the main clearly written, and there are portions of it that will be read with gratification by all. Our foreign relations are presented in a terse manner, and shows our country to be on friendly terms with all nations. The comments of the press generally, that we have seen, speak in very favorable terms of the message. He makes no mention of tax on real estate, but concurs with the Report of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, who expresses the opinion that the present year's revenue, including the additional tax, will be at least $265,000,000, and that it is desirable to increase this tax to $300,000,000 by a tax on sales of one-half of one per cent, to make up the deficiency, to be imposed for one year only; as after that, the present tax will yield that amount. The President urges the adoption of the proposed amendment of the Constitution of the last session of Congress, abolishing slavery throughout the United States. Quite a portion of the message is devoted to the subject of slavery, the President adhering, as was expected, to the basis of a fixed emancipation policy. He says, "In preventing the abandonment of arms to the national authority on the part of the insurgents as the only indispensable condition to ending the war on the part of government, I retract nothing heretofore said. As to slavery, I repeat the declaration made a year ago; and, that while I remain in my present position, I shall not attempt to retract or modify the emancipation proclamation, nor shall I return to slavery any person who is free by the acts of Congress. If the people should by whatever mode or means make it an Executive duty to re-enslave such persons, another, not I, must be their instrument to propose it. In stating a single condition of peace, I mean simply to say that the war will cease on the part of the government whenever it shall have ceased on the part of those who began it." This important document was received with applause in the House, more especially the concluding parts.

The President in his views has spoken nobly and well. The administration will be strengthened by his decided policy, and the sovereign people will triumphantly sustain him in the only condition of peace with the rebels, the complete emancipation of slavery throughout the country. The Report of the Secretary of the Treasury, suggests many good things; recommending additional legislation on certain financial statutes of doubtful construction; that the income tax should be collected from all, without exemption, and that measures be taken to prevent too expanded a circulation of paper issues. The public debt at the close of the year is estimated at $2,645,320,182. The Report of the Post Master General shows a small deficiency of receipts from expenditures the past year of about $300,000. Mr. Wells's Report as Secretary of the Navy will be read with much interest. It is an exceedingly good one, and represents the navy, our strong arm of defence, as rapidly increasing in efficiency.

THE NEW FRACTIONAL CURRENCY. The plates of the new fifty cent fractional currency are nearly ready for printing. These notes will be of the same breadth as those in circulation, but nearly twice as long. The new five cent notes will be of the same size as the old ones, while the ten and twenty-five cent notes will be of lengths graduated between the highest and lowest denominations. It is probable that a three cent note will be issued for greater facility in making change.

COTTON. The latest Liverpool papers say that there are now on the way from the East Indies to England, forty-seven vessels with cargoes of cotton, ranging from eighteen hundred to seven thousand bales each, or an aggregate amount of not less than two hundred and twenty-two thousand eight hundred and sixty-four bales.

GLEASON'S LITERARY COMPANION. Reading for the million. At this season of the year, when the thoughtful and reflecting are looking around in search of an interesting companion to entertain them in our long winter evenings, we esteem it a favor to direct their attention to this deservedly popular sheet. The Companion, by the able manner in which it has been conducted, has met with a success, flattering in the extreme, and now has its admirers in nearly every village and hamlet throughout the Union. Its literary character, eminently fits it as an interesting companion, for either the parlor or workshop.

PACIFIC RAILROAD. The construction of this road west of Omaha, Nebraska, is progressing rapidly. For a distance of 500 miles there will not be a cut or a fill of five feet.

THE "OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC," by R. B. Thomas, and edited by Charles L. Flint. We have received from the publishers, Brewer & Tilton, Boston, a copy of this work for 1865. Thomas's Almanac is known the country over, as a truthful guide pertaining to such intelligence, and a faithful monitor in matters of agricultural and horticultural interest.

NEWSPAPERS OF LONDON. The issues of the London daily papers together, amount to 248,000 sheets daily; of all the weeklies together, 2,253,000.

For the Patriot.

Adams Literary Association.

This Association which has now become one of the "Institutions" of the good old town of Quincy, has resumed its weekly meetings, and the debate at its first meeting shows that the members did not waste their time in idleness during the summer vacation. The question debated at the last meeting was "Is there a reasonable probability that the war will end with the present campaign?" The discussion was opened by Mr. Hardwick, and maintained with great spirit by Messrs. L. S. Richards, Charles Marsh, George Cahill, Geo. Randall and others, and was laid on the table for future debate.

The question for next Monday evening is "Can the wrongs of Ireland be justly attributed to England?" This is an interesting question, and one that admits of considerable discussion on both sides.

Perhaps it is not generally known that the public are invited to attend these useful meetings and to participate in the debates, but such is a standing rule of the Association, and if the readers of the Patriot would attend sometimes at their debates, I am sure they would be as much pleased as

A SPECTATOR.

DEATH OF MR. JOSHUA VEAZIE. Mr. Veazie had enjoyed his usual good health, until a few days of his decease, but died suddenly at his residence on Granite street, on Sunday night last, of congestion of the brain.

LIFE IN CHARLESTON. From a returned school teacher, who has been sojourning in that ill-fated city during the war, we learn that, notwithstanding the destruction of life and property by the bombardment, business progresses the same as usual. Although the seminary over which he presided, was located in the heart of the city, surrounded with danger, the messengers of death often passing over it, still there was no signs of alarm, the course of duties never being interrupted.

THE OLD SUFFOLK BANK has surrendered its State charter and has voted to organize as a national bank. It has been in operation almost half a century, and during this time thirteen hundred and fifty million dollars have passed through the hands of the cashier. The only defalcations known in this bank, were those of Brewer and Rand, ten years since, to the amount of about a quarter of a million of dollars.

A HEAVY BILL. A merchant of Bangor, (Me.) paid the Grand Trunk railway Company $10,365 freight on flour and grain received from the West week before last. Quite a heavy bill for one week's receipt.

A LARGE CAKE. A confectioner in New York city got up a Thanksgiving cake for the Ladies' Home Mission, which was ten feet long, 22 inches wide and 16 inches thick. To make it, it took 1,000 eggs, 175 lbs. of flour, 125 lbs. of sugar and 80 lbs. of butter.

EELS. While filling the reservoir of the Charlestown Mass., water works, a few days since, the pumps would not operate, and an examination proved that the pipe was completely filled with eels. The next day the trouble occurred again, and on the two occasions over 2,500 pounds of eels were removed.

A $50,000 MUSKRAT. The late breach in the Erie Canal, near Rochester, which summarily closed the canal for the season and inflicted a damage of some $50,000 on the State is thought to have been caused by a muskrat. The canal runs through a swamp at that place, and the theory is that his muskratish bored the bank and let out a small stream, the water gradually enlarging the hole until the bank gave way, when the rush of water set in. This shows that little things—even muskrats—are not to be despised.

Sabbath School Association of Milton, Dorchester and Quincy, will hold a public meeting in Rev. Mr. Thwing's Church, next Tuesday evening, at 7 o'clock. The public are invited.

DOLLAR MONTHLY. This is another of our cheap monthlies, in whose praise too much cannot be said. The publishers has marked out a course for it, which has made it a favorite with a particular class of magazine readers. Its articles are usually of a solid order; many of them of sterling merit, on subjects which cannot fail to amuse and instruct.

Elliott, Thomas & Talbot, 118 Washington street, Boston, are the publishers.

Marriages.

In this town, Dec. 2, by Rev. W. J. Hamilton, Mr. Frederic Coolidge, of Weymouth, to Mrs. Rachel P. Coolidge, of Quincy.

Deaths.

In this town, on the 4th inst., Mr. Joshua Veazie, aged 64 years and 11 months. In Boston, Mrs. Catherine W. wife of Mr. George Whitcher, formerly of this town, aged 35 years.

Summary of Intelligence.

ORIGINAL AND SELECTED.

At Rouen, France a floating iron warehouse has recently been launched. The structure is intended to contain explosive substances or articles liable to take fire spontaneously.

Ragmen are with the army of the Potomac buying up and gathering woolen and cotton rags wherever they can find them, and paying for the rags as high as eighteen cents per pound.

The largest boat ever designed for Western waters is now building at Jeffersonville, Ind. She is 312 feet long, 40 feet beam, and 9 1/2 feet depth of hold. She carries 2,000 tons.

The daily consumption of water in the city of Boston averages a hoghead and a half for each individual.

They tell of a New York regiment, which during their three years service, travelled by sea and land more than 12,000 miles fought twenty general engagements, marched through fifteen States and had been under Burnside, Pope, McClellan, McDowell, Meade Sherman and Grant.

At the rebel capital wood is selling at $100 per cord. It has been difficult to procure fuel at this price, and one day recently three women were brought before the Richmond Police Court, who were accused with having dismantled the house in which they lived for fuel, burning doors, shutters and window blinds.

Benjamin Shurtleff, Esq. of North Chelsea has had a yield this year of enormous white turnips—some of which weigh twenty-three pounds.

During the three past months 1068 patents have been issued. Pretty lively for war times. We wish somebody would patent a Union-saving machine.

The vintage in Spain this year, like those of France and Germany, is unusually fine, and the wine is expected to be equal to that of 1858.

The Mayress of Bassenstrook, England having given birth to a son, the citizens presented her with a silver cradle worth $50,000.

Five hundred tons of shells and cannon balls have been taken out of the water in Frederick harbor Denmark and a large quantity yet remain.

Recruiting is again very brisk in New York. Volunteers are numerous.

It is claimed in Paris that eleven million dollars worth of silks have been exported to this country the last year.

The new Hadley Company of Holyoke is now turning out an excellent spool cotton at the rate of between 2000 and 3000 dozen spools daily.

The new Atlantic cable will cost three and a half millions of dollars.

The rebel debt is $1,147,970,208, without including foreign and army debts.

The government collects, on every three and a half dollars' worth of friction matches, about fourteen and a half dollars in stamps. In other words, the tax is about four times as much as the article is worth.

David J. Folger, Company M, Second Massachusetts Cavalry, formerly a resident of Fall River writes from Annapolis: "I have just returned from the South, having been a prisoner of war for the last nine months, and out of twenty-two of my company, captured with me, I am the only one living."

Steamer Bay State, the pioneer of the New York and Fall River line has been condemned, and will be broken up. She is 17 years old.

It is said that 15,000 of the rebel prisoners at Rock Island have been enlisted in the United States Army.

The total amount of fractional currency in circulation is twenty-four millions of dollars.

General Grant is understood to favor such modification of the existing law and custom as will abolish the entire system of paying bounties to or for soldiers.

LADIES' AID ASSOCIATION. All friends of the U. S. Sanitary Commission, both ladies and gentlemen, are invited to meet at the house of Mrs. Wm. F. Whitney, on Wednesday, Dec. 14th, at 7 1/2 o'clock, P. M., to devise plans for replenishing the treasury of the Association. Let there be a good attendance. Per order.

FROST.

The Frost looked forth one still clear night,
And he said, "Now I shall be out of sight,
So through the valley and over the height
In silence I'll take my way;
I will not go on like that blustering train,
The wind and the snow, the hail and the rain,
Who make so much noise and noise in vain,
But I'll be as busy as they!"

Then he went to the mountain, and powdered its crest,
He climbed up the trees, and their boughs he dressed

With diamonds and pearls, and over the breast
Of the quivering lake, he spread
A coat of mail, that it need not fear
The downward point of many a spear,
That hung on its margin far and near;
Where a rock could rear its head,

He went to the windows of those who slept,
And over each pane like a fairy crept;
Wherever he breathed, wherever he stepped,
By the light of the moon were seen Most beautiful things. There were flowers and trees,

There were bowers of birds, and swarms of bees,
There were cities, thrones, temples and towers, and these
All pictured in silver sheen!

But he did one thing that was hardly fair,
He went to the cupboard, and finding there
That all had forgotten him to prepare,
"Now just to set them a thinking, I'll bite this basket of fruit," said he;
"This blasted pitcher I'll burst in three!
And the glass of water they've left for me Shall 'tchuck' to tell them I'm drinking!"

The Contrast.

We sit at home, nor feel that they
Who fight upon the distant plain
Are falling faster day by day,
A harvest of the slain.

We lightly walk the busy street,
Where trade and gain roll swiftly on;
They march a battle-line to greet,
And die as it is won.

The trumpet calls them in the night
To die for Freedom; and the boom
Of cannon from the fortress height
Still calls them to their doom.

Unmoved we read of how they fell,
To shield the starry flag from shame;
Dareless through storms of shot and shell,
In the red battle's flame.

Brave hearts are beating for us there,
And the battle's feverish breath;
This hour what soldier's hurried prayer
Is said for you in death.

They lie upon the lonely hill
Or blackened plain in dreamless sleep,
Their rest eternal! Never will They wake, like us, to weep.

We rise each day to weary toil
And hourly strife. Their work is done!
Their blood will consecrate the soil
Their lives so nobly won.

The Widow and Child.

Home they brought her warrior dead;
She nor swooned, nor uttered cry;
All her maiden watching, said,
"She must weep or she will die."

Then they praised him, soft and low,
Called him worthy to be loved,
Traced friend and noblest foe;
Yet she neither spoke nor moved.

Stole a maiden from her place,
Lightly to the warrior slept,
Took a face cloth from his face;
Yet she neither moved nor wept.

Rose a nurse of ninety years,
Set his child upon her knee—
Like summer tempest came her tears—
"Sweet my child I live for thee."

Anecdotes.

In spite of the contempt which Dr. Johnson professed to entertain for actors, he treated Mrs. Siddons with great politeness; and when she called on him, and his servant could not immediately provide her with a chair, he said:

"You see, madam, wherever you go there are no seats to be got."

The Growler says: The Government may tax our matches, but we challenge the world to match our taxes.

But what's the use of growling? all we've got to do is to tax our enemies and pay 'em.

A distinguished actress was lately introduced to a lawyer in New Orleans, who was not at all backward in sounding his own praise.

He is a very smart man, an acquaintance remarked soon afterwards.

I know it, she replied; he told me so himself.

Very poor milk this, observed a wife to her lord one evening.

Yes my dear, it is like your tea.
How is that?
Too much water in it?

Hope for the Sufferers!

LET NONE DESPAIR,
For DAILY and almost HOURLY cases are Reported, in which the effect of

THE GREAT

Humor Remedy,

HOWARD'S

VEGETABLE

Canker and Cancer Syrup,

Has been to lay the Axe to the Roots of the
Great Blighting

UPAS-TREE OF HUMANITY,

WHOSE FRUITS ARE DEATH!

The CANKER AND CANCER SYRUP
has the most extraordinary clearing action on
the BLOOD, which it PURIFIES AT ITS SOURCE; and through it penetrates every organ of the Body, repairing injured Tissues, arresting the Progress of Decay, and stimulating
to healthy action the Digestive, Nutritive and Circulating Organs. As nearly all

DISEASES have their ORIGIN in the BLOOD
its fountain should be

CLEANSED AT ITS SOURCE!
This sine qua non is infallibly secured by HOW-
ARD'S SYRUP, which has

Redeemed Thousands of Victims

FROM PREMATURE GRAVES!
THE SYRUP is the most efficacious Remedy
known for that dreadful Source of our Race,

CANCER in its many forms, however obsti-
nate—completely banishing the TORTURING
KNIFE. The worst cases, given over by Physicians, have yielded to it.

CANCER, it cures in its worst forms in
young and old.

SCROFULA, hereditary, or recent, it completely eradicates, leaving the system without taint.

SALT RHEUM in its many aspects, can-
not withstand its virtues, as thousands testify.

ERYSIPELAS of the worst kind, soon
loses its virulent character. The Syrup is an unfailing remedy.

TUMORS need not be removed by the knife;
the Syrup dissolves them, and kind soon loses its virulent character. The Syrup is an unfailing remedy.

WHITE SWELLINGS are acted on by the Syrup through the Blood. Many limbs have been saved by it.

ULCERS, however old or malignant, are
healed by the Syrup without the usual danger of
stopping Running Sores.

KING'S EVIL finds in the Syrup a Specific.
NEURALGIA, however distressing, has been cured by it when all other remedies have failed.

JAUNDICE is cured by the action of the Syrup on the Liver and Bile Ducts, and DY-SPESIA caused by vitiated or insufficient Bile
is removed.

FEMALE WEAKNESSES—it removes
with ease and certainty, and taken regularly, it
promotes the healthy periodical secretion.

RICKETS, a Children's disease, it completely eradicates, and saves years of misery,
even preventing consumption. In short it is the only safe and certain remedy known for THE
CURE OF

EVERY KIND OF HUMOR!

and is so permeating that mothers nursing may keep their own and their infants' blood pure by its use. All suffering from Nervous Complaints, Insipid Consumption, Palpitations and General
Debility will find it give them RESUR-RECTION and VIGOR.

FOR SKIN DISEASES—it is especially suited, as it soon eradicates all Blemishes, Pimples, &c., and imparts the Brilliance of Health
to the Complexion.

Where irritation of the Lungs and Coughs
attend the diseases named, the expectant and soothing effect of the Syrup ensures relief and repair,
and strengthens the system.

No case of failure of the SYRUP has ever been
known where its use has been persevered in.

It might be easy to enter into learned scientific
theories. We prefer to lay a plain story of facts
before the sufferers who seek relief, therefore we
now offer this

Simple Vegetable Compound
which cannot harm and certainly cures.

FARMING

AND

Market Gardening Lands

IN

NEW JERSEY.

THE SUBSCRIBERS will sell Tracts of
good Land for Farming and Market Gardening, in quantities to suit purchasers, situated in the Counties of Ocean and Burlington,
on the line of the Raritan and Delaware Bay
Railroad, midway between New York and Philadelphia, at $10 per acre. In addition to all the common products of a farm, these lands
are valuable for growing cranberries, sweet
potatoes, peaches, grapes, tobacco and hops.
All crops ripen ten days earlier than on Long Island. Spunkum mari is delivered at any point on the railroad at one dollar and fifty cents per ton, and fertilizes the land for seven years after its application. The lands are mostly covered with yellow pine timber, suitable for lumber and cord wood. A portion of the timber has been recently cut off, leaving
the land ready for immediate cultivation.—
Price of cedar rails, $5 per 100. Cord wood,
at any railroad station, $3 per cord. A portion of the land contain a large quantity of the best potter's clay yet discovered, for the manufacture of yellow ware. Saw-mill within one mile of Shannong Station. A good hotel at Shannong, on the lands offered for sale.—
The location is very healthy and water excellent. Lands well watered with unfailing streams, and supplied with good mill-sites and water-power for manufacturing purposes. The whole purchase money may remain on mortgage for a term of years if desired, if the purchaser cultivates the land.

DR. S. O. RICHARDSON'S

BLOOD-ROOT ELIXIR

Has been thoroughly tested and proved in his medical practice, for a period of THIRTY YEARS, to be a most powerful and safe remedy
to the public as an effective cure for

COSTIVENESS,

And the Best Remedy ever prepared for Diseases of the Liver,

SCROFULA,

All Humors and Impurities of the Blood and Diseases of the Skin.

The preparing and combining the BLOOD-
ROOT ELIXIR is attended with results to medical science not less important to inhalation of ether in surgery. Roots and plants, in themselves pungent and disagreeable, are by a new and scientific process of extracting (by vacuum), condensed, MORE EFFECTIVE IN THEIR OPERATION, entirely devoid of the griping
and distressing pain which attends the action of all other purgative medicines.—They are also made to become highly

PLEASANT AND AGREEABLE
TO THE TASTE,

and by their peculiar combination, work so perfectly in HARMONY WITH NATURE that no
unpleasant reaction will follow its operation.
It also possesses

A DIFFUSIVE AND ALTERNATIVE
EFFECT,

which can only be obtained by medicine in a fluid medium. There are new elements in purgative medicines.

The BLOOD-ROOT ELIXIR has no partial action upon any one organ, equally diffused there, and throughout the whole circulation of the Blood, imparting a healthy and invigorating action

Poetry.

Good Night and Good Morning.

A fair little girl sat under a tree,
Sewing as long as her eyes could see;
Then smoothed her work and folded it right,
And said: "Dear work, good night good night!"

Such a number of rooks came over her head,
Crying, "Caw! Caw!" on their way to bed,
Said she as she watched their curious flight,
"Little black things, good night! good night!"

The horses neighed, and the oxen lowed;
The sheep's "bleat! bleat!" came over the road
All seeming to say, with a quiet delight,
"Good night! good night! good night!"

She did not say to the sun "good night!"
Though she saw him there like a ball of light;
For she knew he had God's time to keep
All over the world, and never could sleep.

The tall pink farglow bowed his head;
The violets courted and went to bed;
And good little Lucy tied up her hair,
And said, on her knees her favorite prayer.

And while on her pillow she softly lay,
She knew nothing more till again it was day;
And all things said to the beautiful sun,
"Good morning! good morning! our work is begun!"

My Bible tells Me so.

When, faint and weary with the strife,
Temptations to o'ercome,
I long to leave their toilsome life,
And lay me down at home;
Then sweetly comes this thought to me,
"Whither betide, I know
That as my day my strength shall be;
The Bible tells me so."

When sin brings clouds of doubt and fears
To spread before my eyes,
And faith grows weak and scarce can pierce
Through clouds to reach the skies,
My heart cries out in trembling tones,
"Oh, whither shall I go?
Come unto me, ye weary ones!"
My Saviour tells me so.

The Heart's Guests

When age has cast its shadows
O'er life's declining way,
And the evening twilight gathers
Round our departing day,
Then we shall sit and ponder
On the dim and shadowy past:
Within the heart's still chambers
The guests will gather fast.

The friends in youth we cherished Shall come to us once more,
Again to hold communion
As in the days of yore.
They may be stern and sombre,
They may be bright and fair;
But the heart will have its chambers;
The guests will gather there.

How shall it be my sisters?
Who then shall be my guests?
How shall it be, my brothers,
When life's shadow on us rests?
Shall we not 'midst the silence,
In accents soft and low,
Then hear familiar voices
And words of long ago.

Shall we not see dear faces,
Sweet smiling as of old,
Till the mists of that still chamber
Are sunset clouds of gold,
When age has cast its shadows
O'er life's declining way,
And the evening twilight gathers
Round our departing day?

Anecdotes.

If you are in want, said Ritchie, with some degrees of peevishness, why don't you beg?
Sure it's a begging I am your honor.
You don't say a word.

O' coons not, yer honor, but see how the skin is speckin' through the holes of me trousers, and the bones cryin' out through me skin!
Look at me sunken cheeks and the famine that's starin' in me eyes. Man alive!
Isn't it beggin' that I am with a hundred tongues!

A countryman, wishing to sympathize with his neighbor for the loss of his wife, said:
I am sorry your poor wife has gone to heaven.

Thank you, replied the other, may it be long before you go there.

Ma, said a little girl to her mother, do men want to get married as much as the women?
Pshaw! what are you talking about?
Why, mamma, the women who come here are always talking about getting married—the men don't do so.

Here's a health to the fools, your patients, said a celebrated English physician to another.

Thank you, my dear, was the reply—let me have all the fools, and you are welcome to the rest of the practice.

Last Sunday, in a Western village, when the plate was being passed in a church, a newly appointed editor said to the collector:
Go on; I'm a dead-head—I've got a pass.

STURGIS'

ELECTRIC COMPOUND,
An Effectual External Remedy for NEURALGIA

—AND—
RHEUMATISM.

ALSO, INVALUABLE FOR
Spinal Irritation, Ague in the Face
Toothache, Pain in the Side,
Back, and Limbs, Ear,
Ague, &c.

Among the Advantages of this Medicine
are the following:

Its effect is very rapid—in most cases instan-taneous.

It is external in its application, and the patient runs no risk in using it. It does not strike to the stomach.

It reaches the nerves and muscles, as it is believed no other medicine does.

It has cured some of the most violent and obstinate cases of Neuralgia ever known.

It can be used on a child or an aged person
alike.

While it is very powerful, it is perfectly harmless.

The proprietor has been allowed to publish the names of many persons who have used the COM-POUND with the most beneficial results. He inserts a few of them. They are among the most respectable citizens of Boston and other places,
and their residences and places of business are given.

The following letter from one of our best citizens, will speak for itself.

REV. JOSEPH E. BARRY, the children's missionary of Boston, was the recipient a few weeks
since of a bottle of Sturgis's Electric Compound,
for Neuralgia, Rheumatism, &c., and having experienced great benefit from its use, and having known of many severe cases of the above complaints where it produced cures, considers it his duty to make known to his friends and others
being so unfortunate as to be troubled with these terrible complaints, the virtue of this preparation.

Boston, Sept. 15, 1863.
REMARKABLE CURE OF NEURALGIA:—
The following letter, (unpublished) was received by the proprietor in May last.

CAMP ROGERS, NEWBURY, May 6, 1863.
Dear Sir: I have been for some weeks suffering under a severe attack of Neuralgia, the severity
of which has caused me to be in "perfect agony" both night and day. Having heard of Sturgis's Electric Compound from a "companion
in arms," I was induced to give it a trial, which
of which has caused me to be in "perfect agony"
using this as a recommendation to other victims
of this painful disorder.

Yours, respectfully,
JOSEPH Houghton,

Hope for the Sufferers!
LET NONE DESPAIR,
For DAILY and almost HOURLY cases are Reported, in which the effect of

THE GREAT
Humor Remedy,
HOWARD'S
VEGETABLE
Canker and Cancer Syrup,

Has been to lay the Axe to the Roots of the Great Blighting
UP-ASTREE OF HUMANITY.
WHOSE FRUITS ARE DEATH!

THE CANKER AND CANCER SYRUP
has the most extraordinary cleansing action on
the BLOOD, which it PURIFIES AT ITS SOURCE; and though it penetrates every organ of the body, repairing injured Tissues, arresting the Progress of Decay, and stimulating
to healthy action the Digestive, Nutritive and Circulating Organs. As nearly all

DISEASES have their ORIGIN in the BLOOD
its fountain should be
CLEANSED AT ITS SOURCE!

This sine qua non is infallibly secured by HOW-ARD'S SYRUP, which

Redeemed Thousands of Victims
FROM PREMATURE GRAVES!
THE SYRUP is the most efficacious Remedy
known for that dreadful Scourge of our Race,
CANCER in its many forms, however obstinate, completely banishing the TORTURING
KNIFE. The worst cases, given over by Physicians, have yielded to it.

CANCER, it cures in its worst forms in
young and old.

SCHOFULA, hereditary, or recent, it completely eradicates, leaving the system without taint.

SALT RHEUM in its many aspects, cannot be cured in any other manner.

ERYSIPELAS of the worst kind soon
loses its virulent character. The Syrup is an unfailing remedy.

THE SYRUP need not be removed by the knife;
it cures the disease, and the patient is restored to health.

WHITE SWELLINGS are acted on by the Syrup through the Blood. Many limbs have been saved by it.

ULCERS, however old or malignant, are
healed by the Syrup without the usual danger of
stopping Running Sores.

KING'S EVIL finds in the Syrup a Specific.
NEURALGIA, however distressing, has been cured by it when all other remedies have failed.

JAUNDICE is cured by the action of the
Syrup on the Liver and Bile Ducts, and DYS-PEPSIA caused by vitiated or insufficient Bile
is removed.

MALE WEAKNESSES—it removes with ease and certainty, and taken regularly, it promotes the healthy periodical secretion.

RICKETS, a child's disease, it completely eradicates, and saves years of misery,
even preventing consumption. In short it is the only safe and certain remedy known for THE
CURE OF

EVERY KIND OF HUMOR!
It is so permeating that mothers nursing may keep their own and their infants' blood pure by
its use. All suffering from Nervous Complaints, Incipient Consumption, Palpitations and General Debility will find it give them RESOLVE
HEALTH AND VIGOR.

FOR SKIN DISEASES—it is especially suited, as it soon eradicates all Blanches, Pimples, &c., and imparts the Brilliance of Health
to the Complexion.

Where irritation of the Lungs and Cough attend the diseases named, the expectant and soothing effect of the Syrup ensures relief and repairs
and strengthens the system.

No case of LUNGE of the SYRUP has ever been known where its use has been persevered in.

It might be easy to enter into learned scientific
theories. We prefer to lay a plain story of facts
before the sufferers who seek relief, therefore we
now offer this

Simple Vegetable Compound
which cannot harm and certainly cures.

FOR SALE.
FARMING
AND Market Gardening Lands
IN
NEW JERSEY.

THE SUBSCRIBERS will sell Tracts of
good Land for Farming and Market Gardening, in quantities to suit purchasers, situated in the Counties of Ocean and Burlington,
on the line of the Raritan and Delaware Bay
Railroad, midway between New York and Philadelphia, at $10 per acre. In addition to all the common products of a farm, these lands
are valuable for growing cranberries, sweet
potatoes, peaches, grapes, tobacco and hops.

All crops ripen ten days earlier than on Long Island. Squab mart is delivered at any point on the railroad at one dollar and fifty cents per ton, and fertilizes the land for seven years after application. The lands are mostly covered with yellow pine timber, suitable for lumber and cord wood. A portion of the timber has been recently cut off, leaving
the land ready for immediate cultivation.

Price of cedar rails, $5 per 100. Cord wood,
at any railroad station, $3 per cord. A portion of the land contain a large quantity of the best pottery clay yet discovered, for the manufacture of yellow ware. Saw-mill within one mile of Shamong Station. A good hotel
at Shamong, on the lands offered for sale.

The location is very healthy and water excellent. Lands well watered with unfailing streams, and supplied with good mill-sites and water-power for manufacturing purposes. The whole purchase money may remain on mortgage for a term of years if desired, if the purchaser cultivates the land.

NUMBER LII.

The Old Year.

The old year totters down the hill
With trembling limbs and weary;
Down his cheek runs many a rill;
His heart is lone and dreary.
Deep sunken are his eyes and bleared,
With palsied hand he shades them;
No longer now, by zephyrs cheered,
Stern Winter's blast invades them.
Oh, cold and friendless is the gloom
Where black pall gathers o'er him;
Dark and frightful is the tomb
Which gaping yawns before him.
How many ghosts of buried joys
Their winding sheets are flustering;
How many hopes, with mournful voice
Their broken vows are muttering?
Amid them moves a hoary shade,
His orders grim repeating;
Armed with hour glass, scythe and spade,
He grim a horrid greeting.
Welcome, old man, now rest thee here,
Thy fathers here are sleeping;
I now must trust my griefs and cheer
To another's sturdy keeping.
The old year sinks with dying moan;
His hungry grave receives him;
Time waves the new-born hours on,
And with his pilgrims leaves him.
Farewell, old friend! though oft unkind,
Thy loves I'll fondly cherish;
Oh! may from bleeding heart and mind
Thy wrongs forever perish!

A Child's Prayer

I ask the Lord, who died,
To pardon all the past;
To bless the future with his grace
So long as life shall last.
I ask the Spirit, too,
To come as gentle dove;
To teach me Jesus' precious name,
And fill my heart with love.
I ask the Father's hand
To guide my steps aright;
To lead me safe through every snare
To which I'm liable.
My friends and teachers bless,
And sing with countless hosts his praise,
Whose cross has given us rest!

Straps.

The question was recently proposed to a "down east" editor—Are hoop skirts dangerous? He immediately answered that they are always very dangerous when they have anything in them!
At a recent festive meeting, a married man, who ought to have known better, proposed—
"The ladies— the beings who divide our sorrows, double our joys, and trouble our senses." Upon which a lady proposed, "The gentlemen—the sensitive individuals who divide our time, double our cares, and trouble our troubles." The married man didn't stop to hear any more.
Rap! rap! rap! "Come in," said the country woman. A rather rough looking man appeared and crossed the threshold. "Is Mr. Smith at home?" said he. "No sir; he'll be home in a short time. Take a chair," said Mrs. Smith. He selected the best chair in the house, shouldered it, and went off at a rapid rate.
A Western editor was recently requested to send his paper to a distant patron, provided he would take his pay in "trade." At the end of the year he found that his new subscriber was a coffin-maker.
"Landlord," said an exquisite, "can you enable me to realize from your culinary stores the pleasure of a few delicate morsels, rendered innocuous by ingenious martyrdom?" He wanted baked sweet potatoes.
Jennie June, in her recent "Talks on Women's Topics," says that in almost every instance where a man marries a sensible woman, it is after he has met with a severe disappointment in not marrying a fool.
Wonder if "Jennie" is in the market?

A Democratic paper consoles itself as follows: It is no shame to belong to the minority. Noah and his family belonged to the minority, while the vast majority went to destruction, pretty much as they are going now.
"No Catherine," said Pat to his wife, "you never can catch a lie coming out of my mouth." "You may well say that," replied Catherine, "they fly out so very fast that nobody can catch them."
Those people who turn up their noses at the world might do well to reflect that it is as good a world as they were ever in, and a much better one than they are likely ever to get into again.
When a true genius appears in the world, you may know by this sign, that all the dunces are in confederacy against him.
Be not vain of your want of vanity.
If a cat had wings, no bird would be left in the air. If every one had what he is wishing, who would have anything?
Speak as you mean, do as you profess, and perform what you promise.

Miscellaneous.

A Runaway Match.

A great many years since, when bright-eyed and fair-haired lasses were not so plenty in New England as they are now, there dwelt in the town of P——, distant some five and twenty miles from a market town, a peculiarly comely and graceful maiden, who had an ugly and cross-grained, but wealthy old father.
Minnie was Danforth's only child, and report said truly she would be his only legatee. The old man was a sturdy farmer, and was estimated to be worth full ten thousand dollars; at that period a very handsome fortune, indeed.
The sparkling eyes and winning manners of Minnie Danforth had stirred up the finer feelings of the whole male portion of the village, and her suitors were numerous, but her father was particular, and none succeeded in making headway with him or her.
In the meantime Minnie had a true and loyal lover in secret. Who would have supposed for a moment, that such a fellow would have dared to look on beauty and comparative refinement?

His name was Walker, or was generally called "Joe Walker," and he was simply a farmer employed by old Danforth, who had entrusted Joe with the management of his large place for two or three years.
But a very intelligent farmer, and a right good manager, was this plain, unassuming, but good-looking Joe Walker. He was young, too, only twenty-three; and he actually fell in love with his employer's only daughter. But the strangest part of the occurrence was that Minnie returned his love earnestly, truly, and frankly, and promised to wed him at a favorable moment.
Things went on prosperously for a time, but old Danforth discovered certain glances and attentions between them which excited his early suspicions.
Very soon afterwards Joe learned the old man's mind, indirectly, with regard to the lie resorted to stratagem, and Joe quickly flew at work at once.
By agreement an apparently settled coldness and distance was observed by the lovers toward each other, which led the father to believe his previous suspicions had been premature.
Then, by agreement also between them, Joe absented himself from the house at evening, and night after night as soon as work was done, he disappeared to return home at late bedtime. This was something unusual, and old Danforth determined to know the cause of it.
Joe frankly confessed that he was in love with a man's daughter, who resided less than five miles distant, but after a faithful attachment between them for several months, the old man had utterly refused to entertain his application for the young girl's hand.
This was capital, just what the old man desired. This satisfied him that he had made a mistake in regard to his own child; and he would have Joe get married and stop all trouble and suspicion at once. So he said:
Well, Joe, is she a buxom lass?
Yes, said Joe. I am not much of a judge myself.
And you like her?
Yes.
Then marry her.
But I can't; the father objects.
Pooh! What do you care? Run away with her.
Elope?
Yes, certainly, off with you at once. If the gal will join, all right. You shall have the little cottage at the foot of the lane. I will fix it up for you. Your wages shall be raised, and the old man may like it or not.
But—
But no buts, Joe. Do as I bid you. Go about it at once, and—
You will stand by me?
Yes, to the very last. I know you Joe; you are a good workman, and will make any one a good son or husband.
The old fellow would be mad though.
Who cares, I say? Go quickly, but quietly. To-morrow night, then?
Yes.
I will hire Colver's horse.
I say no. Take my horse, the best one, young Morgan. He will take you off in style. Exactly.
And as soon as you are spliced, come right back here, and a jolly time we will have of it in the old house.
Her father will kill me.
Bah! He is an old fool, whoever he is. He doesn't know your good qualities, Joe, as well as I do. Do not be afraid; faint heart, you know, never won fair lady.
The old man will be astonished.
Never mind, we shall turn the laugh on him. I will take care of you at any rate.

You shall, said Joe; and they parted in the best of spirits.

An hour after dark, on the following evening, Joe made his appearance, dressed in a new black suit, really looking very comely. The old man bustled out to the barn with him, helping him to harness young Morgan to the plow, and leading the spunky animal himself to the road, and away went Joe Walker in search of his bride.
A few rods distant from the house he found her, according to previous arrangements, and repairing to the village, the parson soon made them one in holy wedlock. Joe took his bride and soon dashed back to the town of P——, and halted at old Danforth's house, who was already looking for him, and who received him with open arms.
Is it done? cried the old man.
Yes, said Joe.
Bring her in, bring her in, continued the old fellow, in high glee. Never mind compliments; no matter about the dark entry; here Joe, to the right in the best parlor. We will have a good time of it now, sure! and the anxious farmer rushed away for lights, returning almost immediately.
Here is the certificate, said Joe.
Yes, yes—
And this is my wife, he added, as he passed up by his beautiful bride, the bewitching and loving Minnie Danforth.
What! roared the old fellow; what did you say? So—you villain, you scamp, you audacious cheat—you, you—
It is the truth, sir, we are lawfully married. You lent me your horse; you thought me worthy of any man's child. You encouraged me, you promised to stand by me, you offered me the cottage at the foot of the lane, and—I did not. I deny it. You cannot prove it. You are a—a—Calmly now, said Joe; and the entreaties of the happy couple were united to quell the old man's ire, and persuade him to acknowledge the union.
The father relented at last. It was a job of his own manufacture, and he saw finally how useless it would be to attempt to destroy it.
He gave in reluctantly, and the fair Minnie—
The marriage proved a joyful one, and the assertion of Danforth proved true in every respect.
The cunning lover was a good son and a faithful husband, and lived many a year to enjoy the happiness which followed upon his runaway match; while the old man never cared to hear much about the details of the elopement, for he saw how he shot over the mark.

An Undesirable Place of Residence.

A day in the moon, according to an English astronomer, is equal to fourteen days on the earth. The day begins with a slow sunrise, followed by a brilliant sunshine and intense heat, about 212 Fahrenheit; the sky is intensely black, there being no atmosphere left, to which blue sky is due; the stars are visible and the horizon is limited: there is dead silence; the cold in the intensely black shadow is very great; and there is no aerial perspective. Thus the moon is no place for man or any animals or vegetables that we know of. The night of the moon, fourteen of our nights, begins with a slow sunset, which is followed by intense cold, about 334 degrees below zero.
A Scotch minister after a hard day's labor, and while at a "dinner tea," as he called it, kept incessantly praising the "hoam," and stated that Mrs. Dunlop at home was as fond of hoams as he was, when the mistress kindly offered to send her the present of a ham.
"It's ucco kin' o' ye, ucco kin', but I'll no put ye to the trouble; I'll just tak' it hame on the horse afore me."
When, on leaving, he mounted, and the ham was put into a sack, but some difficulty was experienced in getting it to lie properly. His inventive genius soon cut the gordian knot.
I think, mistress a cheese in the ither end wud mak' a grain' balance.
The hint was immediately acted on, and like another John Gilpin, he moved away with his balance true.

Getting the Balance.

A Chance for Somebody.

A young lady advertises in the Cleveland Plander for a young gentleman to act as amanuensis. He must be able to write in cipher, and when not engaged, he will be expected to read poetry with feeling, converse with ease, and be able to play cribbage and backgammon. He must expect to be kissed when she is pleased, and chuffed when she is not; but as her temper is acknowledged to be good, there will probably be more kissing than chuffing. There's a good chance for somebody.

Temperance Movements.

QUINCY, DECEMBER 14, 1864.

To the Publisher of the Patriot:
It may be interesting to your readers to know that the friends of Temperance held an interesting meeting at Weymouth Landing last Tuesday, which gave promise of future good. The towns of Weymouth, Hingham, Cohasset, Randolph, Braintree and Quincy were represented, and effected an organization under the name of "East Norfolk Temperance Union." This Association is to hold its meetings quarterly, at different towns in the District. At each meeting there is to be an address by some one previously appointed, and a free discussion of topics vitally connected with the temperance enterprise. Mr. John Kimball, of South Braintree, was chosen President of the Association, and Mr. O. Loud, of South Weymouth, Secretary. The officers consist, also, of six Vice Presidents and a Treasurer. Interesting addresses were made by Rev. William M. Thayer, Secretary of the State Temperance Alliance, Rev. Edwin Thompson, General Agent of the State Alliance, and several other gentlemen.
It is to be hoped that an interest will be awakened which will result in the prohibition of rum selling in all the above towns. The most casual observer, if not blinded to the interests of society, can daily see the evil effects of this unlawful traffic. Families are without bread to-day, and we are sorry to say, young men and youth are being enticed from home and good society, by the pernicious influence emanating from these sinks of iniquity and death. No young man is exempt from temptation. No family, however united and happy, but what is endangered by the prevalence of intemperance. Citizens of Quincy! guard well the morals of your town, and do not tolerate a nuisance that threatens the peace of your homes, and virtues of your families.
"Quincy: Murderous Assault!" What citizen can read the disgraceful doings in a rum saloon, in our town last Saturday night, as reported in the Boston Journal of Monday, and not be indignant in having the numerous readers of the Boston Journal know that the citizens of this town, peacefully allow rum-sellers to prosecute their work of destruction, year after year. Scenes as disgraceful as that which occurred in the saloon, corner of Hancock and Granite streets, are transpiring every week! Let the temperance people of this town unite in executing the law, and rest not till every rum shop in town is broken up, and every rum-seller shall either reform or "go to his own place."

Head-Quarters Naval Battery.

MORRIS ISLAND, CHARLESTON, (S. C.)
DECEMBER 6, 1864.

To the Publisher of the Patriot:
Having a leisure moment, I thought that I would let you know what was going on down here. Well, to commence, there has been some fighting here since I wrote my last. Ten days ago there was an expedition started from Hilton Head up the Casp River to make an attack on the Charleston and Savannah Railroad, and to destroy the Postoffice Bridge, which is three miles long. The force consisted of about twenty thousand soldiers, and one thousand sailors and marines from the squadron and Navy battery. The latest news we have had from them, is that they have had two battles, losing nine hundred men killed and wounded, and drove the enemy ten miles, when they made a stand at a twenty gun battery. The navy boys were in front, and suffered a good deal; nothing could hold them back; they rushed on the enemy with cutlasses and revolver. Sherman is at Savannah, and will be here in a week—so says rumor. The day before yesterday, the steamer New York went on the harbor with a flag of truce, and met one from the rebels for an exchange of prisoners, which was effected, and in the same time gave them four days' time to surrender the city of Charleston, and then they concluded a truce for four days—there was to be no firing on either side; but yesterday the rebels forgot all about it, and when our batteries and forts were all covered with people; the sharpshooters commenced to fire from Fort Sumter, causing many narrow escapes and some skedaddling; with that we opened from Fort Gregg, with one-hundred pounders on Fort Sumter and Johnson, when the rebels came out with a flag of truce and apologized for firing, saying that it was a mistake on their part, as the men had not got instructions at Fort Sumter, and so we ceased firing, and there has not been a gun fired since, nor will there be till day after to-morrow. To-day is the time appointed for the exchange of prisoners; and as I sit in the door of my tent, I can see the army transports and the rebel steamers laying off Fort Moultrie making the exchange. There are several more transports ready to take the poor fellows North as soon as they are exchanged. Every thing is so quiet here, you would not think there ever was such a thing as war, if it was not for the fleet. Yours, BLUE JACKET.

Why He Was Rejected.

A few days since a recruiting agent carried a finely proportioned man to the surgeon for examination, telling the man to return to the ward-room as soon as he had been passed. In due time the man arrived, bringing his own rejection. There was indignation among the recruiting committee, who immediately began to feel of the muscles of this splendid specimen of a man, and point out the beauties of his structure. Loud were the complaints and bitter their denunciations of Dr. H——, and what overt act they might have committed it would be impossible to tell, had not a bystander asked the man what cause, the doctor gave for rejecting him?
"Well, I believe," says the man, "that he said I had the itch."
The ward-room was clear in a moment.

Literary Notices.

GODEY'S LADY'S BOOK. This pioneer in periodical literature, enters the new year under the most favorable auspices. The enterprising publisher has laid out a large field for operations in 1865—and is offering inducements to subscribers which must greatly augment his subscription list. Mr. Godfrey has had a life-long experience in magazine publishing, and no one is more familiar with its details, or has a juster conception of what is required in a first class lady's magazine. He has always had associated with him the best writers, and most eminent artists, which has secured for the Lady's Book an influence far in advance of all others of its kind.
The January number has been received; it is a splendid affair, and in every respect richly merits the title it bears. Now is your time to subscribe.

THE LITTLE PILGRIM—"A Monthly Journal for Girls and Boys"—edited by Grace Greenwood. This is one of the best "Juveniles" published. It has long been before the public, and has received a generous support. It is a most interesting and instructive journal, and is well adapted to the needs of the juvenile reader, in her interesting monthly conversations with them. We recommend it to their especial notice.

GLEASON'S PICTORIAL DOLLAR WEEKLY. Mr. Gleason, publisher of the "Lectures Companion," that elegant, refined and Miscellaneous Family Journal, of which we have often had occasion to speak, will commence on the first of January next, the publication of a valuable pictorial and literary weekly Journal, entitled as above. The paper will be of sixteen octavo pages, and will contain as much reading matter, (and in some cases more) than any three dollar weekly, besides being illustrated each week. The terms will be only one dollar a year to one subscriber, and ten subscribers ten dollars, with a copy gratis to the getter-up of a club of ten. Specimen copies will be sent on receipt of a three cent stamp. The paper will also be for sale at all the principal depots in the United States at twenty cents per copy. Address P. GLEASON, 232 Summer street, Boston, (Mass.)

The idea is a good one. An issue like this—published under such favorable auspices—at a price that brings it within the reach of all—and in a form most acceptable to the reader and for preservation, must be appreciated, and find its way to public favor.

HARPER'S MONTHLY MAGAZINE. We are not here to speak of a new work; this magazine has been so long before the public that a notice from us on this time seems superfluous, as it is now found in the hands of libraries of almost every one. It is generally admitted as a standard work in American periodical literature, although many of its choicest papers are borrowed from foreign journals. But its chief merit lies in its original articles on purely American subjects; the characteristic features of its diversified population; descriptive views, by pen and pencil, of the wild and romantic scenery with which the country abounds; geological delineations; historical incidents connected with the present and past; interspersed occasionally with well written stories of fiction and romance.
It is published monthly at four dollars a year, and the getter up of a club is liberally remembered.

THE HOME JOURNAL. This favorite literary circle, enters on the first of January next, its nineteenth year. In peace and in war, it has survived the mutations of the times. Nathaniel P. Willis, Esq., has been connected with it, as editor, during nearly all of this long period, and still remains at his post; his pen is as fresh and vigorous as ever. In future, he will have associated with him, Mr. Morris Phillips, a pleasing and ready writer, and under their joint management, the public have the assurance that the Journal will sustain its former character, as a faithful mirror of the fashionable world; an index of the current literature of the day, and a medium for foreign gossip, miscellanies and criticisms, with original stories of thrilling interest, in prose and verse.
Published at the City of New York, by Willis & Phillips, proprietors, at $3 a year.

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are we."

Town Meeting.

At a legal Town Meeting, held Dec. 19, 1864, John Glover, Esq., was elected Moderator.

Voted, To instruct the Selectmen to pay the sum of one hundred and twenty five dollars to any man who shall enlist in the service of the United States, and be credited to this Town.

Voted, To accept the Report of the Selectmen, laying out the street running from Adams street, to Granite street, over President's Hill, as a town road.

Voted, To accede to the petition of the owners of estates on said street, that it be named Goffe Street.

Voted, To refer to the Selectmen to act as may be best for the Town the matter of the purchase of land of Mr. Job Faxon, in Liberty street for gravel.

Voted, That this meeting be dissolved.

Goffe Street.

This name has been given to the street accepted by the Town last Monday, in honor of one of the Regicides, who, with Duxwell, Whalley, and others, sought refuge in this country after the restoration of Charles II. It seems that under the assumed name of Thomas Revel he lived on what is now Granite street, nearly opposite the house of John Bass, where he died in 1679. See the "Regicides," a poem by Dr. Ebenezer Brackett, (an elder brother of Lemuel Brackett, Esq.) published in 1793; "Whitney's History of Quincy," also, "An Address by Rev. F. A. Whitney, at the Second Centennial Celebration in 1840."

The custom of naming places and streets for individuals of prominence, is of two fold advantage; while it perpetuates the name, it identifies the locality. This has happily been done in this town—which bears the name of one of the oldest settlers; then we have Squantum, Wollaston-Mount, park and cemetery, Hough's Neck, Paine's Hill (Bent's Point, Knight's and Sned's Neck are obsolete.) And for streets, we have Coddington, Goffe, Hancock, Adams, Brackett, Greenleaf, than local.

The view from Goffe street is admitted to be equal, if not superior, to that from Milton Hill, which has long been famed for the finest prospect in the vicinity of Boston.

MERRY CHRISTMAS. We are on the eve of that merry season; when selfishness obscures its head, and the nobler impulses of the heart are allowed to flow; when for our own happiness, we take pleasure in promoting the happiness and enjoyment of others. Let the coming week then be devoted to pleasure. Let the old year slip merrily from under us, that we may be better prepared for the duties of the new. Santa Claus, no doubt, will make his annual visit, otherwise, there will be a nursery squall. Those who wish to anticipate the visits of the jovial old fellow, can call at McLeishan's, Veazie's, and other fashionable resorts, where he makes his headquarters.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE. On Sunday morning last, between 1 and 2 o'clock, a fire was discovered in the barn owned by Captain John Hardwick, on Granite street; which was entirely consumed, with two tons of hay, horse, cow, wagon, harness, farming utensils, a set of carpenter's tools, belonging to Lieut. Pratt, (valued at $200.) wood, coal, etc. The barn was insured at the Quincy Mutual for $200, and the hay and implements for $150. John F. Pratt had no insurance—his was a total loss, besides his winter fuel, which was stored in the barn. Mr. Levi Stearns, Jr., also, was a sufferer to a considerable amount; in furniture, coal &c. The night was extremely cold, and before the engines, could be got to work, the whole structure was a heap of ruins. The house, which was in close proximity, was at one time in imminent danger, and but for a heavy body of snow, which protected the roof, it would have shared a similar fate. It is supposed to be the work of an incendiary. The misfortune presses heavily on Capt. H., and we are gratified to learn that a movement is on foot among the charitably disposed, to lighten its burden.

MILD WINTER. The predictions of our weather seers, are not likely to be verified—they are terribly at fault. It was said we were to have an extremely mild winter—all indications pointed to that fact. If what is to follow, is to be like what we have experienced, they are certainly out in their reckoning. We are fast freezing up. Our staple commodity is daily increasing, and if we go on at this rate, we shall harvest a crop of ice sufficient to pay off the national debt.

MINISTER DAYTON. Mr. Dayton, our Minister at the French Court, died on the 2d instant, in Paris, of apoplexy. He was in his fifty-eighth year, as he was born on the 17th of February, 1807, at Baskinridge, in the State of New Jersey.

WAR NEWS. The news of the week has been very encouraging; so much so that the rebel papers are very despondent. General Thomas, in Tennessee, has had several engagements with General Hood, and on every occasion routed his army and captured a large number of prisoners, artillery, &c. It is said that Gen. Hood has lost twenty thousand men, and sixty one pieces of artillery, since coming into the State.

Official dispatches have been received of Gen. Sherman's grand march through Georgia. It seems that he marched some three hundred miles through the enemy's country, feeding his army on all the good things he could find, consisting of turkeys, chickens, sweet potatoes &c.—captured 4000 prisoners, 10,000 negroes, 15,000 horses, artillery &c. all this the telegrams announce with only a loss of fifteen hundred men. What more glorious achievement can we ask for? since reaching the coast he has captured Fort McAllister by storm and has now laid siege to the city of Savannah, at the mouth of the Savannah river, which the rebel papers acknowledge will succumb to our forces. It has a garrison of fifteen thousand.

ANOTHER DRAFT. A call and draft for 300,000 troops to make up the deficiencies occasioned by credits on the last call, has been ordered by the President. If the quotas are not filled before the fifteenth day of February next, then a draft will be made to fill the deficiency. A meeting is called in this town to take place on Saturday evening next, to see what action will be taken to aid in obtaining the quota of Quincy.

CHARLES GREENE DUGGAN. In the death of this young man, grief and mourning overshadowed a once happy house. Around the family altar, parents, brothers, sisters, wife, have gathered, in mental anguish, to whisper their sorrows, and implore the Father of mercies for resignation in their affliction.

From this dispensation of Divine Providence we may learn the sacrifices the country is making for national existence. Thousands of her noblest sons have been called from the endowments of home, to fill posts of danger, and lay down their lives, in its defence.—Young Duggan was one who promptly responded to the call. He left the paternal roof to share in the perils of the conflict now going on. He was struck down with disease, where he expired, leaving a wife and child, and a large circle of devoted friends to mourn his loss.

[From the Bath, (Maine) Times.]

An Aged Couple.

Our esteemed and venerable citizen, Cushing Allen, Esq., attained his ninety-sixth year on the 27th instant. The occasion, which was one of interest to himself and family, was rendered more so, by several of his friends to congratulate him on the return of another anniversary of his birthday, and the good health which he still enjoyed. Mr. Allen is hale and hearty; and his cheerful manner and sprightly walk are remarked upon with pleasure by the people generally. His venerable consort is, also living, at the age of eighty-eight years; and should their lives be continued till next June, they will then have lived together as husband and wife seventy years.

LARGE SALE. We would call the attention of those in want of wood to the sale of fifty-two lots of excellent wood on Tuesday next. See advertisement.

CHRISTMAS FAIR. The Quincy Band as well as the Choral Society are expected, which will furnish a rare musical treat. We predict a crowd. It is pleasant to see all denominations uniting in helping on this charitable cause.

A NEW STEAMER. The New York Evening Post says a new steamer, the Newport, was to be launched in New York, on Saturday last, intended for the Fall River line of steamers. The Newport is a mate of the Metropolis, but larger and even better than that splendid vessel. Her dimensions are three hundred and forty feet in length by forty-four feet beam. She has three watertight compartments, and is as thoroughly iron-strapped as any ocean steamer, and will take her place on the line early in the spring. Four steamers will then run regularly: the Metropolis, Newport, Empire State and Bay State. Besides these, the Company will put on this week, a new propeller of nine hundred tons, called the Fall River, which will be used exclusively for freight. Within the last fortnight, the extension of the railroad from Fall River to Newport has enabled the boats of this line to make Newport their terminus; an arrangement which will continue hereafter, greatly to the comfort of summer travellers to Newport. We learn that still another passenger steamer will be built immediately. The increasing business of the line demands these increased facilities for travel and freight.

BUGLE CALL. Advance sheets of the "Bugle Call" have been shown us, from the same press from which the Boatswain's Whistle was issued. It is a lively paper and will be welcomed by the soldiers.

Training and Training Field.

The area of the Training Field, like that of Scott's Pond, is very much less than it was forty years ago. The time seems to be drawing near when both these places will be unknown in the geography of Quincy. Those who have seen the Training Field, only as it appears at the present time, encumbered with stone-piles, chains, trees, vehicles, stags, deer, quagga, saloons, haystacks, and a massive structure of rusty granite, have but a faint idea of its former importance as a play ground—and as its name implied, a training field. It was headquarters for foot-ball parties—and in a military point of view, Boston Common was not a priming to it. It was not so much of a cow pasture as the Common. It was near the Town Pond, a yard enclosed by a strong, high stone wall, with a small gate covered with a granite cap. It looked like a basement to a stone church; or might be taken for a fort placed there so as to sweep the avenues leading to the Training Field. It stood on the corner of the Nighbale estate, the spot since occupied by the haystacks. Mr. Quincy's carriage shed, (located near where the Insurance Office now stands) was another well known resort—a kind of boys' exchange—"meet you at Quincy's shed Saturday afternoon." It was a good place to play "wind over;" no danger of breaking glass windows with the ball; no fuss about a good standing platform for the boys training days to take a sort of bird's-eye view of the military.

In the latter part of the time the old militia laws were in force, the population of Quincy had increased so that it was necessary to have two companies of militia, beside the light infantry, to contain all the enrolled men of the town. On May training day they made quite a military display. Each man of the militia companies was called up to the drum head (which answered for a writing desk) and inspected to see if he was not deficient of gun, bayonet, ramrod, knapsack, twenty-four rounds of cartridge and ball, priming-wire and brush, and two spare flints. Those who were deficient of the smaller articles contrived by the help of the boys to borrow of those who had been inspected. Onion seed was sometimes carried for gunpowder; not because it was cheaper, or more easily obtained, but from a disposition to deceive the inspecting officer, who was supposed not to be able to tell the difference between gunpowder and onion seed. The young people who have seen our brave volunteers, with their uniformity of dress and equipments, as they went forth with earnestness to put down this terrible rebellion, have but a faint idea of the appearance of the old militia, with their guns varying from the heavy king's arm to the small handsome finished rifle. In their costume there was still greater diversity, varying from a tight green jacket to a blue woolen frock. In fact, they seemed to go on the principle, that variety was the portance of their station, and were accordingly selected with reference to their knowledge of military science. Ability and willingness to treat well one's hand and seal, at Weymouth, in the opinion of a majority of the soldiers. In a neighboring town, an Ensign was promoted to a Captaincy over the Lieutenant; the reason assigned, was, that the Lieutenant sold milk, the Ensign sold rum; the soldiers were more fond of rum than milk—hence the promotion. I have often heard of a militia Captain who flourished in Quincy something more than a half a century ago, who being more familiar with the training house than the camp, better acquainted with agriculture than military tactics, and wishing to get his men in a certain position, ordered them to march as far as that small heap of cow manure, then turn and face the pupil. An order easily understood, and no doubt promptly obeyed. In those days, it was not required of a common military officer that he be familiar with the zouave drill or a graduate of West Point.

I should think the citizens of Quincy would regret that the Adams Temple had not been erected on or near the Torrey or Nighbale estate, facing on a beautiful level triangular green, enclosed with a suitable iron fence, and skirted with a few majestic elms. Then citizens of Quincy or Companies would have to advertise their places of business in the rear of the Stone Church.

I visit Quincy and look for Scott's Pond, it is filled up. For the Training Field, it is obstructed with things not to be removed. For Veazie's Mill Pond, (that used to cover an area of twenty or forty acres, affording a splendid skating park, so well used of Christmas days) it had run away.

I am glad that the gentlemanly losses of the Greenleaf estate has provided a substitute, by flowing Black's Creek, and last year kindly invited the people to come there and enjoy themselves, without money or without price.

And now, Mrs. publisher, editor, printer, and readers of the Patriot, permit me to wish you a merry Christmas and happy New Year; and if Santa Claus wishes to attend church Christmas day, I hope the little ones will be patient, for he will probably be round early Monday morning.

NOTICE EXTRAORDINARY. A notice of a recent steamboat explosion in a Western port ends as follows:

"The captain swam ashore; so did the chambermaid; was insured for $15,000, and loaded with iron."

THE FIRST NEWSPAPER IN THE UNITED STATES. The Long Island Historical Society exhibits in its rooms an original copy of The Boston Newsletter, printed by John Allen, in Pudding Lane, and sold at the post office in Cornhill. The sheet consists of one leaf, about ten by fourteen inches. It is dated in the year 1710, or sixty-four years before the Declaration of Independence, but is well printed and in good preservation. This paper is claimed to be the first one published in the United States.

A NEW NATURAL BRIDGE. Some of our soldiers recently discovered on Laurel Fork, in Upshur County, (Va.) a natural bridge spanning French Creek. It measures on the under side fifty-one feet in length and twenty-six in breadth, beautifully arched in solid stone. The bed of the creek is strangely carved out of stone, and the water flows swiftly on, "making music of a melancholy sort." The scenery around is wild and picturesque; unbroken forests spread out through hill and dale.

A PARADE. A dress parade of bounty jumpers took place at Indianapolis, Ind. a few days since. Over one hundred of them were lashed two-and-two to a long rope, with a herculean African leading the column and ringing a bell. Each jumper carried a large placard on his back as an advertisement of his profession.

DUTCH GAP CANAL. A letter from the Army of the James says the work on the Dutch Gap Canal is going steadily on, and the rebels keep up their usual practice. Soon will come "the tug of war," when all will be in readiness to blow out the bulkhead and dredge out the debris of the canal.

Summary of Intelligence.

ORIGINAL AND SELECTED.

There is a sad mortality among the newspapers. In Maine we notice that the Bath Courier, Farmington Patriot, and Belfast Journal have followed the Augusta Age into forgetfulness. The wonder is not so much that newspapers die, as how half of them keep alive at the present cost of publishing.

The governor and council usually celebrate Thanksgiving by pardoning a meritorious convict from the state prison, but omitting it this year, propose to let out two on Christmas. There are now 359 convicts in prison, of whom 40 are for life, and three are in solitary confinement.

It is decided that drafted men who are detailed in navy yards, arsenals, etc., shall not be credited on the quotas of towns or wards in which they reside.

An official report of the financial affairs of the United States Sanitary Commission is just published. The total amount of money received by the Commission from all sources since its organization in the summer of 1861 is $2,677,964.40. The expenditures amount to $1,672,506.72. Balance on hand, $1,005,457.68. The report also gives a list of the hard times created by the price of provisions.

The new fractional currency is red-backed, with a metallic ring on the face, which is printed in black. It is about twice as long as the old issue.

Ice has closed navigation on the upper Mississippi.

The promise of an abundant apple crop next year is rendered dubious by the prospect of an immense crop of worms. Anybody who takes the trouble to look can see their embryo next near the ends of apple twigs, and by clipping them off, can save a deal of wormy and rotten fruit next year. It will pay to do it.

The war committee of Hartford, organized in 1862, closed their labors on Monday evening, after having enlisted 2000 men, expended $156,000, and given $37,000 to soldiers' families. They have still $7000 of the $200,000 appropriated to their use. They will want all of it yet if Father Abraham's word holds good.

The St. Johnsbury (Vermont) Caledonian says that on Friday, Dec. 2, the farmers in that and neighboring towns were plowing and doing other work commonly done in November.

DYEING DOGS. The ladies of Paris, not content with dyeing their hair red, now dye their lapdogs to match the color of their dresses. Green dogs, yellow dogs and sky-blue pugs are all the rage. Wealthy parties have sets of lapdogs of all colors. A purple lapdog would be an addition to a fine landscape!

BLOOD-ROOT ELIXIR

is a medical preparation, for a period of THIRTY YEARS, and is now presented to the public as a

COSTIVENESS,

And the Best Remedy ever prepared for

Diseases of the Liver,

SCROFULA,

All Hemors and Impurities of the Blood and Diseases of the Skin.

The preparing and combining the BLOOD-ROOT ELIXIR is attended with results to medical science next in importance to inhalation of ether in surgery. Roots and plants, in themselves, are feeble, and are by a new and scientific process of extracting (in vacuo) rendered MORE EFFECTIVE IN THEIR OPERATION, entirely divested of the gripping and distressing pain which attends the action of all other purgative medicine.—They are also made to become highly

PLEASANT AND AGREEABLE

TO THE TASTE,

and by their peculiar combination, work so perfectly, in HARMONY WITH NATURE that unpleasant reaction will follow its operation. It also possesses

A DIFFUSIVE AND ALTERNATIVE

EFFECT,

which can only be obtained by medicine in a fluid state. These are new elements in purgative medicine.

THE BLOOD-ROOT ELIXIR has no partial action upon the bowels, but is equally diffused throughout the whole circulation of the blood, imparting a healthy and invigorating action to the STOMACH AND BOWELS, LIVER, LUNGS, KIDNEYS, and gently stimulating the dormant and morbid secretions throughout the whole system.

A single dose will produce a cheerful and exhilarating COMOTION, which will inspire the patient with confidence, and assurance of IMMEDIATE RELIEF. A continuance for a short period will DRIVE the obdurate and hidden humors to the surface of the skin, and relieve or check SCROFULOUS AFFECTIONS—and by thus purifying and strengthening the Blood, will remove the most fruitful

CAUSE OF CONSUMPTION.

It meets the various organs of the system to act their allotted part, removing the causes which induce RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, HEADACHE, LOSS OF APETITE, DYSPEPSIA, COSTIVENESS, and the various diseases which arise from a derangement of the Stomach and Bowels, and restricted circulation of the Blood.

See the pamphlet around each bottle for a list of the Elixirs.

The proprietor of the BLOOD-ROOT ELIXIR, (Dr. S. O. Richardson) has been long and favorably known to the public by his celebrated SWEET WINE BITTERS, the best tonic medicine ever discovered, and which has been in use over thirty years. He is a graduate of the New Hampshire Medical College, and many years a resident member of the Massachusetts Medical Society—and has made the study of medicine his profession since 1820.

And so fully convinced is the Doctor of the wonderful curative effects of his BLOOD-ROOT ELIXIR, that he hereby offers to each and every person who will use ONE HALF OF A BOTTLE of this Elixir, and not be conscious of a good effect therefrom, to refund to said person the FULL value of the bottle, and by thus purifying and strengthening the Blood, will remove the most fruitful

Price $1.50 per Bottle.

Sold in Quincy by MRS. E. HAYDEN, and by dealers in medicine generally, and at the

Hope for the Sufferers!

LET NONE DESPAIR, For DAILY and almost HOURLY cures are Reported, in which the effect of THE GREAT

Humor Remedy, HOWARD'S VEGETABLE

Canker and Cancer Syrup, Has been to lay the Axe to the Roots of the Great Blighting UPSTREE OF HUMANITY, WHOSE FRUITS ARE DEATH!

THE CANKER AND CANCER SYRUP is a most efficacious Remedy for all the Boils, suppurating Tumors, abscesses, and all the progress of Decay, and stimulating to healthy action the Internal, Nutritive and Circulating Organs. As nearly all DISEASES have their ORIGIN in the BLOOD, its purification should be CLEANSED AT ITS SOURCE! This cure has now been established by HOWARD'S SYRUP, which has

FROM PREMATURE GRAVES! THE SYRUP is the most efficacious Remedy known for that dreadful scourge of our Race, CANCER in its many forms, however obstinate—completely banishing the TORTURING KNIFE. The worst cases, given over by Physicians, have yielded to it. CANKER, it cures in its worst forms in young and old.

SCROFULA, hereditary, or recent, it completely eradicates, leaving the system without injury. SALT RHEUM in its many aspects cannot withstand its virtues, as thousands testify. ERISIPELAS, the most kind soon loses its virulent character. The Syrup is an invaluable remedy.

TUMORS need not be removed by the knife; the Syrup dissolves them permanently. WHITE SWELLINGS are acted on by the Syrup through the Blood. Many limbs have been saved by it.

ULCERS, however old or malignant, are healed by the Syrup without the usual danger of suppuration. RINGS' EYE, in the Syrup is Specific. NEURALGIA, however distressing, has been cured by it when all other remedies have failed.

JAUNDICE is cured by the action of the Syrup on the Liver and Bile Ducts, and DYSPEPSIA caused by vitiated or insufficient Bile is removed.

FEMALE WEAKNESSES—it removes with ease and certainty, and taken regularly, it promotes the healthy periodical secretion. RICKETS, a Children's disease, it completely eradicates, and saves years of misery, even preventing consumption. In short it is the only safe and certain remedy known for THE CURE OF EVERY KIND OF HUMOR! and is so penetrating that moieties entering may keep their own and their infants' blood pure by its use. All suffering from Nervous Complaints, Insane Consumption, Palpitations and General Debility will find it give them RENEWED LIFE AND VIGOR.

FOR SKIN DISEASES—it is especially suited, as it soon eradicates all Blanches, Pimples, &c., and imparts the Brilliance of Health to the Complexion.

* * * Where irritation of the Lungs and Cough attend the disease named, the excellent and soothing effect of the Syrup ensures relief and repose, and strengthens the system.

No case of Leucorrhoea has ever been known where its use has been persevered in. It might be easy to enter into learned scientific theories. We prefer to lay a plain story of facts before the sufferers who seek relief, therefore we now offer this Simple Vegetable Compound, which cannot harm and certainly cures.

PRICE, $1 per Bottle—or $5 for Six Bottles.

Prepared by D. HOWARD, Randolph, Mass. JAMES O. BOYLE & CO., (SUCCESSORS TO REDDING & CO.) 8 State Street, Boston.

A Question.

I close my eyes, and once again,

The old, old house and the cedar tree,

With its solemn shade on the moonlit lawn,

Clear as a vision comes back to me.

The red geraniums mourn for the sun,

Yet black they look in the moon's full light;

The loose white roses over the porch

Smell faintly sweet in the summer night.

I go through the porch and through the hall,

And then I pause by the parlor door;

Half open it stands, and the moonlight streams

Through open windows on the floor.

My love sits at the organ and plays,

A wild old melody, strange and low,

Dreamily singing a ballad quaint,

One that I sang to her long ago.

Softly I steal to her side—she turns,

Breaking off in the midst of a line,

"Love I was thinking of you," she says;

And then puts both her hands in mine.

She never sings in the parlor now—

In perfect day by the glassy sea,

She sings a song that the angels know,

But oh! does she ever think of me?

The Babe Asleep.

My little baby boy hath cried

Himself asleep at some light childish pain,

And on his face the traces still abide

Like shapes of cloud o'er meadows, flying;

Upon his cheek a tear-drop lying,

As on a leaf a single drop of rain.

See! as I bend above his face,

The shade of grief flutters like a hurrying cloud,

And like a gleam of sunshine in its place,—

The shadow yielding to the splendor,—

A smile so sunny breaks, and tender,

It seems the smile itself will speak aloud.

Say! what is passing in his sleep?

What are the dreams across his vision driven?

Hath one, too young, to sow, begun to reap?

Doth he at one light grief repining,

The worthlessness of earth divining,

Already dream of sweeter things in heaven.

Scraps.

The progress of knowledge is slow. Like the sun, we cannot perceive it moving, but after a time we perceive that it has moved—say, that it has moved onward.

The war debt of the world, at the present time, amounts to only twelve billions of dollars. But it's increasing, if that's any satisfaction.

Some men will give a dollar and put so much heart into it that it will be more than a thousand dollars from another. Some men will give, but it is as when mowers blast

gold-bearing quartz—you have to drill till you can effect a lodgement, and then put in good molasses like powder, then at last goes the explosion, and you are almost covered by the rocks they fire at you. We should wreath our charities about with beauty.

WALKING. Those who walk the most are generally the healthiest; the road of health is too narrow for wheels.

A New England physician was lecturing late on the ignorance of people of their own complaints, and said that a lady once asked him what his next lecture was to be upon,

and being told "the circulation of the blood," replied that she should certainly attend, for she had been troubled with that complaint for a long time.

OBITUARY. A place in newspapers where virtues are discovered in dead people that they were not known to possess when in life.

Cultivate friendship, for there may come a time when you will need sympathy.

If newspaper subscribers only knew what sacrifices publishers were making for their instruction and entertainment their first purpose would be to pay the printer! Who takes?

The sweetest of all pleasures, and one that will never decay, is to cherish the heart that loves you.—Irving.

There is this paradox in pride—it makes some ridiculous, but prevents others from becoming so.

COMMON SENSE. An old gentleman on returning from business, gave the following sage advice to his son and successor. Common sense my son is valuable in all kinds of business—except love-making."

He can well bear the revolutions of the envious seasons who bears eternal summer in his

Miscellaneous.

The Foundling.

Some incidents in the history of a family which I heard related herewith, are curiously romantic. A farmer, whom we shall call May, whose means were ample than most new settlers, lived in 1812 in Illinois, about six miles from St. Louis. One morning early, a person then lodging in the house, who furnished this information, heard Mrs. May's voice in startled tones, calling to her husband to ask: What noise is that?

The drowsy husband answered that the cry was probably that of an opossum or a screech-owl.

Ah, no, John, exclaimed the wife, it is a young child!

She sprang from the bed as did her husband, and both ran to the door; a basket was set on the doorstep, covered with a blanket, which Mrs. May removed, and there lay, imbedded in snow-white muslin and linen, a beautiful infant! Lifting it in her arms, she ran into the house, and laying it on her lap, examined its features with delighted curiosity.

Is it not a beauty? she cried, looking up in her husband's face; and the way it has come is so funny!

The stern farmer replied that he could see no fun in having other people's brats thrown upon him; but his grumbling was hushed by the benevolent woman, whose whole soul went forth in kindness towards the little helpless creature—evidently not more than four weeks old—thus cast on her maternal care. Notwithstanding the displeasure of Mr. May, which she knew to be more in appearance than reality, she kept her resolution of adding the trouble of providing for it to the charge of her own four children.

Matters went on thus for two or three years, and the foundling became the pet of the household. Mr. May, however, treated the little girl with an indifference amounting to dislike, and manifested annoyance, particularly when his wife would tell her visitors the child's brief history—always prefixing it by the exclamation:—

The way the dear little thing came to us was so funny!

One day while he was alone in the room, he was playing with little Mary, when hearing Mrs. May's step, he set the child down quickly, pushing her from him. The child cried, Mrs. May took her up and spoke complacently of her husband's unkind treatment of the little desolate creature whom he seemed to hate.

You are mistaken, Nancy, replied the farmer; I do not hate the child. See, she knows I love her as much as yourself; and as he smiled and held out his arms, Mary sprang from the lap of her protectress, and came to him laughing merrily.

But why, John, do you treat the poor thing so unkindly?

I will tell you why, Nancy; because you always tell everybody all about her; and it frets me to have people suppose I am bringing up nobody knows who, as you say; besides it is a disgrace to the child. Now if you will agree to what I propose, I am willing, for the child's good, to sell out and move to one of the northern territories. But you must promise never to let any one know that we are not her parents, and never again allude to the "funny way" in which she came to us.

Mrs. May readily agreed to this generous proposal; the farmer sold out, and removed to what was then the territory of Michigan.

THE QUINCY PATRIOT.

Saturday, Dec. 31st, 1864.

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are we."

The Closing Year—Advance in Price.

The year 1864 is well nigh spent. The joys and pleasures, the cares and troubles, may live vividly in our mind into the distant future, but the year itself will soon be numbered with the things that were. A few short hours, and it is gone! It came with the freshness of a dewdrop, and thus quietly will it pass away. The many good deeds we have performed will be as meteors shining brightly to guide us onward, the bad ones as mill-stones tied around our necks. The past year has been full of events which will mark it most conspicuously in the pages of history. Many there are who will have occasion to remember it with thanksgiving and praise, for the numerous blessings bestowed upon them; others, with tears in their eyes, will think of the kind and affectionate one, who with all the bravery of Napoleon, left his fond companion and little ones, his beloved mother and honored sire, his kind sister and brother, to endure the trials and hardships of the tented field—but now, alas! he has gone to his quiet rest. Oh, many a household has thus been bereft of its dearest one, and when we think of the future, it makes us cry out:—

"Oh, when will this cruel war be over?"

The present number concludes the twenty-eighth volume of the PATRIOT. The year has been a hard and trying one for us. Not because our friends, our citizens, and our neighbors, have not patronized us. No, their favors have been most liberally bestowed; and to them we would return our thanks. Never has our job office been better patronized; and never have we added more new subscribers to our list, than the year just drawing to a close. Still we have never found it harder work to provide the staff of life for our little ones than during the last few months. We have endeavored to stem the current of high prices and keep the price of our paper down to the old standard. We have looked on and seen first one, and then another, advance its price, but we have kept our ship steadily before the wind, hoping the gale would soon pass and all would be well; but we are sorry to say that it has been otherwise. There is not a single newspaper we believe in this, or the adjoining counties but have advanced. You must see, kind reader, we are compelled to succumb to the force of circumstances, and raise the price of the PATRIOT. We shall advance only fifty cents. It may seem small to most of you, still it will make great difference to us; and we hope it will meet the approval of all our subscribers.

Before closing this address, allow us, kind friends, to wish you all a Happy New Year.

Our Schools are enjoying the benefit of the general observance of Monday of this and the following week as holidays. The world moves slowly, but the time will surely come when the boys and girls will have for vacation the whole week between Christmas and New Years. Will not that be fun for them? "Fun for them, but death to us," we think we hear their anxious mothers exclaim.

QUOTA OF MASSACHUSETTS. By an official notice of Major Clarke, acting assistant Provost Marshal General, the quota of this State under the recent call for 300,000 men, after deducting the credits to which the State is entitled, is 805—271 in the Eighth Congressional District and 534 in the Ninth.

ELECTION OF CAPTAIN. On Wednesday afternoon next, all persons in this town liable to do military duty, between the ages of eighteen and forty-five, are notified to appear at the Town Hall, for the purpose of electing a Captain of the company to be organized in this District. There is a large amount of duty to be performed by this officer, and it is very important that a person competent for the office should be elected. The Captain is obliged to enroll all the active and reserve militia of the town; decide who is not liable to do duty, post said roll in three or more public places, fourteen days, &c., &c.

The roll of each company shall state the name, age, rank, occupation and birthplace of each man enrolled in said company, and whether he is married, single or a widower, what parents, brothers and children he has living, and their respective names, ages and residences.

BLOWING HOT AND COLD. This has been the case the present season. December opened with severe cold weather, which is now succeeded by a heavy thaw, that is eating into the very vitals of old winter. The snow, under the influence of a warm south wind and fog, has nearly disappeared, and with it, of course, our frothing; the ice is being released from its frosty fetters, and the grey earth which has so long been hid under a white canopy, is again visible. The proprietors of the Horse Railroad, improving the opportunity, during the few weeks past, have been conveying their passengers, to and from Boston, on runners—but a force of circumstances, has invited them back again to their rails.

Public Lectures.

To the Publisher of the Patriot:

I had the pleasure, one evening last week, of listening to a lecture delivered by Rev. O. T. Walker, of Boston. The subject was "The Middle Ages and their influence upon the present time."

I must confess the subject disappointed me somewhat, for when I first heard it, I thought it would be rather dry; but it was one of the most interesting lectures I ever heard; full of information and instruction, interspersed with wit, humor and poetry. Mr. W. is an excellent speaker, and cannot fail to interest an audience. He has been urgently requested to deliver the same lecture in Quincy, some time during the winter; and if he does so, I advise every one who wishes for an intellectual treat, to go and hear him. I think it is a great mistake that we have no lyceum lectures in this town.

There seems to be no lack of amusements in other respects. Scarcely a week passes over our heads that we do not see an advertisement of some levee, fair, gift exhibition, &c., &c., but not a single lecture from Fall to Spring. Why is this? Is it because we are such an unintellectual set, that we cannot appreciate any thing of the kind? I think not. I remember the last course of Lyceum lectures which was delivered in our Town Hall. They were very well attended; and I do not recall a single night, however unpleasant the weather, when there was not a full house. We certainly have not degenerated very much since then; and I sincerely wish that some of our public-spirited men would make an effort to get up another course, and see if they would not gather in a large and interested audience.

For the Patriot.

Afternoon Service and Sunday Schools.

One of our parishes recently passed an almost unanimous vote to discontinue the afternoon service during the winter. In connection with this occurrence, the following extract from a late religious paper will prove of general interest:

"No intruder can ever be made upon established custom without meeting with opposition; and this is no cause of complaint. There is a conservative power in habit which saves us from the evil consequences of unwise changes. A transition of customs is often even slower than that of ideas. We see an illustration of this in respect to the subject of the number of Sabbath services. In very many of our societies, especially in the city, the afternoon service is little more than a form. The great majority of the hearers have practically decided the question for themselves. Now, as long as we have two services, why should not the audience attend as well as the minister? If they will not attend, can we not better employ the afternoon by devoting it to the Sunday School?"

"The answer can only be given by practical trial. If after repeated attempts it is demonstrated that the afternoon can be more profitably used by the proposed change, the question is settled. We, therefore, look with peculiar interest at all experiments of this kind."

"Dr. Swain, of Providence, a prominent and distinguished orthodox clergyman, has for a year past substituted the Sunday School for his ordinary afternoon service. In the Congregationalist of last week we have the results of his experiments as effecting the Sunday School."

"It has increased in numbers. The parents who used sometimes to make it their plea that it took so much time to get their children ready to attend the school when they had it in the forenoon, that they could not go themselves, are now able both to attend the sectarian services in the forenoon and the Sunday School in the afternoon. The change has also increased the efficiency of the school itself, not only enlarging its numbers, but also enabling teachers to devote more attention to the children."

"The school," he adds, "by taking place in the afternoon, is no longer a mere prefix, appendix, or interpolation, intended for a class, carried on by a few, and leaving the day beyond the proper points of endurance, but is adopted into the regular order of Sabbath exercises, and is designed, like all the rest of that order, to be taken up by the whole people, pastor, church and congregation."

"He also claims that it gives proper honor to the Sunday School. If the school is thrust into a corner of the Sabbath, it will naturally be regarded as belonging to the corner. Until the Sunday School is taken up by the pastors and people, it will not assume the position for which it was designed."

"He concludes as follows: 'The plan appears to grow in favor with us the longer it is tried. We have found less difficulty in carrying it out than was anticipated. Other congregations would probably find it the same with them, should they make the experiment. The plan may not be practicable for all churches; it might not work well in the country; it may never become universal. But I am persuaded that in our cities and larger villages, the plan would be both practicable and profitable; and that under it the ministry would be more vigorous, the churches more active, the Sunday School more efficient, the Sabbath itself more a day of strength, refreshment, and of the best spiritual blessing.'"

AN INTERESTING SPECTACLE. A few days since, while the union and rebel flag of truce boats were holding a conference at the entrance of Charleston harbor, a most beautiful phenomenon appeared to spectators standing upon the bluffs of Morris Island. A rainbow brightened into form on an overhanging cloud, its ends resting on the water on either side of the communicating ships. It was a sublime picture, and the spectators were pleased to regard it as a significant omen.

Second Collection District.

In the following subjoined towns, belonging to the second collection district of Massachusetts, is a list of the persons who pay taxes on two thousand dollars and over, (under the joint resolution imposing a special income duty, approved July 4, 1864.)

This tax is assessed upon the entire income for the year 1863, at the rate of five per cent, including incomes derived from interest upon notes, bonds and other securities of the United States; also the premium received upon the sale of gold. The entire special war tax for the district amounted in the aggregate to $231,306 65, to which some additions are being made.

A LAUNCH. A ship of twelve hundred tons, built by the yard of Mr. Thomas, at the Point, on Wednesday last. She slipped from the ways into the briny deep, with ease and grandeur, like a thing of life. We learn that this vessel when finished, will take her place in a line of packets, belonging to the Germania Co., of New York.

Applications for pensions are now presented at the rate of five thousand per month, and the rate is constantly increasing.

For the Patriot.

A New Financial Idea.

Not long ago an energetic lady of Milton resorted to an ingenious device for raising money for the Sanitary Commission. Visiting nearly all the families in the town, she induced a large proportion of the ladies to assess upon themselves an annual poll tax of one dollar for the benefit of the Commission. The sum obtained in this very Democratic way was by no means inconsiderable, nor did other special methods of raising funds for the suffering soldiers by "Entertainments" and the like, appear to be at all interfered with.

A similar plan has been set on foot in Quincy, and we hope that it will meet with a like gratifying response.

THE GREAT ORGAN. We would inform our readers who have not had the opportunity of visiting Music Hall and seeing the "elephant" that there is a chance offered every Wednesday and Saturday, between twelve and one o'clock. Also Sunday evening at seven o'clock. Mr. James Pearce, of the Quebec Cathedral, is organist to-day and to-morrow. Our readers will remember that this is the largest organ in this country, and is a wonder of itself to say nothing of the sweet music produced by its performers.

A NOVELTY. An iron letter has just been sent by mail from Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, to England. The iron was rolled so thin that the sheet was only twice the weight of a similar sized sheet of ordinary note paper. It is supposed to be the thinnest iron ever rolled in the world, and was manufactured by the Sligo Iron Works.

THE FARMER'S ALMANAC. To-day closes the year 1864, and to-morrow we commence a new voyage. To be sure and keep up with the times we should have a safe and valuable guide—the Old Farmer's Almanac. Those who have not obtained this indispensable article can find a few more left at the Quincy Bookstore.

Tom. I say, Bill, I know now why you voted the Republican ticket!

Bill. Why, Tom, how did you find out?

Tom. I saw the Income Tax List.

Bill. Funny, wasn't it?

While Dr. Samuel Johnson was courting his intended wife, in order to try her he said that he had no property, and once had an uncle that was hanged. To which the lady replied that she had no more property, and although she never had a relative that was hanged she had a number that deserved to be.

A. T. Stewart, the New York dry goods man, lately paid an income tax of $250,000 upon a net income of $5,000,000. He does a business of $30,000,000 a year has $14,000,000 invested in real estate, and is one of the richest men in the world. Indeed, it is doubtful if anybody is richer than he.

Mills have been erected in various parts of Connecticut for grinding the sorghum and making the syrup from it; and its culture is increasing in that state.

The Macon (Ga.) Telegraph of Nov. 28th says: "We noticed on the street yesterday a one-horse wagon, containing exactly six sticks of pine wood, for which the modest sum of thirty dollars was demanded."

A dispatch from Dubuque, Iowa, says that the report of the crops give the number of bushels of wheat raised in Iowa this year at 12,000,000 bushels and of corn 55,250,000 bushels, being an increase of 20,000,000 over last year.

The Randolph National Bank (late Randolph Bank) pays, Jan. 2, 1865, an extra dividend of twenty-five per cent, from surplus profits of old bank, and increases its capital, by new subscription, $50,000.

CLOTHING. We would invite the attention of our readers, who visit Boston in pursuit of Clothing, to the excellent assortment always kept at BENNETT & Co.'s, 14 and 15 Dock Square. They use the best of stock and put their garments together in a manner unsurpassed by any in the city.

VERY CONVENIENT. It is suggested that the government, instead of providing three cent currency, as is proposed, should issue three cent copper coins. According to the present standard they would be but about two-thirds the size of the old copper coin; nine cents in representative value being only equal in weight to two of the original coppers.

A FINE INCOME. Since June of last year, United States Marshal Keyes has paid over to the United States Treasurer, as the proceeds of captured blockade runners adjudicated at Boston, over $5,000,000.

ECLIPSES. There will be two eclipses of the moon and one of the sun, in 1865,—all visible in this section,—and one of the sun, invisible. Those of the moon take place on the 10th of April and 4th of October, and that of the sun, October 19th.

FRANK'S CAMPAIGN. By H. Alger, Jr.—We heartily recommend this boy's book for the times. It is enough of a story to secure undivided attention from beginning to end; and contains lessons for the profit of both old and young. It is well spiced with fun. This division could not be undertaken until the lists of persons liable to enrollment, to be made by the assessors of the several cities and towns, as provided for by the 3d section of said Act, had been received. These returns, required by the terms of the Act to be filed with the Adjutant-General, on or before the 10th day of July last, were not, in point of fact, all received until more than two months later; and this delay, with the great imperfections of the returns, and the necessary labor involved in their examination and classification, have rendered it impossible to establish and promulgate the division of the Commonwealth into Military-Company Districts at an earlier moment.

It is to be remembered that, while since the year 1840 the annual lists made by the assessors have hitherto been the only attempt at an enrollment of the militia made in the State, it is, under the present law, merely a basis for the formation of Company Districts, and the election of Captains of Companies, by whom the real and binding enrollment, in conformity with the laws of the United States, is to be made. The whole machinery by which the constitutional militia of the State is to be organized, and the duties of the militia, first, to fall into divisions, and then, having been divided, it could not be revised or re-established and made efficient without many preliminary steps, of which these returns by the assessors were the first; and as great accuracy was not expected in these returns, and the first division of the Commonwealth into Military Districts would, under any circumstances, and however perfect the returns on which it was based, undoubtedly require remodeling, from the numbers who will claim exemption for physical disabilities which could not be known to the assessors; from the number who will enlist in volunteer companies when they find themselves forced to do duty, from the numbers lately released from the United States service in 100-day regiments, and other causes, which must with a correct enrollment, greatly modify the numbers ultimately found liable to duty in the active militia in the different cities and towns; this subdivision of the State into Districts is not intended to be final and permanent. Such alterations in the bounds of the several companies, as circumstances may hereafter require, will be made by the Commander-in-Chief, from time to time, in accordance with Section 110 of 23rd Chapter of the Acts of 1864.

In the cases of cities and towns to which more than one company is allotted, the limits of the several districts into which they are to be subdivided will be established by the Adjutant-General, upon consultation with the assessors and selectmen of these places, no data being furnished by the returns upon which such division can be made, at present. The authorities of such cities and towns are requested to give their prompt attention to this important matter.

By order of His Excellency JOHN A. ANDREWS, Governor and Commander-in-Chief.

WILLIAM SCHOUER,
Adjutant-General.

STURGIS'
ELECTRIC COMPOUND,
An Effectual External Remedy for

NEURALGIA
—AND—
RHEUMATISM.

ALSO, INVALUABLE FOR
Spinal Irritation, Ague in the Face
Toothache, Pain in the Side,
Back, and Limbs, Ear,
Ague, &c.
Among the Advantages of this Medicine are the following:—
Its effect is very rapid—in most cases instantaneous.
It is internal in its application, and the patient runs no risk in using it. It does not strike to the stomach.
It reaches the nerves and muscles, as it is believed no other medicine does.
It has cured some of the most violent and obstinate cases of Neuralgia ever known.
It can be used on a child or an aged person alike.
While it is very powerful, it is perfectly harmless.
The proprietor has been allowed to publish the names of many persons who have used the Compound, and a severe attack of Neuralgia, the severest of which has caused me to be in "perfect agony" both night and day. Having heard of Sturgis' Electric Compound from a "companion in arms," I was induced to give it a trial, which had the happy effect to immediately cure me. I am surprised that surgeons do not have it in the army, as there is a constant demand for such a valuable relief. I make this statement for the public good, and I have no scruples about your using this as a recommendation to other victims of this painful disorder.
Yours, respectfully,
JOSEPH H. HOUGHTON,
Co. D, 43d Reg't Mass. Vols.

REMARKABLE CURE OF NEURALGIA.—The following letter, (unolicited,) was received by the proprietor in May last.
CAPT ROBERTS, Newbury, May 6, 1863.
Dear Sir: I have been for some weeks suffering from a severe attack of Neuralgia, the severest of which has caused me to be in "perfect agony" both night and day. Having heard of Sturgis' Electric Compound from a "companion in arms," I was induced to give it a trial, which had the happy effect to immediately cure me. I am surprised that surgeons do not have it in the army, as there is a constant demand for such a valuable relief. I make this statement for the public good, and I have no scruples about your using this as a recommendation to other victims of this painful disorder.

DR. S. O. RICHARDSON'S
BLOOD-ROOT ELIXIR
Has been thoroughly tested and proved in his medical practice, for a period of THIRTY YEARS, and is now presented to the public as an effectual cure for

COSTIVENESS.
And the Best Remedy ever prepared for Diseases of the Liver,
SCROFULA,
All Humors and Impurities of the Blood and Diseases of the Skin.

The preparing and combining the BLOOD-ROOT ELIXIR is attended with results to medical science next in importance to inhalation of ether in surgery. Roots and plants, in themselves pungent and disagreeable, are by a new and scientific process of extracting (in vacuo) rendered MORE EFFECTIVE IN THEIR OPERATION, entirely divested of the gripping and distressing pain which attends the action of all other purgative medicine.—They are also made to become highly
PLEASANT AND AGREEABLE TO THE TASTE,
and by their peculiar combination, work so perfectly in HARMONY WITH NATURE that no unpleasant reaction will follow its operation. It also possesses
which can only be obtained by medicine in a fluid state. These are new elements in purgative medicines.
The BLOOD-ROOT ELIXIR has no partial action upon the bowels, but is equally diffused there, and throughout the whole circulation of the Blood, imparting a healthy and invigorating action to the STOMACH and BOWELS, LIVER, LUNGS, KIDNEYS, and gently stimulating dormant and morbid secretions throughout the whole system.
A single dose will produce a cheerful and exhilarating COMOTION, which will inspire the patient with confidence, and assurance of IMMEDIATE RELIEF. A continuance for a short period will DRIVE the disease and hidden humors to the surface of the skin, and relieve or check SCROFULOUS AFFECTIONS—and by thus purifying and strengthening the Blood, will remove the most fruitful

CAUSE OF CONSUMPTION.
It cures the various organs of the system, to act their allotted part, removing the causes which induce RHEUMATISM and NEURALGIA, HEADACHE, LOSS OF APETITE, DYSPEPSIA, COSTIVENESS, and the various diseases which arise from a derangement of the Stomach and Bowels, and restricted circulation of the Blood.
See the pamphlet around each bottle for a history of the Elixir.
The proprietor of the BLOOD-ROOT ELIXIR, (Dr. S. O. Richardson) has been long and favorably known to the public by his celebrated SWEET WINE BITTERS, the best tonic medicine ever discovered, and which has been in use over thirty years. He is a graduate of the New Hampshire Medical College, and many years a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society, and has made the study of medicine his profession since 1820.
And so fully convinced is the Doctor of the wonderful curative effects of his BLOOD-ROOT ELIXIR that he hereby offers to each and every person who will use ONE HALF OF A BOTTLE of his ELIXIR, and be not conscious of a good effect thereon, to refund to said person the FULL amount which he paid for the same, by returning the utage bottle to his office.
Price $1.50 per Bottle.
Sold in Quincy by MRS. E. HAYDEN, and by dealers in medicine generally, and at the
DOCTOR'S OFFICE,
51 Hanover Street, Boston.

EVERY KIND OF HUMOR!
and is so permeating that mothers nursing may keep their own and their infants' blood pure by its use. All suffering from Nervous Complaints, Incipient Consumption, Palpitations and General Debility will find it give them RENEWED LIFE and VIGOR.
FOR SKIN DISEASES—it is especially suited, as it soon eradicates all blotches, pimples, &c., and imparts the Brilliance of Health to the Complexion.
Where irritation of the Lungs and Cough attend the diseases named, the exsiccant and soothing effect of the Syrup ensures relief and cures, and strengthens the system.
No case of failure of the SYRUP has ever been known where its use has been persevered in. It might be easy to enter into learned scientific theories. We prefer to lay a plain story of facts before the sufferers who seek relief, therefore we now offer this Simple Vegetable Compound which cannot harm and certainly cures.
PRICE, $1 per Bottle—or $5 for Six Bottles.
